Quick Action Days.
A Day of Prayer.
The Robin's Reflection.
Canned Blood for Sale.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

UNDER President Roosevelt come days of "quick action." The beer bill is a beer law now, everything signed and ready, including internal revenue stamps, and many new beer glasses. Fourteen million dollars worth of new buildings, for brewers, are now under way in New York City alone.

You may drink all the beer that is good for you not later than April 7, in all but dry states, and you may get it, properly made, for five cents a glass.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT'S farm relief measure passed the House of Representatives by a big margin, and goes to the Senate. Meanwhile, President Roosevelt is rushing his bill for relief of the idle. He asks Congress and labor groups to discuss it with him.

The suggestion that 250,000 men be employed in national forests is objected to by Chairman Connery of the House Labor Committee, because the suggested pay, one dollar a day, is too low a wage scale for unskilled labor.

Such low pay would be inadequate. But if the government would feed the men, as it feeds soldiers, extremely well, for about thirty cents a day, letting the men send all their earnings to their families, it would be better than nothing.

ATTACKS ON Jews continue in Germany, according to news dispatches and private information. International News supplies a photograph taken in Munich of a Jewish resident, walking with bare head and bare feet through the streets, accompanied by policemen and carrying a sign reading:

"I shall never again complain to the police."

He had reported that Hitler troops had beaten him. Following his compulsory walk through the streets, he was ejected from the city.

JEWS COMPLAIN that prominent Jews have been abducted by Nazi troopers, their bodies found later riddled with bullets. Wilhelm Spieger, a Jewish lawyer, candidate at the municipal elections, is said to have been shot down in cold blood, while Alfred Apfel, another lawyer, president of the Zionist organization in Berlin, arrested after the burning of the Reichstag building, was tortured to death.

In addition, all Jewish members are dropped from the German civil service, and all Jewish employes from hospitals, health institutions and other public departments.

THREE ORTHODOX rabbinical associations of America proclaim next Monday "a day of fasting in protest against the persecutions of the Jews in Germany." The solemn fast will call attention to conditions, as will the mass meeting to be held afterward, but cannot be expected to produce much in the way of results across the ocean.

Something more energetic, and nearer to Berlin, is called for.

TO TURN your mind from sad thoughts, consider a small robin, resident of Kansas City, Mo. He returned from somewhere thirteen days ago and saw his reflection, very distinct, in an office window.

First, he decided to be friendly, then became indignant. Every day for thirteen days he has fought that shadow robin savagely. He beat his wings, feet and beak against the glass, is apparently not seriously injured, his courage is undiminished, and he feels that he is making headway.

A nation of 123 millions that has been fighting a deep depression in much the same fashion for more than three years need not criticize that robin.

MOST IMPORTANT to medical science is a discovery by Russians announced by Dr. Alan Hirsh, consultant of the Soviet heavy chemical trust, just returned from abroad. Human blood canned, with a slight quantity of magnesium sulphate, can be used for transfusion, after being kept for weeks.

Experimenting first with dogs, the Russian scientist made successful experiments with the blood of a man killed in Moscow. It must be blood from a living person or one just killed.

BLOOD TRANSFUSION is one of the most valuable forces of modern medical science, the only hope in certain cases of poisoning by streptococci and other infections.

Soon you may see the strange sign, "Human blood for transfusion," taking you back to the remedies of mediaeval days, and Macbeth's witches.

THE "JONES BILL," biggest relief measure mentioned thus far, is urged by Mr. Rainey, speaker of the House. It involves a THIRTY THOUSAND MILLION DOLLAR UNITED STATES BOND ISSUE to scale down mortgage interest rates.

The thirty billion dollar bill would enable those that hold mortgages on farms to change the mortgages for United States bonds, paying a low interest rate.

Mr. Rainey says:

"This would cost the government nothing."

The bonds would be retired as farmers paid off their mortgages, paying to the United States government instead of the former owners of mortgages.

The latter would get, instead of sometimes doubtful mortgages, the best security in the world, at a lower interest, with peace of mind.

HITLER MADE DICTATOR OF GERMANY

Promises 'Barbaric Severity' Against Opponents

By EDWARD L. DEUSS
International News Service.

BERLIN, March 23.—Adolf Hitler, once an obscure Austrian house painter and long a political outlaw, became supreme dictator of Germany tonight.

Chancellor Hitler won his long battle for unrestricted power when the Reichstag bowed to his demands and passed an enabling act granting him dictatorial prerogatives for a period of four years.

The action, which gives Hitler powers equivalent to those of Stalin and Mussolini, came by vive voce vote, after the Chancellor had made an impassioned address in which he announced a campaign of "barbaric severity" against all guilty of treason.

SUBJUGATION

In recognition of the fact that world atention has been focused upon the treatment of Jewish citizens in Germany, Chancellor Hitler lost no time in reiterating that the Nazi creed demands subjugation of Semitic interests to the interests of the nation at large. He said:

"The government recognized that both Christian churches are most important to the foundation of the national spirit of education.

"All other creeds and races will be treated with impartial justice.

"But membership in a certain creed or race does not absolve its members from their obligation to the state, and does not give a blanket sanction to the commission of crimes."

Hitler declared in his peroration of his speech:

"Treason against the German nation and people in the future will be exterminated with barbarian ruthlessness.

"This is the century of heroism. Art and literature must

JEWS WILL USE MEMORIAL HALL

County Commissioners C. M. Barr and W. D. Mansfield today threw their supportto Jewish citizens who reported they had been refused use of Memorial Hall for a protest meeting Monday night against atrocities against Jews in Germany.

The Commissioners authorized a letter sent special delivery to C. H. William Ruhe, manager of the hall, stating that the Commissioners desired the request be granted.

This action was taken after a delegation appealed to the Commissioners, saying they had called on Ruhe at the hall Tuesday and that he had agreed to allow use of the hall, but later changed his mind when he learned the purpose of the meeting.

Ruhe contended the delegation reported that the meeting was political in character and was to protest the action of a foreign government.

Sandy Must Die, Judge Decides

CONDEMNED SANDY

MONGREL DOG'S APPEAL FAILS

Sandy must die.

The soulful-eyed mongrel that has been the central figure in a court drama to save him from a sentence of death for biting John Zawaski, 5, of 117 Elder street, North Versailles Township, lost his legal fight today when Visiting Judge S. L. Reed, of Cambria County, refused a petition to set aside the death sentence.

The dog must be killed, or its master, Frank Serchan, of 196 Elder street, paroled for six months after pleading guilty to a charge of keeping a ferocious dog, may be charged with violating his parole.

Judge Samuel H. Gardner had granted a stay of execution on petition of Attorney Charles D. Coll, brought into the case by an interested Carrick woman. But Judge Reed ruled that only the intervention of the mother of the boy who was attacked could save the dog's life.

No date for the execution has been set. And no method of carrying out the sentence has been specified.

Attorney Coll, informed of the judge's decision, declared he was "up against a stone wall."

Sandy's owner, through Coll, had petitioned the court to amend the sentence to exile the dog to another locality, on the ground that he is not a vicious dog and liked children.

Protest on Persecutions Of Jews Sweeps U. S.

NEW YORK, March 23.—(INS.)—Sweeping across the nation with the speed of a prairie fire, the protest against persecution of Jews in Germany assumed country-wide proportions today as plans were completed for holding mass meetings in 300 cities to denounce the persecution.

The largest of these will be held at Madison Square Garden Monday night, when more than 20,000 Jews and Christians are expected to jam their way into the big bowl to hear a distinguished group of nationally known speakers, Jews, Catholics and Protestants, both clerics and laymen, declare against the anti-Semitic campaign of the German Nazis.

Similar protests were planned in other cities in practically every section of the country, Jewish leaders here announced. Everywhere, they said, the indignation aroused by the Hitler government's anti-Jewish activities was shared almost equally by

STATE BEER 'HOLIDAY' OPPOSED

Bill Offered to Make Sales Legal as Other Regulations Pend

HARRISBURG, March 23.—Provision for sale of beer so there may be no "holiday" in Pennsylvania while the state's regulatory machinery is being set up was contained in a bill introduced in the Legislature today.

Representative Clinton A. Sowers, Philadelphia, introduced a measure which would permit sales direct from the brewery to the consumer until other regulating legislation is enacted. Importation from other states and retail sales would be prohibited so long as the temporary act is in effect.

The provision is in a proposed general beverage law to regulate the sale of beer, wine and whisky. The liquor provision would be effective only in the event the Eighteenth Amendment repealer is ratified by the states.

SALES BY BREWERIES

Beer purchases would be made direct from the breweries, either by the case or not less than a quarter of a keg. The bill states specifically that brewers need not obtain permits from the State Alcohol Permit Board, but must procure them from the State Treasurer. The permit board is controlled by the Governor.

Beer and wine license fees for two years would be devoted to unemployment relief under the terms of a bill introduced by Representative Harry P. O'Neill, Dunmore.

The Sowers liquor commission bill, as now written, makes no provision for the use of license fees. It stipulates that 10 per cent of fees shall go into the general fund of the state, 40 per cent to the county of origin, and 50 per cent to the municipality in which the license is held.

O'Neill estimates the revenue

MARKETS SHOW UPWARD TREND

Stock markets showed a burst of optimism this morning as business celebrated the prospects for stimulated activity expected from the revival of the brewing industry.

Stocks on the New York Exchange, after five days' weakness, showed a burst of activity and advanced from 1 to 4 points. Trading was active. During the afternoon part of the gains were lost, but the leading issues still were a point to two higher than at the close yesterday.

For details of trading in all markets see finance pages.

Would Lift German Immigration Bars

HARRISBURG, March 23.—(AP.)—Representative J. M Flinchburg, York, today introduced a resolution urging Congress to lift immigration restrictions to permit German nationalists to enter this country.

The resolution points to the civil strife in Germany and the political differences in that country which have resulted in prejudices against those of political faiths and religious creeds differing from ruling leaders.

The resolution went over for amendment.

Mussolini Heralds Era of Fascism

ROME, March 23.—(INS.)—Opening of an era of "Fascist civilization" was heralded by Premier Mussolini today in a message to his followers on the fourteenth anniversary of the foundation of Fascism. He said:

"Fascist Italy reaches the peaks of her new history. She can give lessons from her ancient and modern wisdom to other peoples, opening a period of Fascist civilization."

MORATORIUM SOUGHT ON MORTGAGES

Pinchot Asks Stay On Foreclosures in Pennsylvania

HARRISBURG, March 23.—Gov. Pinchot today issued a proclamation designed to stay mortgage foreclosures while the Legislature speeded action to provide for the state's immediate unemployment relief needs.

The Governor's proclamation urged holders of mortgages to suspend foreclosures and asked the courts to "discourage" such executions "to whatever extent they may legally and properly do so."

Simultaneously the administration submitted to the Legislature a bill authorizing Courts of Common Pleas to stay writs of execution.

The measure would give courts "the discretion of a chancellor sitting in equity" and provides further:

"It shall be a sufficient reason for the grant of a stay hereunder that immediate execution sale against the real property would work serious inequity by reason of the economic emergency."

The Governor, in his proclamation, says "justice and mercy recommend this course; the welfare and safety of the state demand it."

The House of Representatives, meeting alone in the first Thursday session of the year, passed on second reading the Talbot $2,000,000 appropriation for state aid to the jobless and made it a special order of business for 9:30 p. m. Monday. The measure would provide relief funds for April and May.

Gollmar Took Lead In Foreclosure Ban

Gov. Pinchot's proclamation asking the suspension of executions based on mortgages and judgments against real estate during the present economic emergency already has been met in Allegheny County through the action of Sheriff Frank I. Gollmar who has declared a moratorium on sheriff's sales until April 3.

Gollmar, in support of his action, succeeded in getting a resolution through the Legislature staying and adjourning all sales for that period.

In this action, Gollmar declares he has had the unanimous support of the attorneys representing the holders of the mortgages. He said:

"The members of the bar have proved their spirit and it has been very fine. All have accepted the condition gracefully."

State Bond Issue Measure Advanced

HARRISBURG, March 23.—(INS.)—A House committee today reported favorable the constitutional amendment proposing a $25,000,000 bond issue to help meet the expenses of the state government during the next two years. The amendment was passed at the last special session, and if passed again it will go to the voters in November.

Suing for Pool Injuries

MISS EMMA STORTO . . . . SUING THE COUNTY FOR $25,000

Miss Storto, 76 Flowers avenue, Hazelwood, injured in the South Park swimming pool last July 4 when she pulled a loose stone from the side wall and fell, today through Attorney Louis Little suing the county for $25,000 damages. This is a Sun-Telegraph picture.

QUIT IN WEEK, KLINE OUTLOOK

While Mayor Kline was being examined in Allegheny General Hospital by three physicians, the formal petition asking that the six months' jail term against him be wiped out was mailed to Judge Thomas D. Finletter in Philadelphia.

This petition quotes the Mayor's physicians as agreeing that he is too ill to go to jail.

If the hospital examination confirms this report on the Mayor, District Attorney Andrew T. Park will not oppose the lighter sentence in return for the Mayor's resignation. Park said he may have this second report tomorrow, so the Mayor may be out of office early next week.

In the hospital today the Mayor refused breakfast.

Two city detectives, Capt. Frank R. Boyd and Edward McEntee, guarded his suite.

Fight to Extradite Insull Resumed

TORONTO, March 23.—(AP.)—Extradition proceedings against Martin J. Insull were resumed today before Justice A. C. Kingstone of the Ontario Supreme Court.

Mr. Insull, former utilities official, is under indictment in Cook County, Illinois, on charges of larceny, embezzlement and theft by bailee in connection with the collapse of the Middle West Utilities Company.

Lorimer, Old Illinois Political Leader, Ill

CHICAGO, March 23.—(AP.)—William Lorimer, a power in Illinois politics a quarter of a century ago, is seriously ill at his home, suffering from heart disease. He is 72 years old.

His physicians, Dr. Leo Hardt, sounded a hopeful note for his patient, however, when he said Mr. Lorimer has "great reparative powers."

'FUGITIVE' ENDS LIFE IN CELL

BUTTE, Mont., March 23.—(AP.)—Harry Bushnell, fugitive from a Michigan prison camp arrested here a week ago, committed suicide in the county jail today by poisoning.

Bushnell, who came west and married a Butte girl after his escape in 1918, was captured through a reward offer made by a crime magazine.

Two officers were due here today to return him to Michigan for completion of his sentence and for questioning in the slayings of a man and woman which coincided closely with his escape from prison.

Bushnell's wife was ignorant of his past record until his arrest. Yesterday she began circulating a petition for a pardon among Butte residents with an idea of presenting it to the Governor of Michigan.

The fugitive had waived extradition and declared he would complete his term. He denied knowledge of the deaths of the man and woman whose bodies were found near the prison the day after his escape.

DRAIN CITIES OF IDLE IS U. S. AIM

Miss Perkins Defends Conservation 'Army' Before Congress

WASHINGTON, March 23.—(AP.)—Secretary Dern said today one of the first steps in carrying out President Roosevelt's reforestation relief plan would be to drain Pittsburgh, Chicago, Detroit, Cleveland and similar congested districts of jobless men.

While Miss Frances Perkins was telling a joint session of the House and Senate labor committees of the purposes of the measure before them, Secretary Dern related that plans were under way for recruiting the jobless in the industrial cities of the county into a civilian conservation corps.

DEFENDS PROGRAM

Miss Perkins, in her first appearance as Secretary of Labor before a congressional committee, entered into a give and take cross-examination by committee members and defended the program from the charge that it would tend to reduce the wage standard for unskilled labor.

She called it a relief plan and not an employment program, and said that employers had realized that the purchasing power of wage earners must be sustained if business was to prosper.

Under the plans being formulated for putting the plan into action after it is enacted, Dern said the Labor Department would enroll unemployed volunteers, the War Department would organize them into units and the Agriculture Department would conduct the camps and supervise the work.

Miss Perkins said the bill would provide "a practical form of work relief for 200,000 or 250,000 men." She added:

"It will put 200,000 men to work within a few months. Some employment at least could be given by the end of April or the first of May."

BOON FOR UNMARRIED

Miss Perkins said the plan would be particularly beneficial to young and unmarried men who have not been taken care of by existing relief facilities. She said:

"We have an accumulation of people in the large cities who have been living by their wits."

Chairman Connery, of the House committee, suggested a connection between the plan and sweatshop condition. Miss Perkins said:

"This is not to be regarded as an attempt to start a sweatshop labor program, nor can it be used to depress the wages of labor."

The bill, Miss Perkins said, would not put men to work at $1 a day on jobs now done by $3 labor. She said:

"This will put men to work on projects that would not be undertaken in the next 10 years."

U. S. to Protect Jap Envoy in N. Y.

WASHINGTON, March 23.—(AP.)—Undersecretary Phillips said today the State Department had acted on its own initiative and not at the request of the Japanese Embassy in telephoning Edward P. Mulrooney, New York Police Commissioner, to provide police protection for Yosuke Matsuoka, Japanese delegate to the League of Nations, on his arrival from Europe tomorrow.

Court Turns to Verse To Cheer Tooter's Wife

Magistrate Leo Rothenberg recited a poem in Central Police Court today, probably the first time a verse ever recited in this court, with or without casualty.

The magistrate bared the poetry in his soul to bring comfort to a saxophone player's wife—Mrs. William Porter, 28, who took a dose of sleeping tablets a few days ago, so the police said, after a petty argument with her husband, who toots the saxophone in Smith Ballew's orchestra at the William Penn Hotel.

Veteran court attaches popped their eyes in astonishment when the magistrate announced that he was going to recite a poem he had read once in a book.

No idle threatener, Rothenberg sent the clear, sympathetic tones of his voice bouncing against the walls of the courtroom. Recited he:

"Never despair when there is fog in the air,
For you can never tell when sunshine
Will come to you without warning."

A desperate search of anthologies failed to reveal the author's identity, although it is possible he may now be moving about under an alias.

The case was dismissed.

EUROPE PLANS NEW DRIVE TO CANCEL DEBTS TO U. S.

GREAT BRITAIN, FRANCE JOIN AS LEADERS

Threaten to Defeat Trade Parley to Gain Objective

By HARRY K. REYNOLDS
International News Service.

LONDON, March 23.—Determined upon success, America's European debtors will revive their drive for cancellation of foreign debts within a month.

This became apparent today as International News Service learned from an exclusive diplomatic source that America's debtors plan to go to almost any lengths to force acceptance of their debt cancellation program.

MAY NULLIFY PARLEY

With Great Britain and France strictly maintaining their united front, it was disclosed, the nations of Europe will even refuse to ratify any results of the forthcoming economic conference which might prejudice the Lausanne agreement.

According to the terms of the Lausanne agreement, German reparations were reduced to a dime-on-the-dollar basis.

This arrangement, however, was made contingent on cancellation or reduction of the debts owed the United States.

From an unimpeachable authority, International News Service learned the decision to bind the world economic conference by the terms of the Lausanne agreement was the most important of several agreements reached between Great Britain and France during the conversations between Chancellor of the Exchequer Neville Chamberlain and Finance Minister Bonnet.

MacDONALD PLAN

This decision, it was disclosed, was made in an attempt to carry forward the plan originated by Prime Minister MacDonald to make the chief task of the world economic conference ratification of the Lausanne agreement with concurrence of the United States.

This plan is contingent upon a united Anglo-French debt front, and it was learned the two nations will work in close concert on the basis of the gentlemen's agreement, despite the desire of President Roosevelt to treat with each foreign nation separately on the debt question.

M'DONALD ASKS U. S. TO BACK ALLIANCE

4-Power Pact Needs American Aid, He Says

International News Service.

LONDON, March 23. — A direct appeal to the United States to accept and encourage the four-power plan of European peace was made in the House of Commons today by Prime Minister J. Ramsay MacDonald.

The Premier declared:

"I hope that co-operation will not be confined to the four powers. The co-operation in Europe must be of such a form and spirit that it can draw to it the sympathy and aid of our friends beyond the Atlantic."

Earlier in his address, MacDonald said the four-power plan for control of European peace is designed "to remove the causes for war in Europe."

The Premier, co-author with Premier Mussolini of Italy of the project which already has aroused opposition by the smaller nations, reviewed in detail his efforts to save the disarmament conference from collapse. He said:

"With Europe in a nervous condition, the one thing that could save us all was well-founded confidence in each other.

"Learning that Premier Mussolini would welcome a meeting, I went to Rome and was handed a document showing that Mussolini's mind is running on an effective policy of collaboration between the four western powers to maintain peace in the spirit of the Kellogg pact."

MacDonald explained that Mussolini's plan was to insure European co-operation within the framework of the League of Nations and existing treaties.

SENATE SIFTS BANK PROBE LAXITY

Harriman Case Data Forwarded to Counsel

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, March 2[illegible] —A preliminary investigation into the failure of the Department of Justice under former Attorney General William D. Mitchell to prosecute cases involving criminal law violations by New York bankers was launched today by the Senate Banking and Currency Committee.

The inquiry was begun on instructions of Senator Fletcher (Dem.), of Florida, chairman of the Senate Banking and Currency Committee.

Fletcher forwarded to Ferdinand Pecora, counsel for the committee in its New York Stock Exchange probe, data bearing on the Justice Department's alleged laxness in proceeding against officials of the Harriman Bank of New York City, which has closed.

Mitchell Income Tax Inquiry Pressed

NEW YORK, March 23.—(INS.)—A federal grand jury today continued its investigation into the alleged income tax evasion of Charles E. Mitchell, former chairman of the National City Bank board, charged with dishing the federal government out of $657,152.40 due as income tax in 1929.

Mitchell was free in $10,000 bail pending a hearing on the charges before United States Commissioner Frances A. O'Neill on March 28. He was arrested at his home Tuesday night on instructions from Attorney General Cummings in Washington.

The warrant was based on revelations made by Mitchell before a Senate investigating committee recently that he had sold 18,300 shares of National City Bank stock to his wife in December, 1929, and later purchased it back, at a loss of $2,800,000.

This loss was recorded on his income tax return, with the result that he paid no income tax for that year, although he had an income of $2,823,405.85.

Horace C. Sylvester, Jr., former vice president of the National City Bank, has already been indicted by a grand jury as a result of revelations made before the Senate investigating committee.

The indictment was found by a New York County grand jury in connection with Sylvester's loan from bank funds of $10,020 to John E. Ramsey, general manager of the Port of New York Authority in June, 1931, soon after the bank had participated in underwriting a $66,000,000 issue of Port Authority bonds.

WALKER DECREE WAITS JUDGE

MIAMI, Fla., March 23.—(AP.)—A. Frank Katzentine, attorney for Mrs. Janet Allen Walker, said he would not apply today to Circuit Judge Worth W. Trammell, for her final decree of divorce from James J. Walker, former Mayor of New York City.

The divorce was recommended yesterday by Master in Chancery T. J. Dowdell, who heard evidence in the case Tuesday.

Katzentine said usual Florida procedure is to leave a master's recommendation in the hands of a judge 10 days, but that he believed Benjamin Cohen, attorney for Walker, would waive this and permit issuance of a decree earlier.

Mayor Walker was not present at the hearing, at which his wife charged he "just left" her four years ago. He is now in Cannes, France.

COURT DEFENDS BRASLEY

Judge James R. Macfarlane lost patience today in the disbarment proceedings brought by the Allegheny County Bar Association against Attorney Ben Paul Brasley. When Attorney Joseph A. Richardson, for the bar association, sought to introduce certain office records of Brasley's, Judge Macfarlane declared:

"Even if a man is charged with something, there are some things that are private. We have refrained from making any remarks about this case, but our patience has become exhausted."

Judge Frank P. Patterson added that too much emphasis was being placed on irrelevant things.

Brasley's partner, Attorney Harry Rubin, testified he had never seen B. K. McKnight, a "runner," in their offices. McKnight previously testified he had an agreement with Brasley and Rubin whereby he was to get one-third of the firm's fees on any cases he brought in.

ASK NEW TRIAL FOR BARDOLPH

Contending that the court erred in refusing to postpone the trial because of public prejudice against bankers due to the banking holiday, Attorney Charles B. Prichard today filed a motion for a new trial in behalf of Charles A. Bardolph, president of the closed Franklin Savings and Trust Company.

Bardolph was found guilty last week of making false entries in the books of the bank. Sentence was deferred by Judge W. H. McNaugher.

Prichard also set forth in his motion that the court erred in locking up the jury during the trial. He reserved right to file additional reasons later.

Roosevelt Fills 2 Jobs—Tariff, Radio

WASHINGTON, March 23.—(AP.)—President Roosevelt today appointed former Representative James W. Collier, of Mississippi, to the Tariff Commission, and James H. Hanley, of Nebraska, to the Radio Commission.

Boy Admits Slaying, Asks to Be Hanged

COLFAX, Wash., March 23.—(AP.)—Renold Brown, 17, of Towner, N. D., pleaded guilty yesterday to a charge of murder for the killing of David Barnum, 70, in a 14-cent holdup and asked that he be hanged instead of sentenced to life imprisonment.

Superior Judge R. L. McCroskey set April 4 for a trial by jury to fix the punishment.

Davis Says No Nation Dares End Arms Parley

NEW YORK, March 23.—(INS.)—No nation can afford to assume the moral responsibility for a failure of the Geneva disarmament conference, in the opinion of Norman H. Davis, head of the American delegation to this conference, who was en route to Europe today aboard the liner Manhattan.

Davis was accompanied by Allen Dulles, of New York, his legal adviser. He plans to confer with officials in London and Paris before going on to Geneva. Davis said:

"The necessity for orderly economic and military disarmament by concerted international action becomes more apparent each day. The widespread economic and political instability that exists today affects the welfare of all nations. It is, therefore, the duty and in the interests of every nation to contribute to a constructive solution."

Indiana Banker's Trial Set for May

Bulgaria to War On Communists

SOFIA Bulgaria, March 23.—(AP.)—Premier Nicholas Muschanoff today announced that the government was planning "new and severe measures" against Communism.

He pointed out that Communist propaganda recently had become more active, especially in schools and military garrisons.

U. S. STEEL CUTS OFFICE MEN

NEW YORK, March 23.—(INS.)—The United States Steel Corporation today announced the third salary reduction during the depression. Wages will not be affected, the corporation announced.

The salary reduction is 10 per cent and will be brought about by reducing the working hours of officials and other white collar workers. In explaining this action, the cohporation declared that other steel companies had adopted the "time off" plan in the last year and that it was merely falling in line.

The first salary cut was from 10 to 15 per cent and was made in July, 1931. The second was 15 per cent last May. Wages were cut 10 per cent in September, 1931, and 15 per cent in May, last year.

The corporation revealed at the same time that stockholders went to a new high record before the annual meeting on March 18.

Sinclair Lewis Lauds Roosevelt

KANSAS CITY, March 23.—(AP.)—Sinclair Lewis, the novelist, whose dislikes usually receive the emphasis, has found a man he likes immensely. Of President Roosevelt, he said on a visit here today:

"It's been our history that we have elected strong men who turned weak. Now we have found the weak man we elected last November has turned strong."

Dutch Historian Dies at Rotterdam

ROTTERDAM, Holland, March 23.—(AP.)—Dr. Anton Eekhof, eminent authority on the Pilgrim Fathers and Protestantism in America, died today. For 48 years he was professor of the history of Christianity at Leyden University.

State Censorship Of Magazines Asked

HARRISBURG, March 23.—(AP.)—A magazine censorship bureau in the Department of Public Instruction is advocated by Rep. Edward M. Long, Philadelphia. Long introduced a bill today to prevent the sale of obscene publications after January 1, 1934.

It provides that no magazines may be sold after that date unless registered with and approved by the Superintendent of Public Instruction. It empowers the superintendetn to prohibit sales of such publications and conduct hearings.

Two 'Friends' Take Trusting Woman's $7,500 Cash

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., March 23.—(AP.)—For four years Mrs. Helen Baker carried a little black bag containing $7,500.

Two men with whom Mrs. Baker says she left the bag while she visited her dentist are sought by police.

The money was collected from an insurance company after Mrs. Baker's husband was killed in a coal mine accident. The widow told officers she trusted the two men as friends.

PARLEY CALLED ON JOB RELIEF

WASHINGTON, March 23.—(AP.)—Secretary Frances Perkins, at the request of President Roosevelt, today issued invitations to a number of labor leaders and others interested to a conference here on unemployment relief measures on March 31.

William Green, the American Federation of Labor president who expressed disappointment at Miss Perkins' appointment as a cabinet member, headed the list of more than 30 officials of labor groups invited.

To be considered under "emergency items" are: Unemployment relief measures; a program of public works; short hours as a means of furthering employment; how to increase purchasing power of the wage earners; unemployment insurance; home mortgage problems of wage earners and unemployed; along with a canvass of possibilities of re-absorbing labor into its normal employments.

LIFE INSURANCE RATES RAISED

HARTFORD, Conn., March 23.—(AP.)—Increases of from 2 to 5 per cent in the rates of ordinary life insurance were announced today by three Connecticut stock life companies—the Travelers, the Aetna and the Connecticut General. The new rates will become effective April 1.

Frazier B. Wilde, vice president of the Connecticut General, said the changes affect only the guaranteed cost or non-participating rates and are confined principally to the middle age brackets.

J. C. Anderson, of the Aetna company, explained here that the increased rates which go into effect April 1 affect only new policies issued on or after that date. The increase is confined to some stock companies, he added, the mutual or participating companies having reduced their dividend, which he declared was equivalent.

J. N. Jamison, of the Reliance Life Company of Pittsburgh, which issues both non-participating and participating policies, and J. D. Van Scoten, of the Standard Life Insurance Company, a non-participating policy company, asserted they planned no change in rates at the present.

Soviet to Release Britishers on Bail

LONDON, March 23.—(INS.)—Soviet Russia deferred to an aroused British government today by agreeing to release on bail three of four British engineers held in Moscow on suspicion of espionage.

According to a statement issued by the Soviet embassy, the public prosecutor is willing to release the men from custody if Metropolitan-Vickers, Ltd., the firm by which they are employed, deposits 25,000 rubles as bail for one of them and 15,000 rubles each for the other two.

Bingham Approved As Ambassador

WASHINGTON, March 23.—(AP.)—Robert Worth Bingham, Louisville, Ky., newspaper publisher, today had the Senate's approval of his appointment as Ambassador to Great Britain.

The Senate confirmed the appointment late yesterday without discussion and by unanimous consent after Senator McNary, of Oregon, Republican leader, withdrew an objection that had blocked consideration earlier.

SCHOOL BILLS FACE DEFEAT

HARRISBURG, March 23.—Opposition to six educational bills affecting school subsidies and salaries grew in the House today. Rep. Chester H. Rhodes, Monroe, predi[illegible] House Democrats will oppose the measures, which will be considered under special order of business Monday night. Rhodes said:

"We are not going to penalize the people back home by reducing subsidies and allow politicians to continue with their extravagances."

The House today adopted a resolution of censure to school teachers of Hazelton for flooding the Legislature with communications protesting against proposed salary cuts. Each member of the House received a telegram signed by a committee of Hazelton school teachers. The telegram read:

"Sixty-two thousand Pennsylvania teachers expect you to vote against any bills affecting teachers' salaries and will have record of yeas and nays. Teachers in your legislative district will be strongly organized before next year's primaries to vote for friends at polls."

Legislative Banking Investigation Asked

HARRISBURG, March 23.—(AP.)—Banking conditions in the state would be investigated by a legislative committee under the terms of a resolution introduced today by Representative John E. Malins, Philadelphia.

The measure would create a committee of seven to inquire into bank and trust companies and report to the next Legislature.

Golden Rule in Driving Stressed by Lecturer

Application of the "Golden Rule" of driving—to drive your automobile as you would have others drive theirs—is the keynote of a series of lectures being delivered by J. Russell Craig, safety expert, to Pennsylvania grade school students.

Among the factors stressed are the prevention of accidents due to ignorance of the state motor code, and carelessness and lack of sportsmanship on the part of the motorist.

Trying to beat the other driver to the intersection is a major factor in automobile accidents, Craig says. Prevention of accidents of this type lies in simply observing the rules of common courtesy, he believes.

Carelessnes is illustrated by failure to realize how many feet per second the automobile is traveling, the distance it takes it to stop, realization that the foot does not strike the brake pedal as soon as danger is recognized, and disregard for the general physical conditions, such as the condition of the roadway, speed of other vehicles and mechanical condition of cars.

The first of the lecture series was delivered this week to the Connelley Trade School, Westinghouse High School and Perry High School students. Craig is identified with the Pennsylvania Indemnity Corporation.

Pershing Defies Doctor To Address Veterans

TUCSON, Ariz., March 23.—(AP.)—A doctor's order is secondary to Gen. John J. Pershing when it comes to greeting former comrades of the service.

The commander of the American Expeditionary Forces during the World War, disregarding his physician's instructions, visited the United States Veterans' Bureau Hospital here yesterday.

After Gen. Pershing made a brief speech, one veteran said:

"The General was not himself. He had difficulty in getting his words out. I have heard him speak before, and the difference was very noticeable."

The General, since coming here from the East recently, has been in seclusion. He is suffering a throat infection which caused his physicians to prescribe rest and quiet.

700 COAL MINERS IN 'GRAVE' FIFTH DAY TO SAVE JOBS

POLES APPEAL FOR HELP OF GOVERNMENT

Strikers Court Death As Children, Wives Picket Pitheads

WARSAW, Poland, March 23.—(AP.)—More than 700 coal miners at Klimontow, defying death to save their jobs, have begun their fifth successive day in dark, damp pits underground.

They refused to come to the surface unless the government guaranteed their jobs. From Saturday until last night the striking miners refused food.

They finally broke their fast as they began their fifth night in the mine shafts after previously declining food which had been taken down to them. But instead of coming out, they decided to send representatives here to present their pleas to the government.

The mine operators had announced plans to flood the shafts in which the men worked and to prevent this action the men have remained at their posts since the close of work Saturday night. Their wives and children picketed the pitheads.

Operators decided to flood the shafts because the government refused to allow a 15 per cent wage cut after ordering a 17 per cent reduction in the price of the coal.

The strikers cut telephone wires connecting with the mine shafts.

OHIO'S FLOOD WATERS POUR SOUTHWARD

Mississippi Valley Residents Flee As Peril Nears

LOUISVILLE, Ky., March 23.—(AP.)—As the Ohio River's crest surged inexorably toward the Mississippi, presaging floods in Western Kentucky, Illinois and Missouri this week-end, residents of stricken communities turned anxious eyes toward dripping skies today.

Showers descended on the already overloaded watershed of the Ohio valley last night. The Weather Bureau forecast more rains for today, but said they probably would be so light as to not cause serious increases in river stages.

The Ohio began receding along the 150 miles of waterfront between Ashland, Ky., and Cincinnati after driving thousands of families from their homes in the lowlands of West Virginia, Ohio, Kentucky and Indiana. At least 12 deaths had been laid directly or indirectly to the flood.

Refugees hoped to reclaim their residences after a week or two, provided no more heavy rains fall in the meantime.

With the Mississippi River already swollen before the Ohio's flood water swept into it, residents of Western Kentucky, Illinois and Missouri bottomlands began an exodus similar to that caused by the up-river floods early in the week.

EVANSVILLE, Ind., March 23.—(AP.)—Twenty-five families yesterday were driven from their lowland homes by the rising flood waters of the Ohio River.

Between 50 and 100 additional homes are expected to be vacated by Saturday, when the Weather Bureau has predicted the stream will reach a crest of 46.4 feet, the highest since the disastrous overflow of 1913. Last night it stood at 43.1.

CINCINNATI, March 23.—(AP.)—Harassed by flood waters that have cost 12 lives and laid waste thousands of acres with unestimated damage, the Ohio River Valley today was greeted with more rain just as it sighted relief. A light rain fell and was expected to continue intermittently for 12 hours. Another small storm headed toward this region from the Texas Panhandle.

OFFICER DENIES BETRAYING BRITAIN

Highlander Says Girl Paid for Romance, Not Army Secrets

LONDON, March 23.—(AP.)—Lieut. Norman Baillie-Stewart, of the Seaforth Highlanders, denied on the witness stand today that he ever had disclosed to a foreign agent any information prejudicial to his country.

The young officer, on trial before a court-martial, is accused of betraying military secrets for pay. The money he received, he contends, was sent him by a German girl whom he had met in Berlin. He said:

"On my honor, I never have attempted to obtain, I never have obtained, and I never have disclosed any information prejudicial to the state. There is no possible reason why I should have done so. I never have been in debt in my life."

EXPLAINS NOTES

He explained that memoranda on army matters such as tanks and armored cars, which the prosecution contended he had noted down in connection with his alleged betrayal of secrets, were in fact notes he had made because of his constant interest in matters connected with the mechanization of the army. His brother, who also is an army officer, is much against army mechanization, he said, and they often argued on the subject.

The prosecution, charging that Baillie-Stewart had received £5 in one letter from Germany and £40 in another, described his conduct as "selling the country for £50."

While Baillie-Stewart was at the Sandhurst Military Academy he was orderly to Prince Henry, third son of the King.

TELLS OF AFFAIR

Regarding his association with Marie Louise, the lieutenant said he was introduced to her in a cafe by a German and that they subsequently became very friendly.

His counsel asked where this occurred and the accused said always on the banks of what is known as the lake district in Berlin. They went there by train. She had a canoe from which they both bathed. Asked if he paid for entertainments, the accused said:

"No. For the first few days I did, and then she paid for nearly everything I had. I gathered she was very well off."

The accused said he tried often to find out something about her, but could never learn anything further, whereupon he didn't bother to continue his questions.

WILSON DEATH INQUIRY BEGUN

MT. HOLLY, N. J., March 23.—(INS.)—The mysterious Wilson-Roberts slayings of 1929 today were in the hands of the Burlington County grand jury to be investigated "once and for all."

Howard Eastwood, the Burlington County Prosecutor, outlined the ramifications of the case to the grand jury yesterday and when he had concluded, the group asked at least a full day to consider the slayings and summon witnesses. Eastwood fixed next Tuesday as the date. The prosecutor said:

"It was decided to thresh out the entire matter for once and for all."

Rumors have persisted since Ruth Mowdray Wilson and Horace Roberts, Jr., were found shot to death in the bedroom of the girl's house at Moorestown four years ago. The verdict of the coroner's jury which decided Roberts killed the girl and ended his own life failed to halt the reports. The case was again thrust into the limelight with the recent slaying of Bradway Brown, who was a witness at the coroner's inquest.

AVIATOR FREED IN GIRL'S DEATH

HOUSTON, Tex., March 23.—(AP.)—H. M. Edwards, 37-year-old Nevada aviator, was acquitted yesterday of murder charges for the death of his fiance, Miss Ivy Young, New York actress, in a plunge from his seventh story hotel room, February 19.

The jury deliberated four hours. When the verdict was returned, Edwards smiled for the first time since the hearing began Monday. He said:

"The only thing I can say is that I was innocent and had two good lawyers."

The state contended Edwards either pushed or threw his fiance, who was registered in the hotel as his wife, from the window. The defense asserted Miss Young fell accidentally.

Lambert Funeral Delays Inquiry

COLUMBUS, O., March 23.—(AP.)—Investigation into the death of Dr. Fonsa A. Lambert, 47, nationally known authority on football, was postponed until after the funeral today.

Lambert was shot fatally by his son, Samuel, 17, during a family quarrel. Before he died, he absolved his son of blame, saying the shot was fired to protect Mrs. Lambert. The son was not held by police.

20 Die in Floods In South America

BUENOS AIRES, March 23.—(INS.)—More than 20 persons were dead throughout southern Argentina today, victims of floods caused by torrential rainstorms.

Pitt Rifle Aces Have New Aim In Life

Key hunters at the University of Pittsburgh will soon have another key to shoot at now that the Pitt Rifles, honorary military drill platoon, have decided to adopt a newly designed gold charm as their official insignia.

Kenneth McFarland, an artist on the staff of the Pitt Panther, university magazine, designed the new key which consists of a shield over crossed cannon, symbolic of the Coast Artillery Corps. A saber down the middle of the key represents the rank of a cadet officer. Engraved on the shield, which is grasped by a panther, are the initials P. R.

ROONEY FRIEND FEARED DYING

BEDFORD, Pa., March 23.—(AP.)—Hospital attaches said today that Albert (Irish) Kane, 39, is not expected to survive injuries received in an automobile accident in which James P. Rooney, 28, also was critically injured.

The condition of Rooney, former University of Pittsburgh star and State Assemblyman, was said to be unchanged.

The two Pittsburgh men were in an automobile which was destroyed after skidding on icy pavement near Bedford yesterday. Kane, a manager and trainer of boxers, underwent an operation late yesterday.

Kidnapers Release Girl After Struggle

DECATUR, Ill., March 23.—(AP.)—Martha Adkins, 23, daughter of former Congressman Charles Adkins, was recovering in her home today after having been kidnaped and beaten by two unidentified men who forced her into their car near her home.

Miss Adkins said she was thrown from the car about 10 blocks from her home after a struggle with her captors.

OHIO AWAITS PA. PRISONER

An amendment to the Pennsylvania extradition laws was in prospect today to permit extradition of Louis J. Kamons, 48, of Squirrel Hill, to Cleveland where he and others are under indictment on murder charges in connection with the Ellington apartment fire which claimed 13 lives.

Kamons is serving a 10-year sentence in Western penitentiary on an arson charge, growing out of the burning of a shoe store in Ambridge.

A bill introduced at Harrisburg today, proposing an amendment to existing law, provides that a prisoner of a Pennsylvania penal institution may be extradited to another state to stand trial on a charge of murder if he is serving a sentence of less than life in this state.

Two months ago Kamons was quoted as willing to seek a temporary parole that he might clear himself of the Cleveland charge.

HIT-RUN DRIVER DROWNS SELF

NEW YORK, March 23.—(AP.)—They found Charles Liderman today, but it was too late to tell him the boy he had struck with his automobile did not die and that, after all, the police did not want him for homicide.

Liederman, a 34-year-old candy salesman, ran down little Philip Coniglio in Brooklyn on January 31 and didn't stop.

Police thought the child was going to die so they broadcast an alarm for Liederman. A witness to the accident had noted his auto license number.

The candy salesman disappeared and neither his wife nor the police could locate him until today.

His body was found floating in New York Bay.

He had committed suicide.

Weather Conditions.

The disturbance, yesterday over Oklahoma and Northern Texas, is now over Western Virginia, West Virginia and Kentucky, Wytheville, Va., 29.88, with light rain or snow in the Ohio valley and lower lakes. High pressure overlies the plains and Manitoba, with centers near Minnedosa, Man., 30.32, and Concordia, Kan., 30.30. Another low appears over the plateau, Modena, Utah, 29.88, with no precipitation attending it as yet. It is considerably warmer in Tennessee, the Carolinas, Georgia and Florida and colder in the northern lakes, the southern and western plains.

River Conditions.

Light snow fell over the watersheds last night and continues this morning, leaving one-half inch to an inch on the ground over the Upper Allegheny District. The rivers will continue to fall. Stage at Franklin is 7.0 feet; Parkers Landing, 8.1; Lock No. 10 (Mon.), 15.2; Lock No. 7, 20.8; Pittsburgh, 20.7; Dam No. 4, 21.2; Dam No. 6, 24.1; Dam No. 10, 27.3, and Dam No. 12, 30.0.

SLEEPY CONNIE, MAURICE PASS

CHICAGO, March 23.—(INS.)—Paris was the objective of Maurice Chevalier, and Hollywood the goal of Constance Bennett and her marquis husband as the paths of the picture stars crossed here today.

The stars didn't meet in their courses, however, as Miss Bennett was too sleepy to be roused, even by the switching of her train from the New York Central to the Santa Fe tracks.

Chevalier, in a verdant chapeau and a burst of springtime checks on his topcoat, will sail on the Paris from New York tomorrow. While in Paris, Chevalier will see Mme. Chevalier, his divorced wife. He would not admit there was a possibility of a reconciliation.

Man Held on Charge Of Defrauding Hotel

Joseph Steele, 35, of Morrisville, N. C., was turned over to Alderman Thomas D. Jones today by Magistrate Leo Rothenberg to face charges of defrauding the Fort Pitt Hotel of $50 and passing worthless checks. He was arrested in Harrisburg yesterday by City Detective William Sullivan.

PIGS HAD COLDS, IRENE THINKS

WAUKEGAN, Ill., March 23.—(AP.)—William Schroedder's pigs, in the opinion of Mrs. Irene Castle McLaughlin, seemed to lack spirit.

She testified to this effect when she said they were "coughing and seemed to have colds."

Her statement, made in Circuit Court, was in defense of the $10,000 suit the pig-man filed charging false arrest.

The complaint is an outgrowth of Mrs. McLaughlin's personal investigation of Schroeder's pig-sty. She alleged the pigs' diet wasn't all it might have been.

University Groups Will Hear Actor

Richard B. Harrison, who portrays "de Lawd" in "The Green Pastures," which comes to Pittsburgh next week, will speak before two Duquesne University groups during the first week of his appearance here.

Monday he will speak to a class of public school teachers in the Fitzsimons Building, and Thursday he will appear before the student body at a general assembly.

Vatican's Delegate To U. S. Sees Pope

VATICAN CITY, March 23.—(AP.)—Pope Pius today received in audience Monsignor Amleto Giovanni Cicognani, who thanked him for his appointment as apostolic delegate to Washington, D. C.

Monsignor Cicognani succeeds Pietro Cardinal Fumasoni-Biondi, upon whom the red hat was conferred last week.

BOARD DEBATES RUTH'S FATE

PHOENIX, Ariz., March 23.—(AP.)—The Arizona State Board of Pardons and Paroles was expected to begin today its consideration of the clemency plea of Mrs. Winnie Ruth Judd, sentenced to hang April 14 for the murder of Mrs. Agnes Anne Leroi.

If clemency is extended the decision is expected to be announced early in April. The condemned woman has asked for one of four things—a full pardon, life imprisonment, the lawful penalty for murder in the second degree (10 years to life), or the lawful penalty for manslaughter (1 to 10 years).

At the trial for the murder of Mrs. Leroi, Mrs. Judd claimed insanity as her defense. She was never brought to trial on the charge of slaying Miss Hedvig Samuelson, killed the same night as Mrs. Leroi.

After her conviction, Mrs. Judd told a story of killing in self-defense.

Fall Over Banister Injures Pastor's Son

Robert W. Gibson, Jr., 7, of 206 Inglewood drive, son of the Rev. Robert W. Gibson, pastor of the Beverly United Presbyterian Church, is in the Children's Hospital today with a concussion of the brain and a split tongue.

His injuries were suffered last night when he fell over the banister on his way to bed. The hospital reported his condition as good.

N. Y. Engineer Here For Traffic Study

Ole Singstadt, of New York, consulting engineer hired by the County Commissioners to study the possibilities of converting the Wabash Bridge and tunnel into a traffic artery, was in Pittsburgh today. He planned to discuss the Wabash proposition with F. L. Schmidt, county planning engineer.

Potter Gas 'Strike' Starts Another Rush

COUDERSPORT, March 23.—(AP.)—The second big gas well in three weeks blew in at Hebron Field today and started another frantic rush for leases.

With an estimated yield of 20,000,000 cubic feet daily, the well brings to 110,000,000 cubic feet a day the output of the Potter County field.

VARE FACTION DEFIES G. O. P. ON PENSIONS

HARRISBURG, March 23.—The Vare organization today challenged the Republican state organization and the Grundy group in the House to open battle over a proposed constitutional amendment for old age pensions.

Representative Clinton A. Sowers, author of the bill, moved to discharge the Committee on Constitutional Amendments from further consideration of the measure. Objection was raised, and Sowers then demanded that the motion become a special order of business for next Monday night.

Informed that the school code would require most of Monday evening for consideration, Sowers then compelled the House to set 11:30 next Tuesday as a time for acting on his motion.

ACTION UNPRECEDENTED

Discharge of committee is almost unprecedented in the House, and the spectacle of a Philadelphia regular challenging the state organization caused something of a sensation.

Sowers' motion was inspired by an effort of the state organization and the Grundy followers to block William S. Vare's effort to force action at this session.

The method is a remarkable bit of parliamentary legerdemain by which it suddenly has been discovered that the House Committee on Constitutional Amendments has six members whose names are not listed with the committee in the official list printed under the direction of the Clerk of the House no later than two weeks ago.

All six are understood to be unalterably opposed to the amendment, an influence which overcomes the majority which appeared to exist for favorably reporting the measure to the floor. Of 25 listed members of the committee, 13, in an unofficial poll, were for the bill.

'PHANTOM SIX'

Late yesterday Representative John H. King, of Erie County, chairman of the committee, informed proponents of the measure of the membership of the "phantom six" on his committee. They are Representatives Thomas B. Wilson, of McKean; Harold E. Craig, Aliquippa; John M. Flynn, Elk, the Grundy leader in the House; Charles S. Lord, Jefferson; Wilson L. Yeakel, Bucks, the Grundy home county, and Harry H. Brennan, Lycoming.

King said the members had been appointed last January, though their names are not printed in the legislative manual as being on the committee. Neither were they in an earlier print which was replaced by the manual two weeks ago and is supposed to be up to date on all committee positions, as well as officers of the Legislature.

DEMANDS EXPLANATION

Sowers, this morning, in a parliamentary inquiry, demanded of Speaker Talbot when the new members were added to the committee, and why no notice had been given the House. The Speaker replied that the members had been added February 28, too late to have their names added to the printed list.

Their instructions are to vote against a favorable report of the bill in the House. In the Senate a similar bill authored by Senator Frank J. Harris, Allegheny County, has been sent to a subcommittee of three members, Senators Woodward, of Philadelphia; Buckman, of Bucks, Grundy Senate leader, and Fay, of Mercer County, all opposed to the measure. The full committee of 12 members divided evenly on a motion to report the bill out.

The old-age pension amendment was passed by the Legislature of 1931 and must be passed this year to entitle the question to a place on the ballot at the general election next November. If that is not done there can be no vote on the question until 1938, the Supreme Court having held that constitutional amendments can be submitted only every five years.

The legislation has been a pet project of the Vare family for years. In 1927 Mrs. Flora Vare, then a Senator, widow of the late Edwin H. Vare, introduced the proposed amendment and it was passed in the Senate. Through the influence of Grundy and former Gov. John S. Fisher it was beaten in the House.

Mathay Will Filed, Value Set at $6,000

PHILADELPHIA, March 23.—(INS.)—In a 51-word will filed for probate today, State Representative Jacob Mathay, of Philadelphia, left an estate valued for probate purposes at $6,000 in personal property to his widow, Maude.

Mathay, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, was found shot to death in the bathroom of his home here March 17.

Utility Tax Bill Reported to House

HARRISBURG, March 23.—The Committee on Municipal Corporations today reported to the House the bill of Representative Jacob Shenkel, of Allegheny County, which would permit taxation for local purposes of utility property.

It is estimated the revenue from this source in Pittsburgh alone would be $500,000 a year.

Court Frees Man Celebrating Beer

J. A. Lennon, 40, arrested yesterday charged with drunkenness, told Magistrate Leo Rothenberg in Central Police Court today he was so happy over President Roosevelt signing the beer bill that he celebrated. Rothenberg said:

"That's a pretty good reason. Discharged."

available for relief would be $7,000,000 annually.

PINCHOT MAY ACT

The tangle over beer legislation may bring Gov. Pinchot before the Legislature next with a message championing a liquor control bill being prepared by the Department of Justice. The Governor is fearful that the conflicting thoughts on the subject may result in the passage of no legislation by April 7, when beer will be legalized through the act of Congress.

Without additional legislation, it is the opinion of the Department of Justice that there would be no check on the sale of beer, the Snyder state enforcement act automatically following the permitted alcoholic content decreed by Congress.

The Governor late yesterday announced that he was having a study made of the Sowers bill, and would have something to say on the subject next week. It was not clearly understood whether he would have a message on the subject or be content with a bill bearing the administration stamp.

WARNED ON STOCKS

Secretary of the Commonwealth Richard J. Beamish today warned the public to exercise precaution in the purchase of brewery stocks. He said:

"Brewing corporations are being formed rapidly. They will issue more shares of stock than beer. I warn the people that a flood of stock and bonds is about to be let loose upon the market. Most of it is fraudulent and designed to swindle the public."

The state has issued charters to one domestic and two foreign brewing companies, to do business in Pennsylvania. The first corporation to receive a charter is the Bradford Beverage Company, Bradford. The two foreign corporations are the Vollmer Brewing Corporation, with headquarters in Philadelphia, and the Latrobe Brewing Company, in Latrobe. Both are Delaware corporations.

A charter was issued today to the F. F. Bollinger Company, Pittsburgh, to build, construct and erect breweries, distilleries, etc.

South Denounces Bishop Cannon's Dry Appeal

COLUMBIA, S. C., March 23.—(INS.)—South Carolina's Legislature was asked today to severely censure Bishop James Cannon, Jr., for recent appeals for funds "to hold the South in line for prohibition."

A measure to that effect was introduced in the House of Representatives last night by a committee of four members, but immediate action was postponed.

"No dollar mark has ever been placed over the portal of the holy of holies of Southern honor and integrity," the resolution declared in resolving that the General Assembly "indignantly resent and deny this slur upon the bright escutcheon of South Carolina.

U. S. SPEEDS BEER FLOW

WASHINGTON, March 23.—(AP.)—The federal government today moved swiftly to open the beer taps through which a legal 3.2 brew will flow to America's thirsty after midnight April 6.

Machinery to license brewers was set in motion by Dr. James M. Doran, industrial alcohol commissioner, who pledged himself to keep bootleg beer racketeers out of the legalized industry.

Government officials acted a day after President Roosevelt signed into law a bill which permits the sale of beer and wine of 3.2 per cent alcoholic content. The President's action signalled the end of the absolute prohibition which has prevailed since 1920.

Government officials estimate that an annual revenue of $125,000,000 to $150,000,000 will be returned. Already the Internal Revenue Bureau has begun distribution of revenue stamps which will bring in the $5 tax on every barrel.

DRYS OUTLINE WAR ON BEER

WASHINGTON, March 23.—(INS.)—President Roosevelt's signing of the bill which legalizes 3.2 per cent beer on April 7, started the machinery of the organized drys as well as that of the brewers. The drys in letters forwarded today to state superintendents of the Anti-Saloon League outlined a six-point program for fighting the new law in the courts. It was written by Edward B. Dunford, attorney for the league. Dunford said:

"An attack on the law in the courts certainly will be made when the requisite circumstances arise."

Six situations afford a means of attack, he said. They are:

Officers of any dry state may seek an injunction to restrain a common carrier from transporting beer through the state on the ground it was transporting intoxicating beverages in violation of the Eighteenth Amendment.

Any wildcat brewer indicted for operating without a permit, could claim he violated no law since the act repeals penalties for manufacturing beverages containing no more than 3.2 per cent alcohol.

Any dry state which definitely prohibits intoxicating beer may cause the arrest of a brewer authorized to manufacture beer on the ground that the product is intoxicating.

Any soft drink manufacturer whose business is affected by beer sales could sue to have the prohibition commissioner remove the brewer's license as the law deprives him of his property without process.

Should intoxication develop from the sale of beer, any prosecuting officer could sue the dispenser as a public nuisance.

Persons purchasing beer may refuse payment and when sued could argue the transaction was a violation of the Eighteenth Amendment.

BATTLE RURAL DOMINATION ON BLUE LAW

By MARK SHIELDS

HARRISBURG, March 23.—Senate and House conferees on the Schwartz blue law bill are tangled over a proposal to eliminate from the bill a statewide referendum next November on whether Sunday baseball and football shall be legalized in such Pennsylvania communities as vote favorably, provided the whole state approves.

These amendments were inserted in the bill by Senator John J. McClure after he had first voted against the measure, bringing about its defeat. With the amendments approved, McClure and Senator G. Mason Owlett, of Tioga County, on Tuesday, switched their votes and the bill passed.

HOUSE BATTLE

In the House, however, there was a vigorous refusal to accept the McClure amendments, and the matter now rests with a committee consisting of Senators McClure, Coyne and Trainer, and Representatives Schwartz, Steedle and Sarig. McClure is being urged to relax his demand for a statewide referendum.

Proponents of the liberal Sunday agree to the local referendum prior to the legalization of baseball, but would not have the whole state act on the subject. Their attitude is that other counties should not be in a position to tell the municipal units of Allegheny or the City of Philadelphia what would or would not be permitted.

Elimination of the statewide referendum is being vigorously fought by church groups, who also are pressing Gov. Pinchot to veto the bill if the conferees agree on it in any form. The Governor is understood to favor a local referendum as protecting those communities which do not want the two sports, and has intimated he would sign a bill of that nature.

STEEDLE BILL

The bill with the statewide referendum stricken out would adhere to the principle of a bill introduced by Representative Joseph G. Steedle on the same subject. The difference is in the scope of the two measures. As the Steedle bill passed the House this week it permits local option decision on open theaters as well as all forms of outdoor sports.

The bill now is in the Senate Law and Order Committee, and may be brought out next week.

No decision will be reached by the Schwartz bill conferees before next Monday.

Railroads Want To Cut Rates On Beer

WASHINGTON, March 23.—In anticipation of legalization of beer on April 7, southwestern railroads have requested permission of the Interstate Commerce Commission to reduce freight rates on beer and other malt liquors on short notice. The carriers would reduce the present rates of 33 per cent of first class rates to 27½ per cent of first class rates on 30,000 pounds minimum carloads.

CALLS STEEDLE TAX DODGER

Representative Joseph G. Steedle, of McKees Rocks, made no personal property tax returns from 1928 through 1932, according to Mrs. J. O. Miller, in a reply to his statement, made before the House of Representatives at Harrisburg March 14, that she and her relatives never had made the returns.

Mrs. Miller said:

"If, as chairman of the Appropriations Committee, you are as inaccurate in your figures and facts as you have shown yourself to be in this statement, it must be a great handicap to the work of that most important committee.

"These are the facts. My father, the late Julian Kennedy, who died May 28, 1932, made a return to the Tax Revision Board of Allegheny County and paid the tax ever since the law went into effect in 1913. I, myself, have paid a tax on the four mill personal tax for the past eight years.

"My sister, Mrs. R. Templeton Smith, has made a return and paid the tax for the past six years. My mother, the late Jennie E. Kennedy, who died on February 7, 1930, never made a return. Upon her death the executors of her estate made a return for five years, as required by law, and paid the tax and the penalties."

PINCHOT VIEWS 'BIG' REVENUE

HARRISBURG, March 23.—(AP.)—Gov. Pinchot stands by his revenue estimates of two months ago—$158,000,000 for general operating expenses for the next two years.

This information was given the State Emergency Relief Board at its meeting yesterday in the Governor's office.

Representative Joseph G. Steedle, Allegheny, chairman of the House Appropriation Committee, said Tuesday the budget office and fiscal officers had reduced the estimate of revenues for the two years beginning June 1 to $135,000,000.

Pinchot said, however, that there may be a change in estimates if the Legislature does not adopt his proposals for providing unemployment relief funds.

He asked that the Department of Revenue be empowered to collect mercantile, inheritance and personal property taxes and an increase in levies on foreign corporations. He said the increased efficiency in collection of these taxes by a department under his control would provide $20,000,000 for jobless relief.

MEDICINAL RUM BILL APPROVED

WASHINGTON, March 23.—(INS.)—The Celler medicinal liquor bill, abolishing the present limitations in the Volstead law on the prescription of liquor by physicians, was reported out of the House Judiciary Committee by a vote of 10 to 8 today.

The measure passed the House during the "lame duck" session but was pigeonholed in the Senate.

The measure grants a right demanded for years by the American Medical Association. It would substitute regulations by Treasury and Justice Department for the present limitations in the Volstead act.

Barmaids to Serve Beer in Baltimore

R. F. C. PUSHES BANK AID STUDY

WASHINGTON, March 23.—(AP.)—Scores of closed or restricted banks throughout the country are being carefully examined by employes of the Reconstruction Corporation with a view to purchase of preferred stock by that government agency so the institutions may be reopened.

The corporation is empowered under the banking act passed March 9 to go into partnership with bankers through purchase of preferred stock, thus supplying capital for reopening. In some instances where banks still have first class collateral, loans are being made as in the past.

The purchase of the stock, however, is being hedged about with every safeguard. Officials have taken the attitude that corporation stockholding is equivalent to a selective guarantee of bank deposits in the institutions it takes hold of and that it must be careful to see to it that the institution is in such shape that there will be no danger of its closing again.

For this reason, as one man put it, the corporation "wants to know a lot about any bank" in which it becomes a "partner."

The only larger purchase of such stock thus far made was in the new Detroit bank.

New Detroit Bank Will Open Tomorrow

DETROIT, March 23.—(AP.)—Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., president of General Motors Corporation, said today that the new National Bank of Detroit, backed by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and General Motors Corporation, will open at 10 a. m. Friday, in the First National Bank Building.

Sloan said whether the new bank will take over the assets of the old First National and the Guardian National Bank of Commerce will be determined today by negotiations now under way.

He said the percentage which depositors in these banks will be paid also will be announced later.

Sloan's statement came less than an hour after he arrived in Detroit from Washington, where he took part in negotiations to bring banking facilities to Detroit after conservators had been placed in charge of the two big national banks.

The plan for opening the bank came in the face of thousands of dissenting telegrams sent to President Roosevelt last night by Detroiters, after Police Commissioner James K. Watkins had declared in a speech that offsets of deposits against loans under the new plan would wipe out many industries.

FREEPORT BANK TO REORGANIZE

FREEPORT, Pa., March 23.—The first step for the rehabilitation of the Farmers National Bank of Freeport was taken at a meeting of the stockholders last night, R. L. Briggs, cashier, announced today.

Briggs said that the shaeholders will subscribe to a percentage of a $61,000 fund to cover depreciation of bonds held by the bank, and indicated that others not stockohlders of the bank would make up the difference.

It was requested that depositors turn over to the bank 20 per cent of their deposits.

Briggs said:

"If our depositors will agree to a 20 per cent contribution, I have no doubt that a license will be granted to the bank to open on a normal basis."

Frank C. Irvine, vice president and cashier, has been named conservator of the First National Bank and Trust Company of Tarentum.

2 PLEAD GUILTY IN DOPE TRIAL

Two of the gang of dope peddlers, who distributed $12,000 worth of morphine and other narcotics stolen from Cook Hospital at Fairmont, W. Va., throughout Western Pennsylvania, today had pleaded guilty in Federal Court at Erie. Two others, accused as being members of the gang, are still on trial.

Robert C. Folkler, of Johnstown, and William Shoemaker, of Fairmont, former ambulance driver at the hospital, changed their pleas of not guilty to guilty and are now awaiting sentence. Those on trial today were Clair Lohr, of Johnstown, and Robert Hagan, of Fairmont.

William T. Duffy, narcotic agent in charge of the Pittsburgh district, prosecutor in the case, said Shoemaker removed a safe containing the narcotics from the hospital drug room and said it was carried in an automobile driven by Hagen to Johnstown where Folkler opened it with a drill. Lohr, the government contends, was given some of the drugs to deliver in Creekside, Indiana County.

Police Horse Bolts Home for Lunch

"Dr. Strong," a traffic division horse, attracted the attention of many persons in the downtown district today as it galloped riderless up Liberty avenue. Mounted Patrolman William Thompson left the horse at Water street and Liberty avenue. A gasoline engine apparently scared the horse, which bolted up Liberty avenue to Seventh street where it was caught.

David McDonald, superintendent of city stables on Tunnel street, said it was past "Dr. Strong's" dinner hour and that he was probably just going home for oats.

How are you getting along with this one? It's plenty tough.

By KENNETH A. NAGEL
Cipher Editor

Is Cipher No. 74 proving hard for you? Well, it is hard. Probably the tip will help. Let's hope so.

Perhaps, Miss Adeline Walters who submitted this cipher gives enough of a clue in this one sentence. She writes:

"I haven't seen a cipher dealing with cards in your column, so for a little variety I offer this one."

That should be enough of a tip for you smart cipher fans. Maybe a Five Hundred Tally Sheet would help.

Watch for the answer and a new Cipher tomorrow.

The mail brings original ciphers from James O'Malley, of 1008 Gerritt street; Daniel A. Rodgers, of 1521 Brighton road; Michael E. Markovich, of Uniontown, Pa.; Steven Muzik and William Dulz, both of McKees Rocks; Louis W. Copits, of Ellwood City, Pa.; Miss E. Ainsworth, of 1017 Allegheny avenue, and Ornest Columbus, of Cecil, Pa.

27,000 TO HEAR AIR GREETING

Greetings to 27,000 Presbyterian students in church-related colleges and state universities are to be broadcast over Station KDKA and W8XK, Pittsburgh, April 8 from 11:20 p. m. to 12:20 o'clock.

The broadcast, which will consist of brief greetings from nationally known educators and university pastors, is being planned by Dr. Hugh Thomson Kerr, pastor of the Shadyside Presbyterian Church and president of the Presbyterian Board of Christian Education, and Dr. William Chalmers Covert, secretary of the Board.

Fifty-two Presbyterian colleges and 47 state universities will be included in the radio reception.

History Club of Carrick Elects

The History Club of Carrick High School has elected the following officers; Rebecca Justus, president; Regina Corcoran, vice president; Naomi Sperling, secretary; and Ruth Bishop, assistant secretary. The club has been divided into three sections, the first studying China and Japan; second, Russia; and third, the United States.

Hardware Dealers Plan Open Forum

An open forum meeting of the Pittsburgh Retail Hardware Dealers' Association will take place at the Fort Pitt Hotel tomorrow night. The credit problem, the preparation of supplies to meet the spring demand, and other topics will be discussed.

AVOID UGLY PIMPLES

Does a pimply face embarrass you? Get a package of Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets. The skin should begin to clear after you have taken the tablets a few nights, if you are like thousands of others.

Help cleanse the blood, bowels and liver with Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets, the successful substitute for calomel; there's no sickness or pain after taking them.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets do that which calomel does, and just as effectively, but their action is gentle and safe instead of severe and irritating.

Thousands who take Olive Tablets are never cursed with a "dark brown taste," a bad breath, a dull, listless, "no good" feeling, constipation, torpid liver, bad disposition, pimply face.

Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound; known by their olive color.

Dr. Edwards spent years among patients afflicted with liver and bowel complaints and Olive Tablets are the immensely effective result. Take nightly for a week. See how much better you feel and look. 15c, 30c, 60c.

CHINA TO PUSH WAR ON JAPS

PEIPING, March 23.—(AP.)—Chinese resistance against Japanese invaders in Manchuria and Jehol will continue "until the Chinese flag again flies therein," Gen. Ho Ying-Ching, new military overlord of North China said today.

He made the statement in the first interview he has granted since assuming the command given up recently by Chang Hsiao-Liang. He added that hostilities between Chinese and Japanese are continuing along the Great Wall north of here. The new commander said:

"China's policy of resistance to the Japanese invasion is unchanged.

"We are resisting to the limit of our powers Japanese activities wherever occurring on Chinese soil, including Manchuria and Jehol."

MAD KIDNAPER SHOOTS SELF

HOLLYWOOD, March 23.—(INS.)—A dramatic manhunt for a man characterized by police as a "dangerous and heavily armed maniac and kidnaper" had ended today near Hollywood High School.

Joseph Mandell, 33, Truckee, Cal., barber, sought since Tuesday for slashing his wife with an ax and razor, and for kidnaping their 8-year-old twin nieces, Azad and Yvonne Joseph, daughters of Richard Joseph, wealthy Truckee business man, was found shot through the head in his automobile near the school last night.

The little girls, unharmed, were found nearby. Mandell had given them money to buy ice cream, while he attempted suicide.

Mandell denied he had wounded his wife, and said that a burglar had done it. He was in critical condition in a Hollywood Hospital.

Estate Bequeathed To Daughter, Son

Robert Weber, 1650 Chislett street, by his will, probated here, left an estate valued at $19,500, dividing it into two parts, one for his daughter, Emma Mary Bauer, and the other in trust for his son, Charles Henry Weber.

Katherine Gehring, South Side, left her $12,000 estate to her husband for life.

NOT MONEY ALONE WILL REOPEN FACTORIES

By GILBERT SELDES

In the relief plans of Edgar J. Kaufmann, of Pittsburgh, which the President and his advisers were hearing about last week, one thing strikes me as exceptional. It is the frank and outspoken recognition of the fact that we are enjoying a dole in America, coupled with a practical man's objection to the dole because it is "frozen labor." Mr. Kaufmann, not being a politician, but an extremely energetic merchant, prefers work relief to dole relief—the dollar paid in wages to the dollar spent for semi-charitable support; but he does not have to deceive either himself or us. He knows that however it may be concealed the dole is in operation in many States and "there is not enough tax-paying ability in the country to continue to carry on the burden of relief as it now is." This is the kind of frank speaking to which the President himself has accustomed us during the past two weeks; and I understand that he has not yet sent out a call for yes-men to take the place of his advisers. When we have a little leisure Mr. Roosevelt may even encourage Congress to discuss and disagree.

MR. SELDES

Two Billion Dollars

I am in no position to quarrel with Mr. Kaufmann's plans or his figures. Indeed, when he estimates that the expenditure of two billion dollars will end all existing unemployment in the United States I am inclined to think that the coincidence of this figure with the amount of new currency we are supposed to get shortly is a happy one. It is certainly not only money that we need to put people to work again; we need a plan and a good deal of will-power. Mr. Kaufmann has both.

About three years ago, when I was in Pittsburgh, I frequently saw men at work—which was becoming a rare sight in other parts of the country—and was told that a group of which Mr. Edgar Kaufmann was the head was responsible for the existence of useful jobs and reasonable wages. I was impressed. I was further impressed when I found in Mr. Kaufmann's department stores twelve vast wall decorations by Boardman Robinson which made the celebrated murals of the Carnegie Institute in the same city look like transfer pictures. It struck me that the man who could combine good modern art with commerce and could put men to work when others were firing them was worth watching. I have watched him since with considerable pleasure. And if he says two billion dollars will give jobs to all the unemployed my personal vote is for him to have the two billions.

WIFE'S SLAYER DIES IN CHAIR

COLUMBUS, O., March 23.—(AP.)—Claiming innocence to the end, Herbert Meeker, young Ohio farmer, was electrocuted at Ohio Penitentiary last night for the slaying of his wife, Gertrude.

Mrs. Meeker's body, nude and bruised, was found May 7, 1932, near Millersburg, O. She had been beaten to death.

Meeker admitted he saw the killing, but said it was done by Howard Young, a relative. Young committed suicide when officers went to arrest him.

Among persons who witnessed the execution was Mayor Jacob S. Coxey, of Massilon, O., who years ago led "Coxey's Army" to Washington. His presense was unexplained.

INFIRMARY FIRE PERILS WOMEN

CLEVELAND, March 23.—(AP.)—Flames, which spread rapidly through a three-story dormitory for women at the Cleveland Infirmary in suburban Warrensville, last night destroyed that part of the institution and threatened the lives of 136 occupants. Infirmary officials, however, said all were saved.

All the women were led or carried to safety by volunteers working under the diretcion of J. J. Sullivan, superintendent, and Miss Agnes Schultz, head matron.

Police aided firemen in directing the fight against the flames, as all available apparatus in the southeastern section of Cleveland was rushed to the scene. The cause of the blaze was not determined.

Mine Strike Still On Leader Declares

BURGETTSTOWN, Pa., March 23.—Adam Baloga, a member of the strike committee at the Bertha mine, of the Bertha Consumers Coal Company, today denied that the strike was over as stated yesterday by R. D. Thompson, superintendent. Baloga said none of the 200 men had returned to work.

HITLER NAMED DICTATOR OF GERMANY

be drafted to educate the people in this sense.

"Everyone failing to support the government will be outlawed."

PUBLIC EXECUTIONS

He announced in ringing tones that Marinus van der Luebbe, Dutch Communist, and his accomplices in the burn ng of the Reichstag last month, would be executed publicly in order to bring an end to charges that the blaze was set by Nazis themselves as an excuse to suppress the Communist and Socialist parties in Germany.

With that disposed of, Chancellor Hitler moved rapidly to quash reports that his regime was merely an interregnum pending restoration of the Hohenzollern monarchy. He said:

"Restoration of the monarchy is at present not a subject for discussion because of existing conditions."

Germany, Hitler declared, "earnestly desires" to co-operate with Great Britain, France and Italy in establishment of four-power control of peace in continental Europe. He added that Germany as a whole "hails the understanding" with which this nation's national revolution has been received in Italy. He said:

"Despite difficulties, our attitude toward other powers will be guided by an honest desire for mutual adjustment of all affairs, but never on the basis of victor and vanquished."

DEBT READJUSTMENT

Debt readjustment, Hitler said, is possible only by friendly co-operation between nations. The Chancellor said he would welcome convocation of the world economic conference at the "earliest possible moment." With particular allusion to the United States, he said:

"We desire most friendly relations with the great overseas powers.

"The interests of Germans outside Germany will be protected by all the means within our power."

Hitler closed with a reference to the violence which attended his ascension to power. He said:

"Hardly any revolution has passed with as little bloodshed as ours.

"I am determined to maintain law and order. The federal authority and the President remain unendangered."

The vote granting the dictatorship then followed with dramatic suddenness.

The sweeping victory for the expatriated Austrian who has labored unceasingly for 10 years to achieve his dream of a "third reich" was assured, however, when the Catholic Centrist party decided to side with Nazis and Nationalists and accede to the dictatorship.

By its favorable vote, the Reichstag excluded itself entirely from legislation during the next four years unless the cabinet chooses to call it into session and ask its advice or sanction on foreign or domestic problems.

At the same time, it virtually nullified the Weimar republican constitution and placed Hitler in a position of power never enjoyed by a Hohenzoldern ruler or by President Von Hindenburg in the days of the Social Democratic republic.

GERMANY HINTS AT REPRISALS

BERLIN, March 23.—(AP.)—In a short semi-official statement issued today, the German government threatened drastic measures against foreign correspondents guilty of spreading "atrocity reports."

The statement asked how, if an economic boycott "agitated by certain American circles" were carried out, "is the question of private debts to be regulated properly?"

The warning was directed not only against correspondents but also against their newspapers. It would take such form as barring the papers from the German mail.

The statement emphasized that any boycott would affect the United States more adversely than Germany.

Canada Seeks Probe Of Raids on Jews

OTTAWA, March 23.—(AP.)—Prime Minister R. B. Bennett was asked by three members of the House of Commons yesterday to investigate reports of the House of Commons today to investigate reports of anti-Semitic disturbances in Germany.

The Prime Minister said he would request Dr. Oscar Skelton, under-secretary of state for external affairs, who is now in London, to make a complete report on the situation.

Felix-Muldowney Count Nears End

Hearings in the election contest filed by Mrs. Anne Felix, Democrat, against Congressman Michael J. Muldowney, Republican, who defeated her for Congress last November, are expected to be completed next week. Fewer than 50 ballot boxes from the Thirty-second Congressional district remain to be opened. To date 62 boxes have been opened and the contents counted.

Three Youths Jailed In Extortion Plot

DENVER, March 23.—(INS.)—Three youths were in jail here today for an asserted attempt to extort $5,000 from Mrs. Verner Z. Reed, wealthy society leader and philanthropist. They were arrested when they went to an appointed spot to collect the money.

Threats of bombing Mrs. Reed's home were used by the extortionists, police declared.

Jews to Rally Here Against Hitlerism

Final plans for the protest mass meeting against the Hitler attack on German Jews will be made by the local committee tonight. The mass meeting will be held next Monday evening. Speakers and the place of the mass meeting will be decided by the committee.

Jewish War Veterans have joined the protest, and will take part in the affair. Committee chairmen include Dr. M. B. Lichenstein, Morris Neaman, I. A. Swiss, Harry Caplan, S. L. Fuss, S. Osheroff, Mrs. Leo L. Half, Julius Weisberg and Louis Yale Borkon.

A plan to boycott German industry as a result of the activities of the Hitler regime is to be presented tonight to Pittsburgh Post No. 49, Jewish War Veterans, at the Young Men's Hebrew Association Building. The resolution, to be presented by Harry H. Schaffer, vice commander, is similar to that passed recently by New York Jewish veterans.

2 MORE BERLIN JEWS SLAIN

LONDON, March 23.—(INS.)—The brutal slaying of two more Jews in Germany by men dressed in the khaki uniforms of Nazi storm troopers was revealed in dispatches here from unimpeachable sources today.

One of the victims, Leo Krell, an Austrian war veteran, was dragged from his bed and taken in an automobile to a wooded spot on the outskirts of Berlin. There he was shot and killed. His body was found yesterday.

The other victim was Leon Kindermann, a young German Jew, who was slain in the same spot. The men who abducted him, according to reliable information, told him he was to be done away with because he was a Communist.

An authoritative investigation showed that Kindermann at no time was affiliated with the Communist party.

The counsellor of one foreign embassy in Berlin lodged a formal protest with the Hitler government, charging he had information concerning 57 separate cases in which Jewish subjects in Germany were beaten and tortured. In almost every case, the diplomat charged, the police refused to investigate.

Complaints have been made by citizens of various nations, including the United States, but the agitators responsible for the terrorism apparently are taking considerable pains not to become involved with France or Britain.

Goering Denies Charges Of Atrocities

BERLIN, March 23.—(INS.)—Capt. Hermann Wilhelm Goering, minister without portfolio in the Hitler cabinet, tonight formally refuted charges that the Nazis had committeed atrocities against German Communists.

In a statement to International News Service, Goering expressed willingness to have foreign correspondents visit prison camps where Communists are interned to disprove allegations that they are being mistreated.

Referring to charges that Jewish merchants were being abused, he said:

"Not a single department store has been closed. Business is going on as usual.

"Not a single synagogue has been violated, not a single Jewish cemetery has been disturbed.

"Germany was never more peaceful than now."

Catholic and Protestant leaders and American Jewry.

This was signalized by the action of the American Federation of Labor, with a membership of 3,000,000 composed of practically every race and creed, in joining in the protest movement.

William Green, president of the organization, has agreed to address the mass meeting at Madison Square Garden Monday night. Other speakers on the list include former Gov. Alfred E. Smith, Bishop William T. Manning, Senator Robert F. Wagner, Bishop Francis J. McConnell, former president of the Federal Council of Churches; Rabbi Stephen S. Wise, and others.

Protests were pouring in upon the State Department at Washington from various religious bodies, calling upon the federal government to make formal representations to the German government.

BOYCOTT MOVE

Although not officially sanctioned by the American Jewish Congress or any other formal organization, a movement for declaring a trade boycott against Germany was reported gaining ground here and in some other cities. Individual merchants were reported to be cancelling orders from German firms, or for goods made in Germany, declaring they will have no commercial relations with Germany while the present anti-Semetic campaign continues.

With American and Jewish flags fluttering colorfully, 20,000 Jewish war veterans and civilians paraded today through the populous streets of the Lower East Side to City Hall where, through their spokesman, they asked the moral support of Mayor John P. O'Brien against persecution of members of the Jewish race in Germany.

Dense crowds lined the curbstones as the marchers tramped to City Hall Plaza, where thousands of people had assembled. There, from the steps of City Hall, Mayor O'Brien reviewed the Jewish soldiers. And, in a talk to a Jewish delegation in his reception room, the Mayor declared:

"Any regime which has racial and religious intolerance as its basis will meet with the moral opposition of the entire world."

W. A. Brady, Washington With Rudy

Co-starring with William A. Brady, Sr., Sophie Tucker and Queenie Smith, George Dewey Washington, Negro baritone, who scored a hit with Pittsburghers recently, comes to an NBC microphone as Rudy Vallee's guest tonight at 8 o'clock. A musical highlight of the program, carried locally by WCAE, is Washington's version of "Home to Harlem," from the Broadway production, "Strike Me Pink," in which he currently is starred.

Mr. Brady, dean of the American stage, appears in a scene from the famous old Dumas thriller, "The Count of Monte Cristo." Miss Tucker is heard in comedy songs and dialogue, and Miss Smith, musical comedy star, engages in a song and dialogue bit with Rudy. Walter O'Keefe also is listed for a guest appearance on the program.

A running account of the world's most historic and most hazardous steeplechase, the British Grand National, will be broadcast over NBC-WCAE tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock direct from the famous course at Aintree, near Liverpool, England.

Emily Mickunas, coloratura soprano, and Carmela Ippolito, concert violinist, share the Concert Footlights spotlight on KDKA tonight at 7:15. The artists are supported by an orchestra conducted by Adolf Schmid.

The sixth — and final — dramatic episode based on Beatrice Burton's new serial story, "The Flapper's Daughter," which started in yesterday's Sun-Telegraph, is presented on WCAE at 6:15 tonight.

KQV—"On the 5:15", 5:15; Scalzo's dinner music, 6:15; Eddie Hartner's orchestra, 9:30.

WWSW—Dave Broudy's ensemble, 6; Frederic Lotz, organist, 7; "Behind the Kitchen Door" sketch, 7:30.

Speaker

Fannie Hurst, celebrated American novelist, discusses "The Critical Age" on WCAE tomorrow at 3:30 during the Camp Fire Girls' program, "Making the Most of Me."

First Broadcast to America From Moscow Arranged By Stalin for Saturday

By AIRCASTER

It is the belief of Josef Stalin, the headman of all the Russias, that a majority of Americans cherish some misconceptions of the Russian ideal, the Soviet manner of progression, and that something ought to be done about removing such fixed and unauthenticated notions.

When that is done, M. Stalin imagines, the biggest of the barriers to American recognition will have been broken. At any rate, he has agreed to provide America with a radio program from Moscow Saturday from 3:15 to 4 p. m. over the Columbia system and WJAS.

Word comes from Linton Wells, the Hearst representative in the Soviet capital, that he managed, through the suggestion of the Hearst Radio Service, to induce the Soviet government to build a broadcast and design it especially for American ears. The aerial presentation is to be the first Moscow - American broadcast in history.

If the program is a success, a series will follow later, with Stalin, possibly, addressing the American public.

Linton Wells and a Russian announcer with an unspellable name will be masters of ceremonies. Among other highlights will be a concert by the Piatnatzky Chorus, the state symphony of Moscow, several numbers by the Moscow grand opera soprano, Dershinskay, a bit by the Soviet Music Chorus, and songs by the Ruth Etting of Russia, a lady billed as Irma Yaounsen.

Bernie Stabbed!

The news of the day seems to be:

That Ben Bernie, previously suffering from an infection of the left hand, stabbed his right palm seriously with the end of a violin bow, while stage clowning with Winchell.

That Morton Downey, who has been invited to sing for the President at the Press Club dinner March 29, will warble that foamy ditty: "Keg o' My Heart."

Globe-Trotting

By LOUIS L. KAUFMAN

Hello, Ladies and Gentlemen:

The Mt. Lebanon police might have been in the chicken business but the boys at the North Side police station are contemplating the macaroni trade. Sergeant Daugherty will hold a barrel of the nutritious lenten favorite for a reasonable length of time for its owner but if the owner waits too long and his macaroni is gone it will be up to him to be reasonable.

Mrs. Netosky, a Butler street globe trotter who runs a confectionery store, couldn't believe her own eyes for a minute the other day. A customer had just made a purchase and as she was walking out of the store the proprietress noticed smoke issuing from her purse. It seems as the customer closed the purse she struck a match which in turn lighted her cigarets. The fire was put out just in time to prevent a five spot from being obliterated.

Paul Marin and his boy friend of Glassport High School went us one better. He put out an Eight Star Final and runs a column in the high school paper called the Junior High Trotters. He's an artist too—drew a picture of Mr. Roosevelt and sent it to the President and received an encouraging letter from him—sent in a cartoon of the Globe Trotter and we don't know whether to laugh or get angry.

Would like to know how to make a rose bowl so I can pass the information on to Miss N. L. Klimgler, of Oakwood Place.

Uncle Bob, Betty Read Comics

Another quarter-hour of fun with Uncle Bob and Betty as they peruse the Sun-Telegraph comic pages is listed for WCAE fans at 6 p. m.

Going on the air from the Sun-Telegraph editorial rooms, Louis L. Kaufman, Globe Trotter of the Sun-Telegraph and Hearst Metrotone News, flashes the latest bulletins over WCAE and WJAS today at 9:05 a. m., 12:15 p. m., 2:15 p. m. and 6:30 p. m. His schedule tomorrow is the same, with the exception of the 2:15 broadcast, carried by WCAE only.

LEWIS DEFENDS PA. SCHOOLS

Public education cost 3¼ per cent of the national income in 1930 or $2,600,000,000 as against $11,800,000,000 expended for automobiles alone, Charles F. Lewis, director of Buhl Foundation, declared in an attack on politicians seeking to change the state school system.

Citing that employers are using millions of dollars worth of capital not listed on their books but represented in the educational requirements of their workers, Lewis warned against a break-down in a talk yesterday before the Rotary Club of Pittsburgh in the Fort Pitt Hotel. Counties increased taxes from 1923 to 1930 by 61 per cent, cities by 54 per cent, he said, but public education costs increased only 48 per cent.

Mr. Lewis explained the progress made during the past 10 years throughout the state. He visioned an abolishment of the Edmonds act, and wreckage of the teachers' pension fund if politicians are permitted to change the state laws and eliminate the Pittsburgh system of an appointive school board.

Railroad Honoring 50-Year Workers

Gold service buttons, symbolic of 50 years continuous service, will be presented by the Pennsylvania Railroad to William L. Hudson, special agent, 718 Mifflin avenue, Wilkinsburg, and John Forsythe, assistant track foreman, Derry, Pa., within the next three months, officials announced today. Eight other employes of the railroad's central region are to receive buttons.

Saint-Gaudens Again Honored by France

Homer Saint-Gaudens, director of fine arts, Carnegie Institute, has been made an officer of the Legion of Honor of France, for his part in assembling an exhibit of French paintings in Paris last year.

The decoration was conferred on him at the Institute by William Glen McGee, French consul in Pittsburgh. Saint-Gaudens previously had been made a Chevalier of the legion in 1927.

Club Dance Series To Help Library

Chateau Royale Club, of Turtle Creek, announces a series of dances, part of the proceeds of which will go toward purchase of books for the borough school library. The first will be Monday night in the Westinghouse Cafeteria auditorium. The Turtle Creek school building was destroyed by fire February 27.

Walter Winchell ON BROADWAY

Notion

Oh, very soon my time will come to gloat,
When vanquished Winter slinks away from town;
The wine of Spring will gurgle in my throat
When hillsides change and wear a flowered gown;
For this first April that I spend with you
Will wear a strange enchantment all its own,
And give two waifs the courage to renew
The building of a gay and golden throne.

Old Springs will hurry back along the wind,
To stab and thrust, but I believe that we
Have left remorse so very far behind
That it will prove a puny enemy;

For kisses lull the strongest ghosts to sleep—
And faith has buried many a heartbreak deep!

There, Now!

Ben Bernie, the Old Maestroach, who gets all mixed up and forgets his lines at the Paramount this week, doesn't have to worry about ever being electrocuted.

He's a non-conductor.

Izzy Elinsonisms

One look at Bernie's schnozzle and you're realize that Jimmy Durante has a pug nose . . . It looks as though the movie stars began wearing them just in time to get a kick in the pants—and when they won't have much use for the pockets! . . . It's too bad that so many people can't rejoice about the return of beer until they hear that the poorhouse is installing a bar . . . Stocks reached such heights the other day—I hear that the feller who marks the Stock Exchange board suffered dizzy spells. It's so long since he's had to stand up on his toes!

A Fortune

By Bob Hertzberg — to Ed Wynn:

"As ye soooo-ooo-o-o-oh-so shall ye reap!"

One Man's Opinion

The editor of the "On Second Thought" column in the Post, according to that paper's promotion dep't, believes:

"A newspaper column, like 'Caesar's Little Woman,' must be above suspicion. It must not use its friends, or be used by them. It must not 'take' or 'give.' It is an expression of the old ego and one man's opinion.

"The only rule for writing is this—be yourself.

"It should not engage in crusades or espouse causes. To do so warps the judgment and blurs the vision of the columnist and greatly weakens whatever effectiveness he might otherwise have.

"It doesn't need to be funny, although a sense of humor doesn't hurt it. But it must make sense. Its first objective is to induce people to read it. Its second is to print the truth as the columnist sees it in kindly, decent and tolerant fashion."

Heywood Broun, it seems to us, is expert at columning, and he crusades and espouses causes. A newspaper column, when it isn't a serious one, should be amusing, if possible. That's the trouble. There are too many indignant people writing newspaper columns, or alleged columns.

One of the better columnists of his time, Dr. Frank Crane, once penned:

"It is a poor newspaper these days that does not employ a columnist. That is, somebody who shall say short and pithy things—or at least try."

As If We Didn't Know

Norman Sullivan says it's easy to tell the pawnshop owners. They're the guys who still have overcoats to wear.

The Morning Mail

"Dear Winchell," writes Phil Richards, "whenever there's a plagiarized line there's an Old Constant Reader licking his chops as he finds it. I, too, was impressed by the significant comment from the play, 'Our Wife,' which you quoted: 'Not only do I love you, but I like you!' when Lucille Webster said it some years ago to Jimmy Gleason as an exit line in 'The Shannons of Broadway.' Sincerely yours."

Thank you, sir. A scallion, then, to Lillian Day and Lyon Mearson, the authors of "Our Wife."

Telegram

"Dear Vulture," writes Milton Berle (who is opposition at the Capitol this week), "I'm surprised to see that you would allow your co-conspirator, Bernie, to lead you into saying I stole his jokes. I have receipts from four authors who write my stuff.

"You know I never squawk when I'm kidded or called a gag pirate. It's all good publicity, and you've been my best press agent, as you've been Ben's. But none of 'the boys,' as you said, paid me a call—not in person, anyway. So a scallion to Ben and two to you!

"I'm really surprised, Walter, that you, who should know better, would accuse me of stealing Ben's gags. I heard his gags yesterday—pee—yew!"

You said it!

Plays and Players

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

"Of Thee I Sing" having closed its Nixon engagement last night, Pittsburgh is again without a legitimate attraction. However, the vacancy will be brief, inasmuch as "The Green Pastures" will come to the Nixon next Monday with the original company that has been playing in this production steadily for three years. It is an unusual company, too, aside from the fact that it is entirely a Negro organization. Richard B. Harrison, who plays the leading role, never was on the legitimate stage before he appeared in this play for the first time at the age of 66, although he had previously been a Chatauqua "reader," with experience as a bell-hop, hotel porter and dining car waiter. As a result of his work in "The Green Pastures" he has received the Spingarn medal and other honors from universities.

Rod LaRoque in Lead In 'S. O. S. Iceber

Rod LaRoque was engaged by Universal to portray the lead male role in the English version of "S. O. S. Iceberg" now being completed at a Berlin studio under the direction of Tay Garnett. Exterior for the production were filmed off the icy coast of Greenland by Dr. Arnold Fanck . "S. O. S. Iceberg" marks LaRoque's return to the screen after a period of retirement. During the silent era in pictures he figured prominently in such productions as "The Ten Commandments" and "Feet of Clay."

Kathleen Burke allowed herself to be tossed into a pool filled with 50 alligators.

Butterworth to Help Tracy in Next

Lee Tracy's next picture will be "The Chasers," according to Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer. Charles Butterworth, who was seen recently on the Broadway stage in "Flying Colors," will have a leading role in the forthcoming film.

OLD DRAMA :-: Light On Tragedy That Once Was Popular :-: MOVIE BITS

Pitt Teacher Writes On Southerne

By GEORGE SEIBEL

Though his famous tragedy, "Oroonoko," was produced at the Malvern Drama Festival in England last year, it has remained for a Pittsburgh professor to bring the dramatist Southerne to life in a new book full of interest to students of drama. Doctoral theses are mostly dull—this one is as lively as a cricket. John Wendell Dodds, of Pitt, has written it— and "Thomas Southerne, Dramatist," is published by the Yale University Press.

Southerne's tragedy "Oroonoko" held the stage over 130 years—57 editions have been printed. Carrick made his first appearance on the stage, after he had quit the wine business, in this play, acting a minor part — and played the "noble savage" 18 years later. Edmund Kean acted Oroonoko, according to the great critic Hazlitt, with "strokes of passion that took the audience by surprise, and they only found relief in tears."

Mr. Seibel

Junius Brutus Booth, father of our Edwin, acted this tragedy in New York just 100 years ago and startled the audience by appearing in bare feet, "insisting that it was absurd to put shoes on a slave."

HERO IS A NEGRO

Oroonoko was one of those Negro roles which were popular at intervals between "Othello" and "Uncle Tom's Cabin." The hero is an African prince sold into slavery and separated from his young wife, Imoinda. When his wife is also sold as a slave to the same colony, and is pursued by the Lieut. Governor with attentions "strictly dishonorable," Oroonoko stirs the slaves to a revolt which ends in their massacre and his own death.

Southerne got his plot of "Oroonoko" from a novel by Mrs. Aphra Behn, a popular writer of shocking drivel who somehow got buried in Westminster Abbey. Southerne softened her horrors—in the novel the "noble savage" is hacked to pieces. Mrs. Behn always insisted that her story was true—that as a child she was taken to Surinam and knew Oroonoko himself.

APPLAUSE BY SIR WALTER

Southerne also got from Mrs. Behn the plot of his other famous tragedy, "The Fatal Marriage," in which Sir Walter Scott applauded Fanny Kemble.

The most popular Isabella in this drama was the famous Mrs. Siddons, and she played so well on her opening night that "two ladies in the boxes actually fainted."

The plot is an earlier version of the Enoch Arden story—but the supposedly dead husband does not go away when he finds his wife again married, so a murder or two and Isabella's suicide are needed to straighten everything out.

Prof. Dodds has written a very complete and fascinating account of this English dramatist now almost forgotten. He was the son of a Dublin brewer—Irish, like so many great English dramatists from Sheridan to Shaw. His first play was "The Loyal Brother," and he seems to have lived an uneventful life, though near the end he dined in Dublin with Dean Swift. Which brings to mind that at last they are going to put "Gulliver's Travels" into the movies.

CALLED "HONEST TOM"

Swift probably liked Southerne for his honesty, as he was called "Honest Tom," by his friends. But he had the weakness many dramatists are subject to—reading his plays to his friends. One of them wrote about him that "He was in love with Lady Orrery, or at least with her dinners. He even admired her music, though he is deaf, and repeated so much of his plays to her that she became deaf also."

Both Pope and Dryden paid graceful compliments to Southerne, who merited them by the sincere simplicity of his dramatic verse. This scholarly book about him by a Pittsburgh writer revives a significant personage in English drama, and friends of drama owe Prof. Dodds real thanks.

Drama

Helen Chandler will be seen in "Behind Jury Doors," screen melodrama that will be given with vaudeville acts in the Variety Sunday midnight.

Cut Permits Operation

HOLLYWOOD, March 23.—(AP.)—Announcing that no studio will have to close down because of the "salary emergency," the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences states the average of those voluntarily taking salary reductions in all studios was 93.9 percent.

The acceptance of wage and salary reduction, amounting to 50 percent over an eight weeks period, allowed seven studios to remain in full production while four are operating with skeleton crews.

Major studios and the percentage of employes voluntarily accepting the cut are Columbia, 97 percent; Warner Brothers-First National, 97; RKO-Radio, 96; Fox, 95; Paramount, 93; Universal, 91, and Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, 90.

Playhouse To Present "Brief Moment"

The Co-operative Playhouse of the Y. M. & W. H. A. will present "Brief Moment," by S. N. Behrman, Sunday, April 2, and Tuesday, April 4. This modern comedy will be the third major production of the season by this group.

Lasky Trying To Entice Tallulah

By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD, March 23. Although it failed once with Tallulah Bankhead, Hollywood can't let the Alabama actress alone. Through extended long distance conversations, Jesse Lasky is trying to persuade her to return here and take the lead in "The Worst Woman in Paris."

With a play on her hands, and, if you can believe reports, a successful one, the actress may find it difficult to get away just now. The fact that she invested her own money in "Forsaking All Others" will make her all the more careful of its continued well being.

On the other hand, "The Worst Woman in Paris" is said to be a swell Bankhead type. It's a story by Monta Dell about an American girl who is the soul of propriety in her Kansas home, but who makes plenty of whoopee in Paris.

Jean Harlow was mentioned for the role, but M-G-M is seething with plans of its own for the platinum-haired star.

When the picture gets under way, Monta Bell will be directing his own story.

* * *

All unknown to themselves, two "bit" players in "Reunion in Vienna" are the cause of mild hysterics at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.

When the picture was going into production, the studio sent East for Bela Loblov and Morris Nussbaum, two musicians who had figured briefly in the Broadway version of Bob Sherwood's play.

Arriving here, the two were given one of those form biography charts to fill out for the publicity department. Each gave "Reunion in Vienna" as his favorite play and Lynn Fontanne and Alfred Lunt as his favorite players.

In due course of time, the musicians left for New York. The next day, an air-mail special delivery letter arrived at the publicity department. It had been written on the train. It read:

"Dear Sirs: Will you kindly fill out the sheet we made in your office and change our favorite actors to John Barrymore and Diana Wynyard. Yours very truly, Bela Loblov and Morris Nussbaum."

* * *

In his usual retiring manner, Ronald Colman slipped out of Hollywood last Saturday, allowing but few of his friends to know of his departure. He is now aboard the S. S. Lucia, bound for Havana and possibly for Europe. Al Weigand, a friend, is going along to keep him company. As for the Samuel Goldwyn dispute, it is still up in the air. I have an idea, however, that Ronnie will be back here making pictures long before the two years we have been hearing about.

Broadways Of the World — All in a Day

By Mark Hellinger

KING DAVID HOTEL, JERUSALEM, Palestine.—Well, beginning tomorrow afternoon, my tour that embraced this portion of the world will be definitely over. I'm catching the S. S. Resolute at Haifa. I go from Haifa to Port Said, from Port Said to Suez—and from Suez to Bombay, India.

Frankly, I'll be sorry to leave Jerusalem. In all my travels I haven't encountered another spot like it. If you're a student of the ancient, here is your most fertile field. If you're a student of the modern, here is an experiment that is well worth watching. And if you're a student of political intrigue, here is your heaven.

More, Jerusalem has been especially interesting to me because I've had the opportunity of watching the reactions of two different parties of American tourists during my short stay here. My first opportunity came when the S. S. Conte Grande arrived here a day or two ago. And my second chance arrived when the boys and girls from the Resolute pulled in here this afternoon.

This is a bad year for cruises, as any steamship office will sadly inform you. Several lines, still living in the glorious days before the crash, have very bravely sent out ships and passengers in spite of general conditions. I admire their spunk, which will certainly result in much advertising. It will hardly resut in much money, however, which is more important.

Nevertheless, the S. S. Conte Grande and the S. S. Resolute are two vessels that have braved the angry seas of the depression; the former for a Mediterranean cruise and the latter bound around the world. I haven't had much of a chance to observe the Resolute passengers yet—which isn't much of a loss because I'll have plenty of opportunity to study them on my 14-day journey to India. But I've had a good look at the birds aboard the Conte Grande, and precious birds they are, too.

I was sitting in the lobby the other afternoon, for instance, when the advance guard of the Conte Grande tourists drifted in. I was talking to an Englishman who took his Palestine in a very serious fashion.

"The eyes of the world are focused on Palestine at the moment," he was saying. "You don't realize that, I suppose, because you are a part of Broadway. You don't know that various nations are watching our every move and that every development here is a subject of intense interest throughout the world.

"It seems very quiet here, I'll admit. When one lives in a spot, one doesn't quite understand how vital that spot is. But I do—and I always have. I'll wager that, throughout America, the average man understands conditions here far better than you think he does.

"Don't you agree?"

"Heavens, man," I murmured, "the average American thinks no more about the problems of England than he does about the winner of the first race in Shanghai this afternoon, and maybe just a little bit less. I'm writing about this city in my column these days, but I don't kid myself that many people will be interested.

"Why should they be? When you tackle something that's totally foreign, what is there to hold the interest? You're wrong, boy. Jerusalem, to the average American, is just as far away as it sounds."

"You're wrong, I tell you," he cried. "Absolutely wrong! Distance makes little difference when universal problems are tackled. I'll wager right now that practically every American knows—"

He stopped abruptly and looked up—because I was doing the same thing. Directly beside us stood an American from the Conte Grande. A tall gentleman he was, with iron gray hair. He was talking to the manager of the hotel.

"Yes," he was saying, "it's a very nice hotel. Extremely nice, as a matter of fact. I want to congratulate you on maintaining such a fine establishment out in this wilderness.

"And there's just one more thing. Is there anybody else who speaks English in this town beside yourself? My wife and I were figuring on going out tonight, and I had so much trouble with the lingo in Athens that I lost all the fun."

The manager was politeness personified.

"You'll have no such trouble here, sir," he returned. "Palestine is under British jurisdiction and practically everyone speaks English."

The American seemed highly astonished.

"No?" he asserted incredulously. "Well, I'll be doggoned! That certainly is news to me. Imagine them talking English away out here! It's a small world all right."

He left. And I turned back to my English friend.

"Sorry I interrupted you," I said, "but you were saying something, I believe, about the average American understanding the British problem in Jerusalem. What else did you have in mind?"

My English friend looked at me angrily, and then broke into a grin.

"Nothing," he replied "Let's have a drink." . . .

Yes, tourists are funny birds—and I have a hunch that the more I see of them, the more certain I am going to be that my statement is correct. But no matter what happens to me on the Resolute in the next two weeks and regardless of the experiences I encounter, nothing is going to top the remark of the little old lady from the Conte Grande, who marched into the barroom at the cocktail hour yesterday evening.

She was angry—definitely and completely angry. She joined a party of three other elderly ladies at the table next to mine, and she threw herself into a chair with an exclamation that wouldn't look any too well in print.

I looked up in astonishment. I couldn't help myself. And the ladies at the table were evidently of the same mind.

"Why, Gertrude," cried one of them, "I've never hear you say such a thing before. Whatever has happened?"

The little old lady banged upon the table.

"Waiter," she fairly shouted. "Waiter! Bring me a martini cocktail just as fast as you can. And you'd better hurry!"

She turned to the rest of the group.

"My dears," she asserted, "I have never in my entire life gone through what I encountered this afternoon. I thought that Jerusalem was a civilized country. And what do I find? Nothing but a lot of roughnecks and beggars who fairly pushed me around."

"But, Gertrude," said one of the other women, "nobody asked you to go off alone. You said you wanted to do it for the experience."

The little old lady nodded.

"You're right," she returned defiantly, "and I've had my experience And when I get back to Forest Hills I'll have plenty to tell the good folks in my section. I was never so disappointed in a place in all my life.

FACTORY WORKER ILL SIX WEEKS

Able to Work Again After Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

"I work hard in a factory. At one time I was home for six weeks, too weak and rundown to work. I tried different medicines and I was all discouraged but after I started taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I could feel myself gaining strength. I can honestly say that it built me up so I can work."—Hazel V. Smith, 97 Norfolk St., Cambridge, Mass.

If you are weak, nervous and run down, give this medicine a fair trial. Remember that half a million women say, "It helps me." Sold in both liquid and tablet form at your nearest drug store. You will find the tablets convenient and easy to take.

Patricia Pitt

The Pitt Cap and Gown show is always an affair of interest to Pittsburgh folks and this season it will prove so more than ever because this year's production, "All to the Point," is to be about the pioneer days of Pittsburgh. And before I tell you more about it, you will want to know that the date is Monday evening, April 24, and the place the Nixon Theater.

As you know, the Cap and Gown opening performance is always sponsored by the Civic Club of Allegheny County. The committee of nine to arrange for the organization's support is in charge of Mrs. H. Allen Machesney, always an active dramatic devotee. Her committee includes George L. Collord, Eugene L. Connelly, Mrs. E. K. Coyle, George R. Gibbins, Mrs. Francis Sellers Guthrie, William E. Quinby, Theodore F. Smith and Mrs. William Thaw, Jr.

And now back to the play, which is to be a musical romance in two acts and seven scenes portraying historic scenes of early Pittsburgh; the famous old Green Tree Inn, the barracks at Fort Pitt, the interior of the first log school house and early Smithfield street. With such material to work with the Cap and Gown Club expects to surpass all its former efforts in staging and costuming.

Musical Romance

The Civic Club is already taking reservations for the opening performance and tickets may be obtained by writing the club headquarters in the Hotel William Penn.

Word reaches us that Mrs. James P. McKinney, Jr., of Shady avenue and Coconut Grove, Fla., was matron of honor at a wedding in that resort Saturday. And Louise McKinney was one of the bridesmaids.

Florida Wedding

The bride, a relative of Mrs. McKinney, was Kathleen Forbes Morehouse, daughter of the Theodore C. Moorehouses, of Bronxville, N. Y., and the bridegroom, Thomas Everard Spence, son of the Thomas H. Spences, of Portadown, North Ireland.

Journey's End, the Coconut Grove home of the bride's grandparents, the George Platt Bretts, of Fairfield, Conn., was the setting of the ceremony. Golden-colored gladioli decorated the home and the patio, where the ceremony took place. And American and Irish airs were played by an orchestra in the great hall.

The bride wore white mousseline de soie over white taffeta, and a veil of tulle, and carried gardenias, lilies of the valley and orange blossoms.

Mrs. McKinney wore yellow chiffon, and her daughter, Louise, wore primrose batiste, embroidered in yellow and having a delphinium blue velvet sash. Her picture hat of Leghorn was trimmed with blue velvet ribbon. She carried a Colonial bouquet. Patricia Spence, sister of the bridegroom, who came from Ireland to attend the wedding, was the other bridesmaid, wearing a similar costume.

Yellow Gowns

Richard Spence, of Vernona, N. J., was his brother's best man. A reception in the garden, about which had been placed small tables under gayly colored umbrellas, followed.

After a wedding trip Mr. Spence and his bride will live in Belfast, Ireland.

Every day I hear of some more young folks who are Pittsburgh-bound for spring holidays. I want to add to the list of young men going to Princeton, who'll be home soon, the names of Kenneth Elliott, James Marks, John Duff, Van Coyle, Robert Stephenson, Richard Davison, Ray Vilsack and McKee Morgan.

Edna B. Seiler Is Married to G. M. Hoffman

Announcement is made of the marriage last night at 8:30 o'clock of Miss Edna B. Seiler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius H. Seiler, of School street, Glenfield, to George M. Hoffman, of Emsworth.

Officiating was the Rev. J. W. Springer, of the Emsworth United Presbyterian Church. The ceremony took place in the Seiler home.

Mrs. Mollie Seiler Zahner, sister of the bride, was her only attendant, and Philip N. Miller was the best man. The bride wore a gown of white crepe and her sister chose green crepe. Both carried gardenias.

There was a supper for the families after the ceremony.

Miss Margaret Fink Marries New York Man

On Sunday at a ceremony in the Y. M. & W. H. A. Miss Margaret Fink, daughter of Simon Fink, of Hobart street, became the bride of Charles E. Yaffey, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. Yaffey, of New York, with Rabbi Herman Halpern officiating.

Miss Jean Closky and Miss Bell Barsky played the wedding music and sang.

There was a dinner for the families after the ceremony and Mr. Yaffey and his bride left on an extended motor trip.

Others will be Mrs. Arthur L. Humphrey, Mrs. Roy A. Hunt, Mrs. Thomas R. Hartley, Mrs. Pitt O. Heasley, Mrs. A. G. Holmes, Mrs. William R. Jarvis, Mrs. H. Fred Mercer, Mrs. John R. McCune, Mrs. R. V. Nuttall, Mrs. Harold A. Nomer, Mrs. Robert M. Repp, Sr., and Mrs. George Phelps Rose.

Others will be Mrs. James Hay Reed, Mrs. William M. Robinson, Mrs. J. Hanson Rose, Mrs. William Schoyer, Mrs. Walter R. Spellmire, Mrs. Charles H. E. Succop, Mrs. William Watson Smith, Mrs. Isaac Biddle Thomas, Mrs. Oscar Wikander, Mrs. William P. Witherow, Mrs. Edward R. Weidline, Mrs. Charles Wilder, Mrs. Harry Wilson and Miss Velma Wilson.

Reception to Honor Dr. MacGowan, Family

Tomorrow evening the congregation of the Bellefield Presbyterian Church will give a reception in honor of their pastor, the Rev. Dr. Robert MacGowan, Mrs. MacGowan and their daughter, Peggy Jean. Dr. MacGowan is leaving the Bellefield Presbyterian Church to accept a call from Irvington-on-the-Hudson, New York.

The reception will be from 9 to 10 o'clock in the church parlors, following the regular preparatory services for communion which will be from 8 to 9 o'clock. On Sunday morning Dr. MacGowan will preach his final sermon at the Bellefield Presbyterian Church, bringing to a close a pastorate of 17 years in Pittsburgh.

McCarthy Club Benefit Bridge Set for Saturday

Heads of Four of Largest Women's Organizations On Single Program

By MRS. CHARLES M. BREGG

For what is thought to be the first time in the history of women's clubs, presidents of four of the largest women's organizations in the United States will appear on the same program tonight.

They are Mrs. Grace Morrison Poole, president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs; Mrs. Ella A. Boole, president of the National Women's Christian Temperance Union; Mrs. Geline McDonald Bowman, president of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, and Miss Lena Madesin Phillips, president of the National Council of Women.

They will speak at a tribute dindinner to be given at the Hotel Vanderbilt, New York, honoring officials of the Postal Telegraph Company, who have financed the international congress of women to be held at the Chicago Century of Progress Exposition this year. Women from 50 countries have been invited to the exposition July 16 to 22.

Winchester Group Plans Rummage Sale April 1

There's to be still another of those popular rummage sales this spring. The Winchester Alumnae Association will hold its annual rummage sale Saturday, April 1, at 6258 Frankstown avenue, with Mrs. Robert P. Rhodes as chairman.

Aiding Mrs. Rhodes will be Mrs. Arthur B. Kline, Mrs. Paul Ernst, Mrs. David Jackman, Jr., Mrs. Russell Mitchell and Mrs. Robert Grove.

Bundles for the sale may be left at the Winchester School until Friday noon, March 31, and after that date at the address of the sale.

Dr. Macartney Addresses Business Women's Club

The Rev. Dr. C. E. Macartney is delivering his second Lenton address to the Thursday Noon Club for business women today in the First Presbyterian Church. The address is "Drifting From Her God." Mrs. Alberta Murray Baker is singing.

Congress Group Hears Talk On Poetry

Only those who first discipline their minds in verse form should be permitted to write free verse, Mrs. William Noble Zortman stated in her delightful talk on "Trends in Modern Poetry" before the literature department of the Congress of Clubs yesterday.

Recognized authorities do not concur in their opinion of any modern art, including poetry, Mrs. Zortman said. Most people think of poetry as something apart from life and of poets as dreamy and impracticable people, whereas in reality poetry, like all art, mirrors life; it is the beauty of life, she said.

She commented on the fact that children are being encouraged to express themselves in poetry. She read from John Masefield, Rupert Brooke and Amy Lowell and others to illustrate imagery, rythm, and pattern.

Another enjoyable feature of the program was the music—a group of Nellie Risher Roberts' songs (both words and music are by her) which Eda Schaffer Kreiling sang with Mrs. Roberts at the piano and Ruth Bowers Gibson playing violin obligatos. Mrs. Charles M. Bregg, club editor of the Sun-Telegraph, added an autobiography of a club meeting, which she illustrated with photographs taken in the newspaper office.

Oldtime Concert to Be Given in Third Church

In the Chapel of the Third United Presbyterian Church tomorrow night a concert of old time songs will be given under the direction of James Meanor.

Mr. and Mrs. George T. Marshall will act as "Pa" and "Ma" and through their "Memories", a home scene will be enacted the continuity of which has been written by Mrs. Ethel Cecil Duecker.

The chorus will appear in costumes of the 90's.

ELABORATE EVENING GOWNS TO FOLLOW TREND OF ELEGANCE

By KAY JOHNSON

IN SPITE of "the times," in spite of a general tendency away from wormal dressing, women apparently are not denying themselves completely the pleasure of wearing elaborate evening dresses. At least this is the declaration of several of the most important dress designers who offer as proof the fact that many of their clients request dresses with trains—in fact, ask that trains be added to dresses which have been designed without them.

* * *

THE CURRENT trend of fashions in evening clothes falls in step with this elegance. Gowns are simple, and therefore must be made of handsome materials. They fit the figure closely and require, for good effect, the regal carriage that goes with elegant clothes. Jewels, when worn at all, are elaborate and in mammoth size. There is, in general, a severe mark of division between the gown that is genuinely formal and the one that is not.

* * *

THE DRESS in today's sketch owns a great part of its style is its train. It is fashioned of white satin, which wraps around the figure closely, leaving all fullness to the train, which begins at the top of the skirt. The waistline is placed low, leaving the bodice seaming to indicate the curves at the waist.

* * *

THE WRAP, of white velvet, is made up of two half-capes, plaited from neck to fingertip hem. The bow, which replaces a collar, is likewise of the plaited white velvet.

PHILADELPHIA, March 23.—Sister M. Rose, superintendent of Mercy Hospital, Pittsburgh, has been nominated as vice president of the Hospital Association of Pennsylvania, and Miss Mary B. Miller, superintendent of the Presbyterian Hospital, Pittsburgh, as a trustee at the twelfth annual convention in session here. The election will be held late today.

Maj. Roger A. Greene, Pottsville, chairman of the legislative committee, was nominated for president-elect.

MORE RUNDS NEEDED

Steps to avert failure of hospitals to care for the sick poor of the state were discussed by the delegates. With more hospitals seeking state aid, larger appropriations for the next two years are needed unless medical aid to the poor is to be curtailed further, Maj. Greene warned.

Gov. Pinchot has cut the hospital appropriations to $6,500,000 and the Legislature is inclined to restore the figure to the present level of $7,151,000, but the inclusion of additional hospitals automatically threatens to reduce appropriations to present state aided hospitals.

John M. Smith, Philadelphia, retiring president, has warned that a lowering of quality of service would be intolerable.

MISS TURNBULL HEAD

Miss Jessie J. Turnbull, superintendent of the Elizabeth Steel Magee Hospital, takes office today as president of the state hospital body.

At the annual association dinner Dr. S. S. Goldwater, New York, discussed problems in hospitalizing the middle class, saying that ultimately hospitals and the medical profession would find it to their mutual advantage to work out a solution which would recognize the value of the hospital in its community and protect the family practitioner.

AUTO MISHAPS COSTLY

Automobile accidents which cost hospitals of the state more than $3,000,000 a year were one of the convention's chief concerns. A lien bill recently introduced into the Legislature may not prove constitutional, and the hospitals are seeking a way by which they may be reimbursed for care given to motor victims whose injuries are covered in insurance settlements, according to Maj. Greene.

Hospitals are sponsoring another bill in the Legislature which empowers third-class cities to appropriate funds for the care of the indigent in their localities.

HOUSING GROUP SEES JOB AID

Activity of Gov. Pinchot in behalf of the housing project, which would result, if passed by the Legislature in elimination of slums and erection of better homes for persons with small incomes, was hailed today by the Pittsburgh Housing Association as a step toward partial solution of unemployment here. Leaders of the association predicted passage of the legislation, for which the association long has fought.

Thousands of unemployed would be given work in tearing down and rebuilding structures in the slum districts of the state, officials of the association said. Passage of the bills would enable the state to obtain loans from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to be used in the work.

MEDICS CHARGE HOSPITAL GLUT

CHICAGO, March 23.—(AP.)—The American Medical Association reported today through its publication, The Journal, that the United States has become "vastly over-hospitalized." The Journal said:

"There are in this country 6,562 hospitals with more than 1,000,000 beds. More than 200,000 of those beds are not occupied."

In an editorial the Journal said that many business men have attempted to recoup fortunes through organizing hospitals or insurance systems of hospitalization.

The editorial said the Journal had opposed such plans "by commercial interests which charge excessively for selling the service or promoting it and which frequently have insufficient financial backing."

EXPECT RECORD SUNDAY SHOW

Father Cox has had several successful food benefits during the last winter through the co-operation of the Sun-Telegraph, the Warner Theaters and others, and all at a time when the depression was at its lowest ebb. With the outlook considerably more cheerful it is expected that the benefit at the de luxe Enright Theater next Sunday will be a record-breaker in the amount of food donated. Manager Frank Roberts is working with this end in view and he predicts that Father Cox will get 10 tons of food for his breadline and destitute families.

Mr. Roberts

The feature picture will be Joe E. Brown, in "You Said a Mouthful," amplified with newsreels, comedies and short subjects. Donations of food will be the only requirement for admission but Father Cox hopes that everyone attending will enter into the spirit of the benefit—that all will give liberally. In some of the recent benefits there have been many who seem to have taken pride in seeing how little they could give. Father Cox would like to have each person bring food to the value, at least, of the box office price of admission to a high-class movie show. Father Cox is coming out to the Enright both afternoon and evening.

The Father Cox-Sun-Telegraph drive for subscriptions is still meeting with gratifying success. For every subscription that comes in on the blank on this page or is telephoned in with the request that Father Cox be given credit for it, brings to his unemployment relief fund a liberal cash commission.

Somerset Doctor, War Veteran, Dies

SOMERSET, Pa., March 23.—Dr. J. Earl Dull, 43, died today at his home of a lung condition, superinduced by wounds and gas received while serving with the Rainbow Division in France. He leaves his widow and two children.

PARENTS SAVE TWO FROM FIRE

Two children were carried to safety by their parents when fire broke out in the basement of their two-story frame home at 942 Haslage avenue, Spring Hill, last night.

Aroused by smoke, Lucas R. Schnarrenberger, awakened his wife, Esther. They carried their children, Ruth, 9, and Ralph, 5, through the smoke-filled house into the street.

Firemen, summoned by a still alarm, held the blaze to the cellar and estimated the damage at $100. The cause was undetermined.

REDUCE NOW WITHOUT THYROID WITHOUT SALTS WITHOUT DIET

Science finds absolutely safe way to lose ugly fat.

Here's wonderful news for women who want to make their figures slim and lovely. A great physician, who has specialized in research with the Pasteur Institute of Paris and famous clinics of America, has discovered an absolutely harmless tablet that will take off 8 or 10 pounds a month.

Now it is absurd for anyone to take dangerous drugs, or a daily dose of laxative salts that rushes food through the system half digested, and leads to chronic constipation. The new treatment contains no Thyroid Extract, no laxative drugs at all. It is a safe, natural regulator of the digestive ferments (Lipase) which control the production of fat in all human bodies.

You don't have to starve yourself or go through painful exercises. You simply take the tablets each day and continue to eat three ample meals. The fat disappears at just the places where you want to lose it. We will donate $500 to charity if anyone can prove that Vannay contains Thyroid, Iodine or any harmful drugs.

Start the treatment at once and all your fondest dreams of health and slim loveliness should come true. Ask your druggist for Vannay and be sure to see that name on the package. If he doesn't have Vannay, insist that he orders it for you.

GEARY AGGRESSOR IN FIGHT, O'MALLEY CONTENDS

Legislature Session Extension Likely

By MARK SHIELDS

HARRISBURG, March 23.—Adjournment of the Legislature was scheduled for April 13, when the members first came to Harrisburg last January. In the intervening weeks that date has grown dimmer and dimmer as a possibility of accomplishment, and now seems little chance that the assembly will lay down its arms—or throw up its hands — before the first of May.

Mr. Shields

This supposes no lack of energy by individuals or groups. It is true that the visible accomplishments of the Legislature to date, based on the actual passage of bills, is little to boast of. But behind the scenes there has been diligent, though not always effective, work.

The task confronting this Legislature is finding relief money without increasing taxes and reducing governmental expenses, was tremendous. Every move to reduce expenses has met with stubborn opposition from some quarter, much of it well organized. This opposition in many instances has come from the same sources which also have been insistent upon relief appropriation and against tax increases for the imposition of new taxes.

* * *

Way for Strong Leadership Open

The fault with this Legislature has not been on the score of laziness. Experienced members have worked hard, but an unfortunate majority of them have operated on the treadmill basis. They have struggled in committee and conference, but they have made little forward motion. They have bewailed the lack of impetus, have complained of the lack of leadership by the titular chiefs—and that is all.

The way is wide open for a small group of strong and determined men in the Legislature to take charge of things and push to a conclusion. If that is not done the members who complain of slowness, even though they have been working energetically, will have no one to blame but themselves.

There are multiplying signs that some members have arrived at this conclusion. In the Senate especially there are evidences that next week a cohesion of a few senators will occur if something is not done. They plan to force action, without regard to the leaders.

In this group are men of experience, associated with the organization, who, like Senator Samuel Salus, of Philadelphia, say they not only will not adjourn April 13, but do not dare adjourn unless some accomplishments are recorded.

Schwartz Bill Balked But Has Its Effects

The Schwartz blue law bill has not made much progress on its own hook this session, being now blockaded in a conference committee, but it has had an important bearing on other legislation. A case in point is the Woodward bill prohibiting a candidate seeking the nomination of more than one party in a primary election.

It was introduced by Senator George Woodward, of Philadelphia, and became the pet of Senator John Howell, of Lackawanna, chairman of the Senate Elections Committee. It passed the Senate under his guidance, but promptly was buried in the House, largely through the influence of Philadelphia members attached to the Vare organization.

Howell burned up, but the Philadelphians were not impressed. Came time for final vote on the blue law bill. Howell was counted in its favor. But he grew cold. He intimated he might be unable to appear in the Senate for the roll call. And he was vitally needed, for the bill at best only had the absolute minimum of positive votes for passage.

Philadelphians were vitally interested in its passage, and Schwartz reasoned with Howell. Finally the sponsor of the bill discovered that Senator Howell would do nothing so long as the primary bill was throttled. Agreement was reached to report it out, and Howell voted for the blue law revision.

The Woodward bill would prevent such incidents as that in Allegheny County, where Congressman Clyde Kelly, in the last election was the candidate on the Republican, Democratic and Prohibition tickets, a remarkable situation in view of the vital difference of all three party platforms on the prohibition question. Another example was the case of Senator Frank J. Harris, who had even more nominations than Kelly.

It is possible the bill will be amended to permit judicial candidates to be nominated by more than one party. This is in line with the principle of making the judicial elections as near nonpartisan in fact as they are supposed to be in theory, despite the election laws which abolished the old non-partisan system.

Former Clerk Waives Hearing in Shortage

Paul Orris, former borough clerk of East Pittsburgh, was recommitted to the county jail in default of $5,000 bail after waiving a hearing on a charge of embezzlement before Alderman Sol S. Goldstein, Murray avenue, last night.

Orris, sought for six weeks, surrendered to District Attorney Andrew T. Park, March 10. An incomplete auditor's report to the East Pittsburgh Council disclosed a shortage in his accounts of $3,444, according to Borough Solicitor Sidney Gottlieb.

Sharlie Defends Boy And Hurriedly Leaves House to Meet Him

CHAPTER II.

There was not another word out of Edna that afternoon. From behind the closed doors of her room came the sound of a sigh once or twice—the long, soft sigh of a person who is in a dead sleep.

"I don't wish her any hard luck, but I hope she sleeps till midnight," said Sharlie to herself.

Edna usually minded her own business. But her attitude toward Eddie Wallis worried Sharlie. She wondered if Edna would say anything to Dodie about him when Dodie came home. She wished that she had not told Edna that she was going to meet Eddie on the street corner that night.

"She may try to stop me," she thought as she washed out a pair of sweat socks in the bathroom bowl.

She hung the socks over the towel rack to dry and settled her self in her room, where she spent an hour polishing her nails with some of her mother's coral-colored nail cream.

At 5 o'clock Dodie telephoned her.

"The Hanaberrys are going to have dinner with us," she said, "so set the table for six people. Don't forget to put the potatoes in the oven at half past five, and you'd better run down to Henry's for another pound of pork chops, Charleen."

"Charleen" was the name that had been given to Sharlie in baptism. "I named you after an old sweetheart of mine," Dodie had told her once. "His name was Charlie Phillips—and, oh, but he was good looking! He went straight to the dogs when I married your father."

SEEMS SATISFIED

She smiled to herself over the memory of Charlie Phillips. It seemed to her a good deal of satisfaction to remember that a man had gone straight to the dogs once upon a time because of her.

It gave Sharlie a warm little glow of satisfaction to hear about it, too . . . No wonder he had wrecked himself because of Dodie—she was pretty! Maud Hanaberry was actually plain beside her. And fat, comfortable Mrs. Barnum looked old enough to be her mother.

Mrs. Barnum was in the vestibule of the building when Sharlie started out on her trip to Henry's butcher shop.

She had picked up here evening paper from the black-and-white marble floor and she was shaking her head over the headlines.

"Hello, Sharlie Dunn!" she said, looking up from them to give the girl a smile. "How have you been all this hot day?"

Mrs. Barnum's smile was like herself—big and generous. She smiled with her eyes and her wide mouth and with all the little wrinkles that middle age was etching in her face.

"I've been fine," answered Sharlie. "But Edna came home with a headache this noon."

Mrs. Barunm made a sympathetic sound in her throat.

"That's too bad," she said. "I'm just wilting, myself. I'm going upstairs now to get a nice cold supper for Jim and Gertrude—mostly salad and lemonade. Why don't you come over and play cards with us tonight Sharlie? You ain't been over for a week."

ACCEPTS INVITATION

Mrs. Barnum's grammar was far from perfect. But her voice was so lovely that people did not always notice her little mistakes. It was full and throaty and soft.

"Thanks, I'd love to come over," said Sharlie, doing some quick thinking. "I'll be over about eight."

She had no intention of spending the evening with the Barnums playing cards with them.

She was going to spend it with Eddie Wallis, just as she had spent many another exciting evening with him.

"But I'll tell the folks I'm going to the Barnums'," she thought going down the street between the rows of sun-baked houses. "And then I'll tell the Barnums that I have a date that I forgot."

How simple!

She often had told Dodie that she was spending an evening with Gertrude—and then she slipped away to meet Eddie. So far she had never been found out . . . Dodie was none of your Nosey Rosie mothers like Mrs. Barnum. Mrs. Barnum knew everything there was to know about Gertrude.

DIFFERENT TYPE

"I never go to sleep until Gertrude and Jim are safe in their beds," she said sometimes. "With automobiles killing people right and left and crazy people blowing up roadhouses, I never know what is going to happen to them when they're out at night."

"She's a fool," Dodie declared sharply when she heard

Vest-Pocket Diploma Debated at Pitt

A choice between the standard full size and a new book-type miniature diploma is now in the hands of Pitt seniors who will graduate from non-professional schools of the university in June.

Cards have been mailed by the registrar to all graduating seniors affected by the contemplated change requesting them to vote by mail for or against the new type sheepskin by Tuesday.

According to the Pitt News, university authorities decided to conduct the mail vote after the Pitt Student Council protested against what it termed an attempt to "railroad" through the change at meetings attended by only 10 per cent of the college and school of education seniors. Unless a large majority of the mail vote proves the seniors in favor of it, the change will not be made.

The new style diploma, similar to the present one except its size, is only eight by 10 inches, and, if adopted, would be inclosed in a leather folder with the owner's name in gold. It would cost the same as the present diploma, $10.

For graduates of the professional schools, the traditional large scroll suitable for framing and usually hung in the offices of lawyers, doctors and dentists, would be continued.

The Carnegie Institute of Technology is among the schools and colleges awarding the new smaller diploma.

AUTOIST DROPS INJURED BOY

Police today were searching for a motorist who picked up Claude McGuire, 11, of 4408 Penn avenue, after he had been struck and injured in Friendship avenue, near Pearl street last night, and then put him out of the machine at Frankstown and Hamilton avenues.

From the boy's two companions, policemen in a radio scout car crew learned the driver picked Claude up and took him into the car. The boys called the police.

Claude, suffering cuts and bruises, was found by another motorist, who took him to the Pittsburgh Hospital.

THUGS RESENT SMALL LOOT

Two armed bandits who held up Robert T. Reiss, 23, of 430 Brownsville road, attendant in a Standard Oil Company service station, Brighton road and Kleber street, last night, were being sought by North Side police today.

After taking a money belt containing about $16 from Reiss, the pair forced him to open the safe, in which they found only $1, police said. As they fled, one of the gunmen shouted:

"We should have plugged you for not having more dough."

Sweet Adeline Again Crowned Miss Universe

By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER

When President Roosevelt swung his monogram over the dotted line he started the great American derby for the brewer's big hosses.

Yesterday, Sweet Adeline won a beauty prize. She's Miss Universe again.

Now, all we need is a five-night week for barroom quartets and a six-hour day for bouncers.

We will miss those noble experiments of snooping, wiretapping, back-door enforcement, entrapment, bribery, shakedowns, armed raids, purchase of evidence and excitement to violate our nation's laws.

They were truly noble tests and only needed a coat-of-arms to make them royal.

We hope the wets will not spoil the victory with excesses. But we know there will be plenty of hilarious confusion.

But that's the way we do things here. Every time the pendulum swings back and forth we get our hats knocked off.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., March 23.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Here is a suggestion that will help you all out of a lot of anxiety and anguish in case your town or district should be hit by some disaster. Run quick and turn off the radio, otherwise you will hear your own home has been swept away by the flood, you have been lost in the fire, and your husband kidnaped. We had an earthquake out here, that's all we had (which was plenty), but that wasn't enough news for the radio. They added, "Oil wells overflowing and on fire, a city burning to the ground." And as a P. S. "a tidal wave coming in from the ocean." So in case of disaster, run (don't walk), to the nearest radio and turn it off, for they take delight in killing you, whether you have been killed or not.

Yours, WILL.

Ownership Tangle Cleared After Raid

Two Negroes who, police said, posed as proprietors of a confectionery store at 67 Fullerton street, where county detectives reported confiscating a quantity of liquor, later admitted they were not the owners. They pointed out Fred Williams, Negro, as the proprietor. He was held in $1,000 bail by Alderman Thomas A. Flanigan, charged with violating the Snyder act.

When detectives entered the place they found Stephen Smith and Mart Brown, Negroes, who, the officers said, claimed they were the proprietors.

Lighted Cigaret Sets House Afire

A cigaret John Bartell, 22, was smoking as he retired at his home in Mt. Oliver street caused a slight fire early today, according to firemen. The damage was estimated at $10.

SELF-DEFENSE CLAIMED BY CONSTABLE

Partisans Kept From Courtroom During 'Strip' Trial

Constable Mark O'Malley, of the Second Ward, today on the witness stand denied he had kicked Alderman Thomas M. Geary in a restaurant at 1229 Penn avenue, as claimed by the Alderman. O'Malley is on trial charged with assault and battery.

O'Malley testified he had gone into the restaurant, not knowing Geary was there. When he approached Geary to ask him about getting work as a constable, O'Malley said, Geary raised a ketchup bottle as if to strike him, and then he hit Geary twice. He accounted for Geary's broken rib by saying he fell upon him.

Yesterday Geary testified O'Malley had struck him six times, kicked him when he was on the floor and grabbed him by the hair, knocking his head against the floor.

Young men, political factionists of the ward, crowded the corridors yesterday and today. Only witnesses were admitted. The case was expected to go to the jury late today.

PARENTS SEE BOY KILED

In view of his parents and sister, Edwin J. Murphy, 5, rear of 310½ Walcott street, Esplen, was crushed to death beneath the wheels of a coal truck in Chartiers avenue, McKees Rocks, late yesterday.

The boy accompanied his mother and sister to a Ladies' Aid Society card party in St. Francis de Sales Church. When Edwin saw his father, William H. Murphy, awaiting them in an automobile across the street, he ran to join him, and was run down by the truck, according to the Coroner's report.

Frank C. Dunkle, 37, of 508 Chartiers avenue, McKees Rocks, the driver, was arrested and later released after posting bond at the Coroner's office.

SCHOOL BOARD FIGHTS TAXES

The question whether the Wilkinsburg School Board should pay taxes to Wilkins Township on property the board owns in the township is before the County Board for the Assessment and Revision of Taxes. The full board heard representatives of both sides yesterday and asked attorneys to file briefs.

The township holds that the School Board owns approximately 40 acres of land not used for school purposes and therefore taxable. The School Board maintains the property will be turned into a recreation field and now is used by pupils for recreation and botany class work.

The Tax Board also must decide whether acreage is more than is needed for school recreation purposes.

Citizens Organize In West View

West View citizens who unsuccessfully fought for the retention of H. N. Hennon, as superintendent of the borough schools, have formed a permanent organization to be known as the West View Citizens' Committee. A. P. Righter is chairman and Mrs. E. S. Reed, secretary.

County Workers Fight Mansfield Pension Bill

A committee selected by county employes will go to Harrisburg Monday to oppose the new pension fund bill sponsored in the legislature by Allegheny County commissioners. They will urge passage of a bill backed by the employes.

The committee is composed of Edward H. Simon, William H. Frasier, chief clerk in the prothonotary's office, and James A. Manuppelli, tipstaff in the County Court.

At a meeting of employes yesterday it was brought out that resources of the fund are temporarily frozen in a bank where withdrawals are restricted. This necessitated personal contributions for lobby expenses, with the understanding that when the bank funds are available the individuals will be repaid.

The bill the committee will oppose is one introduced by Senator William D. Mansfield, which proposes to make eligible for pension any county employe who attains the age of 60, regardless of length of service.

The employes' bill, introduced by Senator James J. Coyne, would make eligible for pension only those who have served 20 years or more and who have attained the age of 55. It limits payments to $1,200 yearly, regardless of salary while in service.

TAVERN KEEPER BELIEVED DEALING WITH SON'S KIDNAPERS

FIVE SUSPECTS IN OHIO CASE SET FREE

WARREN, O., March 23.—Hopes for the safety of 15-year-old Peter Myers were stirred today with an unconfirmed report that the boy's father had established contact with the kidnapers who fled with him last Saturday night.

Peter Myers, Sr., Masury tavern keeper, it was learned, withdrew a sum of money from the bank, after which he disappeared for several hours. When he returned he declined to discuss his movements. Police likewise maintained silence.

JUST 15 TODAY

The kidnaped boy is 15 years old today and his sister, Helen, prepared a birthday cake for him. She said:

"I know they won't keep him away on his birthday."

As Clyde W. Osborne, president of the Mahoning County Bar Association, offered to act as Myers' intermediary to conduct negotiations with the kidnapers, Youngstown police released five suspects who had been questioned in connection with the case.

CLUE IN NOTE

The most promising clue held by the police is the note which the kidnapers left at the Myers home last Saturday, when they promised to get in touch with the father. It became known that a number code of state prohibition agents had been used as a symbol in the message. The symbol was regarded as indicating that a former state prohibition agent may have been involved in the affair.

The kidnapers note was turned over to a federal investigator, one of the two now aiding police and state authorities in hunting the boy and his abductors.

GARBAGE BILL TO BE DRAFTED

Council today authorized the drafting of an ordinance providing for one, two or three-year garbage and rubbish collection contracts.

Civic organizations have urged long term contracts to attract more bidders. Heretofore one-year contracts have been the rule.

After a conference with Dr. William W. McFarland, health director, council decided to eliminate stoves, boilers, pipes, furnaces and tree trimmings from the rubbish specifications, and the necessity of removing garbage from packing and slaughter houses.

The Allegheny County League of Women Voters was invited to submit comparative costs with Cincinnati.

Jury Awards Pair $12,000 for Injuries

Thomas Kazmier and his wife, Hattie Kazmier, of Tionesta, won a verdict of $12,000 in Common Pleas Court against the Pittsburgh Railways Company for injuries both received in Bellevue, October 5, 1930, when a street car collided with their automobile. Both suffered back and head hurts. The case was tried before Judge Ralph H. Smith.

Safety of Miners Institute Topic

Delegates to the two-day session of the Mine Inspectors' Institute of America at the William Penn Hotel May 15 and 16 will discuss means for increasing the safety of miners. Thomas Moses, president of the H. C. Frick Coke Company, is general chairman. J. T. Ryan is chairman of the entertainment committee and C. A. McDowell is secretary.

MEDICOS FIGHT SMOKE EVIL

Medical societies of the country are taking leadership in the fight on the smoke nuisance, it was announced by Mellon Institute Research today, when it made public the acceptance by H. B. Meller, head of the Institute's air pollution investigation, of an invitation to address a special meeting of the College of Physicians of Philadelphia, March 31. Meller will speak on Mellon Institute's new plan for a community campaign for pure air and discuss methods of applying it.

The Institute also announced the receipt of many appeals from medical organizations for assistance in carrying on campaigns against smoke and dust in their cities. An association of physicians at Flint, Mich., expressed concern at the damage to health by coal smoke in that district.

Nicaraguan Siege No Longer Needed

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, March 23.—(AP.)—President Juan B. Sacasa said today he believed it unnecessary to prolong the 60-day state of siege decreed January 22, for all but four southwestern provinces. He said quiet had been restored in the northern districts.

It was added that reports that foreign mining companies intend to reopen their properties had been received with satisfaction and that the government would co-operate in protection and development of the works.

Dr. Mudge Speaks At Church Birthday

The Rev. Dr. Lewis Seymour Mudge, stated clerk of the general assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the United States, was the speaker last night at the centennial anniversary service of the Third Presbyterian Church, South Negley and Fifth avenues. He asserted the church must devote itself more definitely to its two main objectives, evangelism and missions to meet the needs of the world today.

Fifth Divorce Near For Wealthy Indian

MUSKOGEE, Okla., March 23.—(AP.)—The fifth marriage of Eastman Richards, second richest Creek Indian, is headed for the divorce court. Richards was ordered to pay Lometa Richards $5,000 when she sued for divorce and $75,000 alimony. His four previous wives each got $20,000 in settlements out of court. Only Jackson Barnett is rated richer than Richards among the Creeks.

Denies Early Closing For Avalon Schools

Following a meeting of the Avalon School Board last night, President Frank Delp denied that the board intends to close the schools a month early this year and announced that it expects to cut the present millage when the new budget is adopted in July. The present school rate in the borough is 18 mills.

Foe of Whistlers Denounces Jig-Saws

NEW YORK, March 23.—(Universal.)—Dr. Charles G. Shaw, New York University philosophy professor, who says all whistlers are morons, now takes a verbal punch at the jig-saw puzzle "fiend."

The craze for puzzles, Dr. Shaw says, is not "an evil," but it is a symptom of a nervous disorder, and on the whole, "very futile." He said:

"The jig-saw is a self-imposed intelligence test by which the puzzler wishes to assure himself that he is not in the moron class; for such tests, on a smaller scale, are used in determining degrees of imbecility."

SITTING IN AUTO WITH WOMAN, MAN SLAIN

CHARLESTON, W. Va., March 23.—(AP.)—George W. Miller, 26, formerly of McKees Rocks, Pa., was shot to death today while sitting in his automobile with Mrs. J. D. Chandler, of South Charleston.

Officers said Chandler, who was arrested, told them he shot Miller in self-defense. Chandler told officers Miller threatened him after he found Miller and his wife together shortly before dawn. He was held for a preliminary hearing tonight.

Miller, unmarried, had lived in Charleston for three years.

Frank Miller, of 797 Twelfth street, McKees Rocks, father of the slain man, went to Charleston today to take charge of his son's body.

KEATON, BRIDE IN HOLLYWOOD

HOLLYWOOD, March 23.—(Universal)—At home, the Buster Keatons. First, Buster shows you his bride, May Scribbens, to whom he gravely presented a posie from the garden of the Keaton house.

Mrs. Keaton shows you a scrapbook containing pictures taken in Mexico City, where they announced they had been married January 8, at Ensenada, Lower California. One is of Buster in Mexican attire, with a guiter.

Of Buster's pre-dated marriage to his one-time nurse, he has this to say:

"Of course we are not legally married in the United States. We will be as soon as my divorce becomes final in August. Valentino did the same thing. Those who don't like it aren't my kind of people, anyway."

INSANITY PLEA FREES SLAYER

Frank Dailey, a patient in the psycopathic ward of St. Francis Hospital, was found not guilty of murder by reason of insanity by a jury in the death of John Witting, of Wellsville, W. Va., also a patient in the same ward.

Dailey was alleged to have struck Witting with a chair last November 18. Physicians testified that while Dailey was insane at the time he was sane now. He was paroled for 10 years by Judge S. H. Gardner.

Pray to Prevent Sunday Ball Game

MERIDIAN, Miss., March 23.—(AP.)—The Meridian Missionary Federation and Women's Christian Temperance Union today issued a call for an hour of prayer tomorrow morning at 9:30 o'clock to offer petitions that an exhibition baseball game scheduled here for Sunday should not take place and that "other desecrations" of the Sabbath cease.

The baseball game is due to bring together the Nashville Club of the Southern Association and the Moss Specials at Meridian.

MISS PHYLLIS THOMPSON . . "EVERYBODY'S TIRED OF GIN"

PREACHER ENDS OWN LIFE

NEW YORK, March 23.—(AP.)—George M. Ellsbree, an unattached clergyman, was found strangled to death with his bathrobe cord in his furnished room yesterday. He apparently had knotted one end of the cord around his throat, tied the other end to a bedpost and slid off the bed to the floor.

He left a note which dealt in verse with tears and death, a note of thanks to the owners of several books in his room and sealed letters to Mrs. Omar Seucie, Streator, Ill.; Malcoln Wood, Ventnor, N. J., and the Ministers' Casualty Union of Minneapolis.

Philadelphia Judge To Address Club

Judge William M. Lewis, of Philadelphia, an outstanding leader in the Zionist movement, will address the meeting of the Beth Shalom Men's Club tonight in the new social hall of the temple, Beacon street and Shady avenue. M. L. Avner, president of the congregation, will introduce the speaker, and Alexander Cooper, president of the club, will preside.

Society Looking to Return of Tea at Social Affairs

By DOROTHY ROE
Universal Service.

NEW YORK, March 23.—A revival of the forgotten art of tea-drinking will take place in America along with repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment.

That is the opinion of Manhattan's society leaders and debutantes who have lived through the age of bathtub gin.

There is, for instance, Mrs. Preston Lockwood, the former Mrs. Pomeroy T. Francis, society matron and ardent wet, who says:

"Revolutionary as it may seem, I predict the return of tea. I think we yet will live to see the day when tea actually will be served at tea-parties, instead of the currently traditional cocktails."

And as for the debutante attitude, a representative opinion is expressed by Miss Phyllis Thompson, Junior Leaguer and pretty daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Phillips B. Thompson, of Southampton and New York. She says:

"Really, everybody's awfully tired of gin. I don't remember much about the days before prohibition, but I do know that the modern custom of compulsory drinking at all social affairs is a big bore.

"I think the majority of the younger people have done their drinking as a matter of conscientious protest. When liquor no longer is prohibited, it won't be necessary to protest."

Mrs. Lockwood and Miss Thompson agree that the uncurbed drinking of the prohibition age is a cycle that is almost ended.

Woman Wins $3,500 From Actor Bushman

CHICAGO, March 23.—(AP.)—A Circuit Court jury today awarded $3,500 damages in a $50,000 personal injury suit against Francis X. Bushman, pioneer motion picture star.

The verdict was in favor of Mrs. Margaret O'Malley Brand, former church organist, who had testified her career was ended by injuries to her hand received when an automobile in which she was riding collided with one driven by the actor's chauffeur in 1931.

Mattern, Griffin Fly to Chicago

CHICAGO, March 23.—(AP.)—Jimmy Mattern and Bennett Griffin flew from Oklahoma City to Chicago in three hours and 58 minutes in practice they said for their projected globe circling air trip next June.

They said they would continue to Dayton, O., after spending several days in Chicago conferring with officials of the Century of Progress Exposition, for which their plane "Century of Progress" is named.

Many to Address Parents, Teachers

A Parent-Teachers meeting at South High School will be addressed by Dr. David Sumstine of the Pittsburgh Public Schools, tomorrow night. The first part of the program will be devoted to group meetings for parents who wish speakers of their own language to address them. Speakers have been provided for eight nationalities.

ARGUE CLOSED BANK PAYMENT PRIORITY

Argument was heard here yesterday by the Pennsylvania Supreme Court as to whether school districts, boroughs and townships have the right of priority in payments of deposits in a closed trust company.

The question arose in the appeals of the Belle Vernon and North Belle Vernon boroughs and the school districts of Belle Vernon and Speers and Rostraver Townships from a decision of the Fayette County Common Pleas Court.

The lower court ruled the right of priority was limited to the state and did not include its agencies. The appellants took an appeal from the first and partial account of the Secretary of Banking, William D. Gordon, after he took possession of the Valley Deposit and Trust Company, October 23, 1931. The Fayette County Court dismissed the exceptions.

When the bank closed Belle Vernon Borough had $14,459 on deposit, School District of Speers, $15,267; School District of Belle Vernon, $36,544; North Belle Vernon, $30,010, and Rostraver Township, $42,548.

Other cases argued included the case of Margaret Jones against the Pittsburgh Railways Company on appeal from the order of the Common Pleas Court of Allegheny County in granting a non suit; appeal of the case of Carrie B. Sheasley and James T. Sheasley against Charles D. Haney and James F. Rising from the judgments of the Common Pleas Courts of Armstrong County, and the appeal in the case of William J. Maerkle against the Pittsburgh Railways Company from the judgment of the Common Pleas Court of Allegheny County.

SHAW TO LAND TONIGHT

SAN FRANCISCO, March 23.—(INS.)—George Bernard Shaw, noted Irish satirist and playwright, will get his first glimpse of American civilization this evening.

En route around the world Shaw is scheduled to arrive aboard the liner Empress of Britain from Honolulu, where he sprained his leg in a minor accident.

ABOARD S. S. EMPRESS OF BRITAIN, EN ROUTE TO SAN FRANCISCO FROM HONOLULU, March 23.—(INS.)—George Bernard Shaw is enjoying his world cruise.

He attended a vaudeville show last night but characteristically did not applaud. Later, he paid the performers compliments.

He entered a classical music guessing contest in the afternoon and identified six of the 10 selections. Later he attended a motion picture show.

Fete for Pastor Quitting Here Set

The congregation of the Bellefield Presbyterian Church will give a reception in honor of its pastor, the Rev. Robert MacGowan, his wife, and daughter, in the church parlors, tomorrow evening.

Dr. MacGowan, who is leaving to accept a pulpit at Irvington-on-the-Hudson, in the West Chester Presbytery of New York state, will preach his final sermon here Sunday morning, bringing to a close a pastorate of 17 years.

COLDS GO THROUGH 3 STAGES!

And They are Far Easier Stopped in the First than in the Second or Third!

A cold ordinarily passes through three stages—the Dry Stage, the first 24 hours; the Watery Secretion Stage, from 1 to 3 days; and the Mucous Secretion Stage. Relief is twice as easy in the first stage.

For prompt relief take a couple of Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine immediately upon catching cold. This will usually expel the cold overnight and thus prevent the spread of the infection within your system.

Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine is effective because it does the four things necessary. It opens the bowels. Kills the cold germs and fever in the system. Relieves the headache and grippy feeling. Tones the entire system and fortifies against further attack.

Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine contains nothing harmful. May be safely taken by young and old and whether you stay indoors or go out. There is absolutely no penalty attached to its use. For more than 40 years it has been the standard cold and grippe tablet of the world, the formula keeping pace with Modern Medicine. Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine now comes in two sizes—30c and 50c. Get yourself a package today and be ready for any cold that may come along. Say "NO" to a substitute!

LIFE OF ANDREW CARNEGIE By BURTON J. HENDRICK

Small Sums Borrowed Often

FROM THE LIFE OF ANDREW CARNEGIE
By Burton J. Hendrick

Abridged for exclusive publication in the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph by special permission of Mrs. Andrew Carnegie

Sometimes a bill, when only a few dollars were involved, would be vigorously disputed. Yet tested intimates were treated with the utmost confidence. The financial statements of secretaries, and even of Mr. Franks, the custodian of his fortune, were never audited. "I will have no one around me," Carnegie would remark, "whom I cannot implicitly trust." To retain in his environment a man who needed watching would have been regarded as a reflection upon a quality prized above all—his judgment of human nature.

And no man was ever served more honestly and faithfully. That Carnegie's eyes never rested on the mountain of bonds representing his worldly possessions has already been noted; most men like to see their accumulations increase, but Carnegie seemed to enjoy watching his diminish.

"Last year," Mr. Franks once informed him, "you not only spent your income but you dipped into the principal."

"Delighted to hear it, my boy!" he replied, giving his treasurer an approving tap on the back.

For the sight of money Carnegie apparently had a positive distaste. The odious substance was never carried on his person. For pressing needs his secretaries provided the necessary supply; when they became separated from their chief, which was not seldom, for he was agile and inclined to pursue the whim of the moment, amusing situations would arise. Both continents were full of men who proudly boast that, on critical occasions, they lent the great philanthropist money to pay his subway or railway fare.

Put Off London Bus

Carnegie was once put off a London bus because he lacked the tuppence demanded for transportation. His secretaries, at another time, found him on a Pullman, bound for Florida, with no ticket and only a dollar and a half in his pocket; to make matters worse he had boarded the wrong train.

On one occasion Carnegie and Schwab attended a celebration at a well known university to which each had made gifts. Schwab was accompanied by an ornate English valet, who attended to the wants of both men. Entering their rooms to dress for dinner, this dignified functionary was discovered on the floor, emerging from beneath the bed. Rising, he presented his resignation.

"You two gentlemen," he said, "'ave given a million dollars to this college, but you 'ave only one collar button between you and h'I've lost that."

At a banquet, Carnegie being present, Mark Twain in his speech said that he had lent him a quarter once in an emergency. "And Mr. Carnegie," he added, looking ruefully at the culprit, "has never paid it back." But Mark did reimburse himself subsequently.

"Dear Sir and Friend," he wrote. "You seem to be in prosperity. Could you lend an admirer a dollar and a half to buy a hymn book with? God will bless you. I feel it, I know it .... P. S. Don't send the hymn book, send the money; I want to make the selection myself."

Of Carnegie's antic moments another instance will suffice. The following is taken from the memoirs of Tchaikowsky, the great Russian composer, who came to New York for the opening of Carnegie Hall:

"I had scarcely time to dress and drive to Carnegie's in a carriage, which had to be fetched from some distance and was very expensive! This millionaire really does not live so luxuriously as many other people ... This singular man, Carnegie, who rapidly rose from a telegraph apprentice to be one of the richest men in America, while still remaining quite simple, inspires me with unusual confidence, perhaps because he shows me so much sympathy.

Imitated Conducting

"During the evening he expressed his liking for me in a very marked manner. He took both my hands in his and declared that, though uncrowned, I was a genuine king of music. He embraced me (without kissing me, men do not kiss over here), got on tiptoe and stretched his hands up to indicate my greatness, and finally made the whole company laugh by imitating my conducting. This he did so solemnly, so well, and so like me, that I myself was quite delighted. His wife is also an extremely simple and charming young lady, and showed her interest in me in every possible way . . ."

Tschaikowsky's picture gives his friends in a familiar aspect, displaying one of the half dozen Carnegies that made up his kaleidoscopic character, but for a more complete and serious portraiture we should go to the letters of Richard Watson Gilder, editor of the Century Magazine in the great days of that famous periodical.

The two men made a trip together in 1906 to Canada, passing through Ohio, where Carnegie delivered an address on Edwin M. Stanton. Gilder's letters to his wife contain references in plenty to his companion.

"A. C. improves instead of diminishing on closer acquaintance. Such stories from him and McCook of Lincoln and Stanton! A. C.'s address was remarkably brilliant and vital this morning, on Stanton whom he knew; after which we had a reception at the Bishop's and then lunch with the ladies and speeches. A. C. again was brilliant . . . A. C. is a truly 'great' man, i. e., a man of enormous faculty and a great imagination. I don't remember any man who has such a range of poetical quotation unless it is Stedman. (Not so much a range as numerous quotations from Shakespeare, Burns, Byron, etc.

"His views are truly large and prophetic. And, unless I am mistaken, he has a genuine ethical character. He is not perfect, but he is most interesting and remarkable; a true democrat, his benevolent actions having a root in character and principle. He is not accidentally the intimate friend of such high natures as Arnold and Morley . . . A. C. is really a tremendous personality — dramatic, wilful, generous, whimsical, at times almost cruel in pressing his own convictions upon others, and then again tender, affectionate, emotional, always imaginative, unusual and wide visioned in his views.

Worth Boswellizing

"He is well worth Boswellizing, and I am going to urge him to be 'his own Boswell.' He has greatly grown since I first knew him. 'I have changed my views' —I should think so! I remember how he attacked everyone who said a good word for higher education, and now he has done more for it, from the point of view of moneyed contributions, than any other man who ever lived. He is inconsistent in many ways, but with a passion for lofty views."

That Carnegie should have been the intimate of Gilder is as great an evidence of worth as his friendship with Arnold and Morley, for a more cultivated and higher-minded man America never knew, nor one whose influence, as editor and citizen, worked more devotedly for the finest American ideals.

"Gilder's death gives me a keen pang indeed," Carnegie wrote Theodore Roosevelt, November 24, 1909. "He went often with me to the golf links at St. Andrews and no one can take his place. One of the whitest souls that ever lived."

"The next time I was alone with Carnegie," writes Henry Holt, the publisher, in his reminiscences, "he told me that he had never loved any other man as he loved Gilder. He also said that he was in Washington when Gilder died, and that as on the way home at night he crossed the ferry and saw the glory of the city's lights and great shadows, he could think only: 'Gilder is not there, Gilder is not there.'"

Rollicking Relations

Mark Twain was another member of the Carnegie fellowship; the relations between the two were more rollicking. Carnegie always addressing the humorist as "Saint Mark," the latter reciprocating with "Saint Andrew." Yet the deeper side of Mark Twain's nature was also felt, as is apparent in Carnegie's tribute, published in the North American Review:

"Mark Twain gone!—such is the refrain that comes to my lips at intervals. The gaiety of nations eclipsed, the most original genius of our age and one of the sweetest, noblest men that ever lived.

"Fortunate was I that we met so many years ago upon the ocean and became friends. He told me, much to my surprise, that the idea of 'A Connecticut Yankee at King Arthur's Court' came from reading my first literary outburst, 'Triumphant Democracy'; also he called my attention to the heading of a chapter in 'Pudd'nhead Wilson' of which I was the author.

"I was young then and naturally flattered that the businessman should be hailed as fellow author. The intimacy continued to grow, until I could safely consider myself one of his circle.

"When the business trial of his life came and he decided, sustained by that noble woman, his wife, that 'the question was not what he owed others but what he owed himself, he chose the latter and traveled the world, guarded by his wife, and conquered. He undertook Sir Walter Scott's task and triumphed, paying every creditor not the 50 cents on the dollar they offered to take, but every cent of his debt. There come to men in life crucial moments which test whether they be of clay or pure gold. Mark Twain and his guardian angel proved themselves the latter.

"No man knew Mark Twain who had not seen him aroused by some mean, detestable action which violated his sense of justice. In his wrath he was indeed terrible . . . No man I ever knew could throw such pathos into a single sentence. When we met after his first irreparable loss, his wife—and such a wife—torn from him, he grasped my hand and murmured with a look I can never forget, 'A ruined home.'

Carnegie's Whisky

"The joke, the telling, funny irrepressible word, was ever bubbling up. During his first serious illness some years ago the doctor prescribed the purest Scotch whisky as a tonic. I was applied to for a supply as it was known I had it in the wood. It proved satisfactory and upon a second attack our friend, after trying to purchase a satisfactory article, applied to me. Thereafter I made it a rule to keep him supplied.

"Upon his arrival from Bermuda recently I sent it, and Mr. Paine wrote me his thanks, adding that although seriously ill, the propensity to joke could not be repressed when he learned that, by a fall on the ice in the park, I had sprained my knee and was still lame. He looked up at Mr. Paine and smilingly whispered, 'Mr. Carnegie should have sent me all of his whisky.' And so he passes away with the smile on his face. Nor would he have had it otherwise."

To secure a specimen of this whisky meant that one had entered the inner Carnegie circle. It was a scintillating concoction of Scotch nectar, directly from the "Queen's Vat"—the distillation, that is, made for her venerable majesty of England.

Carnegie participated in this exclusive brand for a good reason; from the year 1890 he had regularly kept the Presidents of the United States supplied, the "Queen's Vat," all through this period, having been as familiar at the White House as at Windsor.

No politics figured in his largess, Republicans and Democrats sharing on even terms.

Several amusing contretemps resulted, especially when the word leaked out that Elder Benjamin Harrison, good Presbyterian, and Brother William McKinley, excellent Methodist, had received shipments "in the wood" from Perth.

News of a consignment to President Harrison, in 1892, got into the papers, even doing service as a minor issue in the presidential campaign, but the wail for "another cask" that came from Harrison after his retirement showed that the criticism of co-religionists had not disturbed his conscience.

Carnegie himself was almost a teetotaler, taking, in late years, at the doctor's command, minute portions with meals, and neither were his friends of the bacchanalian breed.

GIRL ACCUSES OWN BROTHER

Mrs. Shirl Sharpe, 27, of 1233 Bellaire place, a telephone operator at the Presbyterian Hospital, appeared in Central Police Court today against her brother, Addison McKinnon, of Los Angeles, whom she accused of stealing $20. He was held over.

McKinnon came here from the coast two weeks ago, he told Magistrate Leo Rothenberg. He testified:

"I did not mean to take the money, but I was seized by an irresistible impulse. I will try to get a job and pay it back."

McKinnon was arrested yesterday on his sister's complaint in East Liverpool, O., where he had gone to get work.

Mrs. Sharpe said:

"I do not care to prosecute him. I only want my money back. I had been saving it for some time to pay bills."

PROFS AT PITT TALK BANKING

Various phases of the banking situation will be discussed by Pitt professors at a meeting of the School of Business Administration Alumni Association tomorrow night in the Hotel Schenley. The Business Administration Alumni Association will be the host to the General Alumni Association and to the alumni associations of the other schools of the university.

Memorial services will be held for Dr. Howard C. Kidd, head of the commerce department, who died in January.

Motorist Cleared In Death of Girl

John Lonzo, 420 Ashby street, Hays, is free of a charge of involuntary manslaughter through a verdict of not guilty directed yesterday by Visiting Judge I. J. McKenrick, in Criminal Court.

Lonzo was tried in connection with the death of Annie Lunio, 22, of 165 Watkins avenue, Wilmerding, who, it was testified, was fatally hurt when she fell out of Lonzo's automobile in Wilmerding. No testimony was offered to show what caused her to fall.

Boy, 3, Shoots Self; Misses Birthday Party

The three little candles on Luca Paganico's birthday cake didn't burn last night.

Playing in his home, 181 Mayflower street, late yesterday, while his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Luca Paganico, were purchasing presents for his third birthday, the boy found an automatic pistol in the pocket of an old coat, belonging to his father, that had fallen to the floor. His tiny finger pressed the trigger. The bullet struck his left cheek.

The boy's grandmother, Mrs. Louise Provino, of 6359 Apple avenue, caring for him at the time, summoned neighbors who took him to Pittsburgh Hospital, where it was learned the bullet had cut his cheek only slightly.

He was taken to his home by his parents, who decided to call off the party.

Some Husbands Still Cling To Antiquated Ideas

Has a married lady a right to go waltzing, when her hero "can't stand dancing"—and won't take her?

That's the question that's eating Ed. And what's putting the moan in matrimony for him is that, in spite of the fact that he's "forbidden" her to go, she goes anyway!

So he's sitting around, feeling plenty sorry for himself, and glumping about how the Li'l Woman is Doing Him Wrong.

Dear Elsie:

The time has come for me to ask someone for advice, and you are the only one I feel can help me, so I am coming to you with my trouble.

I am a married man, 30 years old, and my wife is 24. We have been married for five years, and have a daughter four years old.

My wife goes on a vacation every year, and I have heard that when she is on this vacation she always goes to dances. I have forbidden her to go to them, and she always promises that she will not disobey me—

But I have heard from friends of mine that she steps out, in spite of her promises to me.

The things they say are not so nice, and I don't like it. I don't know what to do about it. Nothing I say seems to do any good. Do you think that it is a married woman's place to go to dances without her husband, when he doesn't care for dancing?

DISLIKES DANCING

I don't. I think it isn't right, especially when I have told her not to go.

Please help me. What shall I do? I can't stand dancing.

I will be waiting for your advice. Please give it to me. I don't know what to think or what to do. EDWARD F. J.

So you "can't stand dancing," Ed? Too bad! How about the Lady Wife not being "able to stand" being cooped up and bossed around?

What has that to do with it? Everything! You're living in the year 1933, son, when Wives are People—and the Missis has as much right to her notions as the Mister has to his!

Hadn't realized that, had you? Still thinking, like your great-grandpa, that Marriage is a One-Man Show? Better get over it, Ed. Ideas like that went into the museum long, long ago; and if you want to make a success of marriage in the twentieth century you'll have to be a 50-50 partner, even though you don't like some of the program.

NEED RELIEF

As a matter of fact, it isn't the dancing that's bothering you. You know as well as I do that dancing is a perfectly happy and healthy amusement. But you're jealous. And you're lazy. And you're selfish. You want to have your own way. So you're trying to pretend that dancing is a crime, thereby gratifying your cussedness all along the line.

Get over it, Ed! Maybe your girl does play around a bit too much when she's on vacation. But if she does, I'll gamble it's because you make life so pesty when she's home that she has to break loose for relief.

As a matter of fact, you need relief from your notions as much as she does. Dancing would be the best possible medicine for what ails you! So why not crawl out of your shell and take her to a dance yourself, instead of throwing a tantrum because you're left behind?

Stop acting like a Peevish Sultan, and try being human once in a while. Maybe you'll be surprised!

Learn to Keep Your Own Secrets, Fay King Advises

By FAY KING

There is an old saying that reminds us that we have two eyes and two ears, but only one mouth and that, therefore, we should see and hear twice as much as we say.

Perhaps more regret and pain are caused by expressing a hasty word, or a too hasty opinion, or thoughtlessly betraying a confidence than by anything else.

Learn to keep your own secrets and you can keep the secrets of others. There isn't any reason why anyone should broadcast his affairs, good or bad. To talk too much of one's good times may make others envious. To talk too much of one's troubles is bound to be a bore.

What you don't say will never hurt any one—or yourself!

Know the Symptoms of Measles

Not long ago I told you about German measles and the more common form of measles. Since then, many inquiries have come to me from mothers. It seems desirable to go somewhat into detail regarding this too frequent affliction of childhood.

Dr. Copeland

In some of these letters, the question was asked: "How long is it necessary for the afflicted child to remain at home?" Other mothers desired more information regarding the diagnosis, the recognition of measles.

It is probable that measles is the most contagious of all the diseases of childhood. It is quickly transmitted from one person to another. It is a difficult disease to control because the sufferer may transmit the disease to others, even before the signs of measles appear.

For example, a child may cough and sneeze for two or three days and attend school during this time. Because he has no fever, the mother permits him to go to school. Even though the eyes begin to water, the mother still believes her child is suffering from nothing worse than a cold.

But pretty soon the child complains of sore and painful eyes and running nose. A rash appears around the ears and face. Measles is then suspected. Unfortunately, the harm of exposure to other children has been done and the disease has been spread.

Never consider measles too lightly. The sufferer should rest in bed, be given a light diet, and isolated from other children. The eyes should be protected from sunlight and glaring lights. Boric acid solution should be used to cleanse the eyes and nose. The disease is contagious until after the rash has disappeared.

Measles differs from German measles in that it is more severe. German measles is a mild ailment and the sufferer is only slightly ill.

The complications of pneumonia rarely results from German measles. Unfortunately, it is a common danger in measles, particularly when it attacks young and undernourished children. In German measles, the rash appears suddenly. Often the child goes to bed apparently well and awakens in the morning with his face covered with a red rash. In ordinary measles, the rash is a late sympton.

German measles, measles, chickenpox, scarlet fever and diphtheria still continue to be serious hazards to the health of our children. We can only protect them by early recognition and taking the necessary precautions without delay.

Continuation of Love's Reawakening

By ADELE GARRISON

Another Member of Kidnap Gang Caught

I caught Mary's meaning almost instantly, but Hen-ner-y took several seconds to find out what she meant by her peremptory order. It was fortunate for the success of Mary's plan that he was used to petticoat domination. Years of obedience to the commands of his militant wife, Nettie, made him ready to obey first and ask questions later. But he almost gave warning to the owner of the hurrying footsteps by a chuckling "Oh! I see—" silenced only by a frenzied "Hush" from both Mary and me.

And then, as with braced muscles, we held the rope taut, the owner of those panting lungs and pounding feet loomed up in the darkness. We had no time to notice the size or height of the man who struck our taut rope and fell prone upon the other side of it.

"That does the job for us," Mary said coolly, as we heard the half grunt, half groan of the man's breath being driven out of his body. "But, quick, let's sit on him and hobble him before he gets his breath again."

Hen-ner-y raised himself leisurely.

"I'll tend to him," he promised. "Give me that rope."

We were at his heels as he picked up the prostrate man in the same fashion that he would a calf or a lamb, and with movements surprisingly quick and dexterous, bound first his hands together, and then his feet.

SIGNAL PREVENTED

"Here come some more," Mary said in a low voice as other footsteps became audible. "I think they're Lee Chow and Mr. Wynne, but we'd better keep quiet and stay as far from the path as we can until we make sure."

We did not need to trouble ourselves, however. Before we could move from our places, two hurrying figures came into view, and Lee Chow's voice said cautiously: "Mrs. Graham?"

"Right here." I answered in an equally low tone, and then they were with us, bending over the man Hen-ner-y had bound.

"Thank God! you got him," Wynne said fervently. "We were scared speechless, for he has a silencer gun."

"I know. I got it. Here it is," Hen-ner-y said, holding out a small object to Wynne, who took it gingerly and passed it along to Lee Chow.

"I'd better put something in this lad's mouth to keep him quiet, don't you think?" he asked, but before Lee Chow could answer, there came from the man on the ground the first note of an owl's call. There was no second, however, for Hen-ner-y's big hand was clapped over his mouth and Hen-ner-y's voice, subdued but jubilant, was triumphantly muttering. "This bird won't hoot any more this trip."

"I do not think that could be heard," Lee Chow said to Wynne.

MADGE INQUISITIVE

"No," Wynne replied jubilantly. "His intentions were good, but his wind was bad. I think we're safe, so far. They won't find out what we're doing from this bird at any rate. What's the program now?"

"Roll him to one side into the bushes, make haste on our way," Lee Chow answered. "This, I am sure, is our last interruption."

"What happened back there?"

"Better not ask," Lee Chow said gravely, and something in the words made my pulses chill.

"But I must know," I persisted. "Nothing is worse than imagining unknown horrors.'

"The man whom Wynne bound and put in the hut," he began, "told me several things of great interest and importance to our present quest. We both spoke in low tones, but it developed that we had an unexpected listener, this man whom we have just bound and left. He did not make an appearance, however, until after Wynne had returned and we had bound the man and laid something across his mouth that resembled a gag. Luckily Wynne and I were warned by the breaking of a stick outside under his feet and we flattened ourselves against the wall of the hut near the door. We thought, you see, that he was after us, but we found out the next second that his objective was the bound man, one of his own gang."

HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

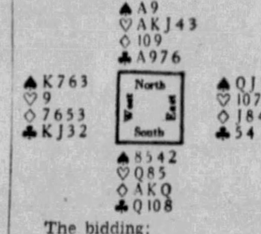
What Card to Play

There is a lot of discussion among Bridge players about how a suit such as Ace-Queen-Ten-9-8, combined in the Dummy and declaring hands, should best be played—that is, of course, in cases where the Queen of the suit is in one hand and the Ace in the other. Many players make a practice of leading a low card to the Queen, either before or after laying down the Ace, and when this plan fails to work and they find both the Knave and King over the Queen-Ten, they are much inclined to bemoan their ill luck. Actually, this is not the best method of playing this combination. The safest way, where there are sufficient entries to do it, is to lead the Queen toward the Ace. Naturally, if the King is to the left of the Queen, the player holding it must cover, and in all such situations the element of guess is eliminated from the play of the cards. When both the King and Knave are at the right of the Queen combination, the plan suggested here, of course, loses where the other method wins, but if both honors are in the same hand, the number of occasions when the suggested play loses is counterbalanced by those when it wins.

This method of play assures the making of all the tricks without guess in such cases as when the Knave is a singleton to the right of the Queen holding. It may occasionally cost a trick when the King is a singleton on either side, but the chances of either the King or Knave singleton are greatly minimized on hands of even distribution and with six cards adversely held.

An interesting example of how this method of play permitted the fulfillment of a Slam contract is shown on the hand below, which was played in a Duplicate game in New York City:

North, Dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.



The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 ♡	Pass	2 N T	Pass
3 ♣ (1)	Pass	3 ♡ (2)	Pass
5 N T (3)	Pass	6 ♡ (4)	Pass
Pass	Pass

1—In view of South's two no-trump response to the Opening bid, North visions a Slam and decides to show this greatly shaded suit.

2—South correctly goes back to the first bid suit.

3—Showing three Aces and the King of a bid suit.

4—If South did not have the Ace, he would have bid six clubs but, holding the Ace of diamonds, he quite correctly bid for the Slam in hearts.

The play of the hand was not extremely simple. East opened the Queen of spades, so it was necessary for the Declarer to take three rounds of diamonds at once before testing out the club distribution. After discarding his losing spade on the third round of diamonds, which fortunately escaped without a ruff, North led the Queen of clubs from Dummy, West covered with the King, North won with the Ace, and then the trumps were drawn and the Small Slam contract fulfilled.

Had the King of clubs been in the East hand, it is probable that North could not have made his contract, as Dummy might not have had enough entries to permit the encirclement of the Knave in West's hand. However, the method of play was absolutely correct and deserved to win.

TODAY'S QUESTION

South deals and bids one spade. West doubles. North bids two diamonds and East doubles. Is East's Double for penalties or a takeout?

Answer: A penalty Double, as West has made a call other than a pass. As a matter of fact, West's Double shows at least 3 honor-tricks.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

The Hostess

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1—When one lives on the second floor and goes downstairs to admit callers, is it correct to lead the way upstairs to the living-room door, then step back for your guests to enter, or should you allow the visitors to go first and then follow?

2—Is it correct to offer to take a gentleman's coat and hat, or does he take care of them himself. J.

1—Usually, under these circumstances, the hostess will find it easier to step forward to lead the way, saying, as she does so, "May I go first and lead the way?" or "Will you excuse me if I go first so that I may lead the way?" or "May I go first and show you the way?"

Of course there is no reason why she may not suggest that her guests go first, but usually this order-of-going makes an awkward moment on the upstairs landing, when the guests must wait for their hostess to arrive to tell them the way.

2—The woman should never take the man's coat and hat. She directs him where it is to be placed, and he himself takes care of them.

Tipping the Porter

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When traveling in a Pullman, what is the custom in regard to tips—should the conductor, as well as the porter, be tipped, and how much? IN DOUBT.

We do not tip the conductor on the train. Just the porter, who receives at least 25 cents for an over-night trip, and usually 30 cents. For special service, we would give at least 50 cents, and perhaps a dollar. The waiter in the dining car is tipped after every meal.

Introduction

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

In your column the other day you said, "And, by the way, the gentleman, even though very old or very distinguished, is introduced to the woman, NOT the woman to the man." Will you please tell me whose name should be spoken first?

DUMB DORA.

Mention first, in the introduction, the name of the woman: "Miss Allen, may I present Mr. Graham," or "Mrs. Allen, Mr. Graham."

RUTH NOT OVERPAID AT NEW SALARY

NOBODY EVER DOUBTED that the Ruth-Ruppert salary sparring match was just part of the annual publicity act designed to advertise both the Yankees and the Babe, nor took seriously the declarations of the Colonel and the Bambino that they would not deviate from the original figures by so much as a nickel. So the final signing of Ruth for $52,000 was welcome news if for no other reason than it put an end to the boredom. You will notice that, as usual, the two reached an agreement just in time to keep the Babe from missing any games on the Yanks' exhibition trip. The differences are never permitted to drag out so long as to hurt the old gate.

Babe Ruth

The average mind can hardly grasp such salary figures in these times, but it can't be said that Ruth isn't worth every cent he is getting. This year's pay will make his total take-down in salary $837,900. Ten world series and income from side sources will run it close to a million. Unquestionably, baseball has been good to Ruth. But Ruth has been good to baseball, too, practically to the extent of saving its life after the Black Sox scandal had it on the ropes.

IT MAY BE true, as has been argued, that no athlete is worth $52,000 for ball playing, but Ruth doesn't get it for ball playing. He gets it because he draws it in at the gate. He pulls in several times his salary each year in extra receipts, so why shouldn't he be entitled to part of it? Jack Dempsey isn't worth $2,000 for the refereeing act he will put on for Max Schmeling's appearance here on April 10, but he gets it because he draws it.

And Ruppert was not in a very good position to offer such an argument as he advanced for Ruth's cut in saying that $50,000 was equal to what $100,000 represented a few years ago. By the same line of reasoning, every dollar that the Yankees take in is as much as $2 represented a few years ago, but if Ruppert has cut the admission prices one iota for his customers nobody has heard of it.

THE MOST CONVINCING evidence yet produced of the exceptional fighting qualities of Barney Ross, and he has delivered plenty of it, is contained in the 10-round decision won by him in Chicago last night over the veteran topliner, Billy Petrolle.

After Petrolle's long idleness, it may not have been a normal Fargo Express that the young Windy City lightweight defeated, but it takes a fighter of parts to beat Billy under any conditions, and the feat stamps Ross more clearly than ever as a real threat to Tony Canzoneri and the 135-pound championship.

JOHN M'GRAW picks the Cubs to win the National League pennant, with the Pirates second and the Cardinals third. Last year he picked the Giants to win and they finished in a tie for sixth. He doesn't mention them this year. He's still vice president of the club, but evidently there's no love lost between him and the rest of the outfit. Further evidence of the breach is seen in a remark credited to Pitcher Fred Fitzsimmons that he learned more in one week of training under Bill Terry than he did in all his years under McGraw. Fitzsimmons is being severely criticized by New York fans, in letters to the newspapers, for his reported utterances. They call it backbiting.

Wesley Ferrell

CLEVELAND CRITICS AND fans are speculating as to the outcome of the bonus agreement that ended the hold-out of Pitcher Wesley Ferrell—an arrangement that provides for a base salary of $12,000, with $2,000 additional for 20 victories and $1,000 more for 25 wins.

There are arguments for and against the bonus system, but in this case it is agreed that the benefits will outweigh the ills. It will keep the pitcher hustling, and Ferrell extended is one of the most valuable assets in baseball. And it will kill any such suspicions as were whispered last year that he was not doing his best.

THIS IS THE first time the Cleveland club has given a bonus contract to a player since Pitcher George Uhle signed one in 1927.

It is related that a certain Cleveland infielder appeared to have a bad day only when Uhle was pitching. Uhle seemed to believe the player was trying to boot his games away to keep him from winning his bonus, and strongly resented the erratic performances. To this day the two treat each other with the utmost coolness.

A RETURN MATCH is likely to grow out of the decision that gave Ben Jeby a draw and saved his middleweight title in the recent bout with Vince Dundee. Most of the spectators still insist that Dundee was entitled to a winning verdict by a clear margin. Jeby had been an 8-to-5 favorite in the betting. If Dundee gets another chance and captures the crown, his home city of Baltimore will hold the distinction of having given four world champions to the fight game. The first was Joe Gans, lightweight; the second, Kid Williams, bantamweight, and the third, Joe Dundee, brother of Vince, welterweight.

FOUR MILES AND 856 yards of treacherous going; 30 perilous jumps; seven furlongs of the course over plowed clay-bogged fields; a heartbreaking uphill run home. The most difficult and dangerous horse race in the world will be run tomorrow in the ninety-fifth annual Grand National Steeplechase at Aintree, near Liverpool, England, with close to a quarter of a million people looking on.

R. K. Mellon, who had two starters in recent years, will not be represented in the 1933 renewal, but there will be 10 American-owned horses in the field of about 30 jumpers to add to the interest in the famous classic here and elsewhere throughout the United Stetas.

The only American bred candidate is Trouble Maker, owned by Mrs. T. H. Somerville. It will be a triple American victory if he wins, as he is American owned and will be ridden by an American jockey, Noel Laing.

Pete Bostwick

Other American owned entrants are John Hay Whitney's Dusty Foot and Slater; Mrs. Charles S. Bird's Heartbreak Hill; Mrs. F. Ambrose Clark's Kellsboro; F. Ambrose Clark's Chadd's Ford; Jesse Metcalfe's Theras; John R. Drake's Coup de Chapeau; M. D. Blair's Ballyhanwood, and J. B. Snow's Delaneige.

ABOUT ONE-THIRD of the starting field will be American-owned, a larger percentage than usual. One-fifth of the jumpers remaining eligible are owned by women. Another American jockey in the race will be G. H. (Pete) Bostwick, riding Dusty Foot, the impost being 147 pounds. Heartbreak Hill will have tradition against her, as no mare has won the race in more than 30 years. Joint favorite with Gregalach at 9 to 1 is Golden Miller, starting in this event for the first time, owned by Miss Dorothy Paget, a first-cousin of John Hay and C. V. Whitney. Three former winners, starting tomorrow will be Gregalach, of 1929, then a 100-to-1 shot; Shaun Golin, of 1931, and Forbra, 50 to 1, last year. Gregalach will carry top weight of 175 pounds. Five horses won the Grand National twice. They were Abad-El-Kadir, The Colonel, The Lamb, Manifesto and Poethlyn. The only American bred winner was Rubio in 1908, owned by an Englishman. The only American-owned winners were Sergeant Murphy in 1923 and Jack Horner in 1926.

SOUTH TO MEET DUBOIS HERE TOMORROW

By JULIUS LEVIN

Steps have been taken to transfer the Western Regional final for the state basketball championship, scheduled to be played next Tuesday, to Penn State College.

The Western Regional final, originally scheduled for the Pitt Stadium pavilion, brings together the winner of the South-Dubois game tomorrow night and Altoona, champion of District VI.

The request for the change in location was made by Altoona authorities. South High, should it succeed in eliminating Dubois, champion of District IX, is willing to transfer the game to State College to provide the members of its squad a trip out of town.

FRIENDLY RIVALS

South and Altoona have been on friendly athletic relations for several years, meeting annually in football, and if the Orioles come through with a victory tomorrow night the South Side authorities will agree to go to State College.

The final decision on the matter rests with H. W. Crane, of Monongahela, president of the W. P. I. A. L. and a member of the state board of control. With both Altoona and South eager to play at State College, Crane likely will agree to the change.

Altoona, victor over Boswell, District V champion, received the bye in the Western Regional draw when South succeeded in eliminating Duquesne. Had Duquesne vanquished South, it would have received the bye and Altoona would have been called upon to oppose Dubois, Erie East vanquisher, tomorrow night.

SOUTH MERITS PRAISE

Scholastic fans of Western Pennsylvania who have seen South in action have placed their stamp of approval on the floor machine that is representing this section in the P. I. A. A. playoffs for the state crown.

Those who were a little skeptical regarding the Orioles' ability to cope with the standard-bearer of the W. P. I. A. L. had their fears removed Tuesday night when the South Siders scored a clean-cut victory over the District VII representatives from Duquesne High.

While little is known hereabouts concerning the prowess of the Dubois quintet, the fact that the Section IX champ was good enough to defeat Erie East, District X titleholder, in their inter-district game, 35-34, gives sufficient assurance that South will have a real battle on its hands in the Pitt Stadium pavilion tomorrow.

ERIE EAST UPSET

Erie East was rated as one of the strongest contenders for the championship of the western half of the state and its setback proved a bigger upset than that turned in by the Orioles at the expense of the Steelers.

Four teams remain in the running for the Eastern Regional championship. They are Lower Marion, District I; Scranton Tech, District II; Lancaster, District III, and Montrose, District XII. Montrose and Scranton Tech meet tomorrow. The state final will be played April 1.

Monessen High yesterday arranged a spring football game with Washington High to be played on April 29. Another spring game is pending, Coach Preston Ditty announced.

The Connelley Trade School volleyball team defeated Latimer yesterday on the Connelley floor, 15-4, 15-12, 15-6.

NEW GOLF FEE PLAN LIKELY

By TOM BIRKS

With public opinion still aroused over the increased fee for permits at the North and South parks, yesterday's session of the County Commissioners found Commissioner C. M. Barr in a receptive mood towards permitting golfers to make their $20 permit payment by contributing the usual one dollar for a single day's play.

Commissioner Barr stated that he would consider a proposition whereby players paying the daily fee of one dollar would keep the receipt given them and when 20 receipts had been obtained, the player could get a permit for the season.

The plan will be a big help to the players who are unable to pay $20, and there are many of the players who enjoyed the county parks last season unable to get that much money at one time.

Evidently the Commissioners are not going to heed the popular demand to place the golf fee on the 1932 basis. Forty-three thousand dollars were taken in at both parks last season in locker, green fees and season permits. The Commissioners claim that the total expenditure for running the links was $63,000.

Petitions are being circulated to the Commissioners to reconsider their stand.

EXPLANATION OF RIPLEY'S CARTOON OF YESTERDAY: BURNING STEEL—Scrap steel, in the form of machine shop turnings, has been piled up in the storage yard of the United States Electric Steel Company, at Connellsville, Pa., and when 1,500 tons of it had accumulated officials decided to transfer the scrap to another plant. The job was scheduled to commence in January, 1918, on a very cold day, and loaders built a fire near the edge of the pile. On the following morning, the fire department was called out to extinguish the blaze, which had spread over the entire pile, but many days' effort were fruitless. It burned for six months. The steel, of a common forging analysis, contained about .40 to .50 carbon, which, when combined with oxygen, maintained combustion. When the carbon was entirely consumed, the steel had been converted to its original base—iron oxide.

DUCKPIN ENTRY TIME EXTENDED

The closing date for entries in the men's events of the Pennsylvania and Ohio duckpin tournament has been extended from today until Saturday, it was announced this morning by Lou Golvash, tournament manager. The tournament gets under way on Saturday, but the first day's program will be limited to women's events.

Included among the late entries are last year's doubles men's champions, representing the Squirrel Hill Duponts.

Entries are being received by Golvash at the Forward alleys, 5844 Forward avenue.

The first of the local teams to compete in the annual American Bowling Congress tournament, at Columbus, O., will roll tomorrow night and Saturday. They include the Elba Recreation, Keystone A. C. Nos. 1 and 2 and P. A. A. Nos. 1, 2 and 3 teams.

A local team representing Lodge No. 339 and composed of Fred Barth, Art Ober, Ben Moore, Joe Lehner, Henry Ebertz and Charles Martin will roll in the sixteenth annual Elks' national tournament at Indianapolis tomorrow night.

The Elba Recreation team and the Ko-Ko-Mo Kids, of East Pittsburgh, engaged in a match game on the Votel alleys in East Pittsburgh last night in which they showed form which should insure them a good piece of prize money at the A. B. C. The home team rolled a total of 3,072, while the downtown aggregation rang up a 2,958 count. The scores:

HANDBALL PLAY NEAR FINALS

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN

Vin McGuiness, darkhorse ace of the P. A. A., battles Lou Alman, brilliant Y. M. H. A. southpaw, in a singles semi-final fray in the annual Allegheny Mountain Association, A. A. U., senior handball championship tournament on the gallery court of the Keystone Athletic Club at 5 p. m. today. The other penultimate contest, wherein Theos Manos, K. A. C. flash and defending titleholder, encounters Dave Olbum, rugged Y. M. H. A. contender, has been set back till 12:30 tomorrow afternoon, with the wind-up scheduled for 2:30 o'clock Saturday.

McGuinness registered a spectacular upset yesterday at expense of Steve Meyers, Downtown Y. M. C. A. contender.

P. A. A. STAR GOOD

The Winged Header, hitting decisively, handling back-wall returns with consumate skill, and keeping his rival consistently on the run in the early and the concluding stages of the match, hung up a 21-27, 5-21, 21-17 triumph after being down at 0-15 in the deciding game.

Meanwhile the husky Olbum reversed the dope further by eliminating Harry Kraeling, talented young clubmate of McGuinness, in overwhelming fashion, 21-2, 21-15. Alman was never in serious danger as he downed Millard Hrycho, Y. M. C. A. glovester, 21-8, 21-13.

Manos advanced by default of Al Bialas, veteran P. A. A. luminary and former local premier.

Tournament Chairman Dick Koubek has announced that the doubles titular event will get under way next Tuesday, instead of on Monday. This means that entries will be received until 3 p. m. on Saturday, rather than merely 'till tomorrow evening.

BASEBALL COMEDY

By NICK ALTROCK

BILOXI, Miss., March 23.—Well, folks, I just heard on good authority that Art (Whataman) Shires, training with the Boston Braves, is so subdued he's praising himself in a whisper and doing all of his boasting in the sign language. And you could knock me over with a soda straw when I heard the news.

Nick Altrock

When Art was with our club and Chicago, he was the Huey Long of baseball. Start him talking about his merits and he'd conduct an all-night filibuster. I can't imagine the kid quieting down now unless he stepped on a rusty nail and got lockjaw.

He even admits, I understand, he may not make the grade in the big show this season. Arthur (the Great) Shires, a self-confessed bush leaguer. Whataman taking a helping of humble pie! Quick, Watson, the spirits of ammonia! I can't stand it any longer.

Mails to Stay In Coast League

SAN JOSE, Cal., March 23.—(AP.)—Because two Pacific Coast League clubs are willing to pay higher salaries than Kansas City, of the American Association, has offered, Walter Mails, veteran southpaw pitcher, has returned his contract unsigned with the request a deal be made to enable him to remain in the Far West.

He is working daily here with the Portland club.

ROSS TO GET TITLE CHANCE

CHICAGO, March 23.—(AP.)—Barney Ross, a youngster from Chicago's ghetto, has earned himself a chance at Tony Canzoneri's world lightweight championship.

By outpointing Billy Petrolle, the Fargo (N. D.) old gentleman, who has been the yardstick by which lightweight contenders are measured, last night in the Chicago Stadium, Ross certified himself as about the best of the field seeking to dethrone the champion.

Ross didn't beat old Billy by a mile, but he did a good enough job to convince the titleholder, Canzoneri, who sat at the ringside and watched it. Apparently he hadn't expected much of Ross, for he said the 22-year-old Chicagoan had surprised him.

The battle was a sizzler every step of the way. Petrolle's ceaseless marches and Ross' frequent stirring rallies had the crowd of about 15,000, the best that has watched a fight in the Stadium in many a night, on its feet cheering from start to finish.

The decision was unanimous.

New Bethlehem Tourney Advanced

NEW BETHLEHEM, Pa., March 23.—Eliminations were resumed last night in the tri-county basketball tournament. The Richfield Oilers defeated Brookville, 27-17; Company C, of Ford City, defeated Sandt Pennzips, of Brookville, 27-24; Franklin Dairy defeated Clarion, 28-14; Natrona defeated Sandy Merchants, 33-27; New Bethlehem vanquished Springdale, 33-22, and Kittanning defeated McGrann, 34-4.

Tonight's schedule calls for the Oilers to meet New Bethlehem, Franklin Dairy plays Natrona, Company C opposes Kittanning, Bouch Drugs clash with Vandergrift and Corbin A. A. engages Emlenton.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Mar. 23.—The present week may have an important bearing on the immediate future of Remy Kremer, veteran Pirate right-hander, who was of little use to the club last season owing to an ailing arm.

Manager Gibson announced today he would assign Kremer to the mound against the Giants in tomorrow's game. The big Frenchman has been a loyal worker since the training season began one month ago, but he has yet to pitch an inning of competition and nobody has any assurance as to what the future holds for him.

CONDITION DOUBTFUL

Gibson told Kremer to take his own time. Ramy informed Gibson a day or two ago that he woul like to "try it," but those on the inside hint there was much apprehension in the veteran's tone when he so addressed his manager.

In the event that Kremer is without a trace of his old stuff when he faces the Giants, the Buccos, especially Manager Gibson, will be saddened. There is a strong likelihood that Kremer can do a few rounds against the Giants on his knowledge of the batters rather than on power or mechanical skill, nevertheless he will not find it easy to fool Gibby and the manager's aides who will be watching Kremer closely. Nobody in camp has worked harder than Kremer to condition himself. But at best it must be said the outlook for Kremer is most discouraging. The fact that Remy hasn't been "in there" as yet is anything but promising.

In an effort to square their account with the Giants, the Pirates will swing into battle this afternoon behind Heinie Meine. Bill Terry's club euchered the Pittsburghers out of the opening battle staged yesterday, the score being 6 to 5.

SPENCER VICTOR

Glenn Spencer was the proud victor over his former buddies in the jump-off battle. Glenn was ushered in to action a little ahead of time as Fred Fitzsimmons, was struck on the wrist by one of Bill Harris' twisters in the fourth.

Glenn held the Buccos to one hit in four innings, but he uncorked a low throw to third in the seventh on Tony Piet's sacrifice which paved the way for three runs. The Giants hopped on Ralph Birkofer for four runs in their half, the last tally being the winning marker. Harris worked six frames in good style. Bill Terry smacked out a homer for his own team.

Chilly Sauce

Spring training games are not without their sad features. Consider the case of Ralph Birkofer, conscientious boy from Tulsa, who was reached for four runs in the seventh inning of yesterday's game at Wrigley Field.

Birkofer took the result so seriously he failed to show up for supper with his roommate, Tommy Padden, who caught the game. Here's the sketch with a [illegible] drop:

Birkofer had a scorching fast ball and a good hook in displaying as he went to the mound in the seventh. Critz was the first batter. The Pirates had a three-run lead. Padden wanted to make Critz hit a slow pitch, but Birkofer's [illegible] of pace is a new thing and [illegible] to take a chance, so he [illegible] the alley and Critz doubled to start the victory drive.

And that one pitch was the reason why the rookie southpaw could not eat his regular meal after the game. He apologized to Padden for not throwing the slow one.

President John A. Heydler, of the National League, saw the spectacle yesterday. Heydler sat with Preay Bengwanger, of the Pirates.

BABE RUTH SIGNS COMPROMISE CONTRACT WITH YANKEES

STAR TO DRAW $52,000 FOR CAMPAIGN

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 23.—(AP.)—The curtain has fallen on baseball's annual holdout act, starring George Herman Ruth. The Babe has agreed to sign a one-year contract with the New York Yankees for $52,000.

Unsuccessful in his demand for $60,000 in answer to Col. Jacob Ruppert's $50,000 offer, Ruth effected a compromise contract yesterday which saw his salary drop below its level of 1923-1926 when he received $52,500.

TO PLAY TOMORROW

The actual signing of the contract will be delayed several days but the Babe will take his place in right field in the Yankee lineup for the exhibition game with the Boston Braves here tomorrow. It will be Ruth's first game of the season, for although he has taken his practice chores along with the others, he's refused to play in exhibitions and has spent his time fishing and golfing.

Yesterday's conference was short and snappy. Ruth reduced his compromise figure made last Saturday of $55,000 to $52,000 and Col. Ruppert, the owner of the Yankees, promptly agreed. The long salary controversy ended in Ruth's penthouse apartment here.

Paid $75,000 last season, Ruth balked early in the winter when he received a contract calling for $50,000, a one-third slash. He announced he would sign for $62,500, or quit baseball. His first conference with Col. Ruppert saw the big slugger chop his figure down to $60,000. Until yesterday Ruppert had stood solidly behind his original offer.

LOWEST SINCE 1921

This year's holdout siege was the Babe's longest. His salary for the coming season is his lowest since 1921 when he was paid $30,000. His total salary with the Yankees over the 14 years he has been with New York now passes the $800,000 mark.

Ruth is 39 years old and in his twentieth big league season.

PASADENA, Cal.—(AP.)—The Chicago White Sox pulled out of Pasadena today on a northward tour during which they will display their talent against a variety of minor league opposition. The squad was in good shape with the exception of Mule Haas, whose injured ankle probably will keep him idle until Sunday, although it was greatly improved today.

SARASOTA, Fla.—(AP.)—After warning his players that their batting would have to show immediate improvement or they would be released, Manager Marty McManus yesterday sent his Boston Red Sox squad through a full nine innings practice game. McManus' team collected 11 hits, but was beaten, 10-5, by the nine led by Bob Fothergill.

NEW ORLEANS—(AP.)—The Cleveland Indians defeated the New Orleans Pelicans yesterday on a pitching duel, 2 to 2, making it four out of five for the Tribe in their exhibition series. The Indians made all of their six hits and the resultant runs off Lefty Lee, Pelican southpaw.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex.—(AP.)—Handling 13 fielding chances faultlessly and lifting a lusty three-bagger to center field, Hank Greenberg yesterday played an impressive role with the Yanniguns, who held the Detroit Tigers regulars to a 5-5 tie in seven innings. Herring held the regulars scoreless for four innings while the Yanniguns brought in five runs from Wyatt's offerings.

BILOXI, Miss.—(AP.)—Cliff Bolton, the rookie catcher upon whom Manager Joe Cronin is depending heavily this year, smacked out a homer with the bases loaded in the third inning of a game with the Atlanta club yesterday and just about clinched the Washington Senators' 9-to-4 victory. Bolton caught half the game and made no errors.

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla.—(AP.)—Catcher Rick Ferrell, last of the St. Louis Browns' holdouts, has signed his contract for 1933. Terms of the contract were not revealed, but it was believed Ferrell accepted a $7,000 salary. He will begin training today.

LOCAL GOLFER DEFEATED

PINEHURST, N. C., March 23.—(AP.)—Miss Maureen Orcutt, of Englewood, N. J., the defending champion, overcame a one-hole disadvantage at the turn today to lead the way into the semi-finals of the North and South's women golf tournament with a 3-and-1 victory over Miss Helen Waring, Pinehurst.

Miss Edith Quier, of Reading, Pa., qualified to meet Miss Orcutt tomorrow by turning back Miss Betty Abernathy, of Pittsburgh, 3 and 2.

Mrs. Opal S. Hill, of Kansas City, co-favorite with Miss Orcutt, continued her sparkling play and defeated Miss Deborah Verry, of Worcester, Mass., 6 and 4.

Miss Bernice Wall, of Oshkosh, Wis., held all even by Mrs. T. E. Weiderseim, of Philadelphia, at the turn, hit her stride on the back nine and won, 3 and 1.

Catholic Floor Tourney Under Way

CHICAGO, March 23.—(INS.)—St. Rita High School's basketball team won the day's opener in the National Catholic classes today at Loyola University, winning 36 to 16 from St. Leo High of Minot, N. D.

St. Mary's of Niagara Falls, N. Y., survived the first round of play with a decisive 31 to 20 triumph over Our Lady of Good Counsel of Fonda, Iowa. St. Mary's led, 14 to 10, at the half. The Iowa tea mnever regained the lead thereafter.

St. Catherine's, of Dubois, Pa., was scheduled to meet St. Joseph's, of DeWitt, Ia., later in the day.

Mellon and Grace Win in Golf Play

AIKEN, S. C., March 23.—Charles Henry Mellon, of Convent, N. J., will oppose Alfred S. Bourne, of New York, and Eugene Grace, of Bethlehem, Pa., will meet Stuart Scheftel, of New York and Paris, in semi-final round matches in the annual Southern Cross cup golf tournament here tomorrow.

Grace, president of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation, yesterday defeated Philip Stevenson, of Glen Cove, L. I., 6 and 5; Mellon eliminated Devereux Milburn, the defending champion, 4 and 2, and Bourne won over Robert V. McKim, New York, 1 up, 19 holes.

Bostwick Rides Own Horse to Win

LIVERPOOL, Eng., March 23.—George H. (Pete) Bostwick, wealthy young American sportsman who will ride Duty Foot tomorrow in the Grand National Steeplechase, today showed he was a good horseman as he guided his own horse, Flaming, to victory in the Lancashire hurdle race.

Thirteen horse ran against the American combination of horse and rider. Lord Woolavington's Armagnas came in second, with J. R. King's Negro third.

GREGALACH'S RIDER HURT

AINTREE, England, March 23.—(AP.)—The chances of Gregalach, big Irish jumper, in the Grand National steeplechase tomorrow were considerably reduced today as his jockey, J. Fawcus, broke his collarbone when his horse went down in a minor chase.

It was believed likely Mrs. M. A. Gemmel would secure the services of a jockey name Parvin.

Previous to Fawcus' accident, Gregalach and Golden Miller had been established as co-favorites. Both were given light workouts today.

Troublemaker, the only American-bred horse in the race, was lightly regarded, as were eight American-owned entries. The probable starting field of 34 horses, their owners, jockeys and weights:

PIRATES' WHO'S WHO

Our Flag Contenders Answer Quiz, Giving Fans Lowdown on What's What and Why.

—By CHARLES J. DOYLE—

Staff Correspondent

NO. 20—OUTFIELDER PAUL GLEE WANER

LOS ANGELES, March 23.

Paul, the background story of your diamond career as pieced together by Californians could be woven into a fine fabric. The fans have heard very little of the real inside story. How about loosening up with your Dick Merriwell classic?

I'll be glad to tell all I know if my lawyer doesn't stop me.

If you can recall about half of the fantastic yarns surrounding your diamond progress it will be a fine recital. Among the hair-breadth adventures concerning your start with the Seals 10 years ago is the one in which the Seal officials had given your release to the press for publication in the morning papers, and without your knowledge. Is it true that you clicked off eight hits in 10 times at bat in the afternoon's doubleheader, causing the bosses to kill the story?

Paul Waner

Yes, that actually happened. I was an unknown rookie, but those eight hits spoke a pretty fair piece for me. I can tell you about that and a few other things, but just how do you want this, in chronological order or do you want just a few of the so-called high spots?

You'd better go back to Oklahoma and dig yourself out from there.

O. K. Just give me a new cue every now and then and I'll try to put on the act.

How did you get into professional baseball, Paul?

I was pitching for the Normal School at Ada when Jimmy Hamilton saw me. That was in 1921. Jimmy persuaded me to sign with Joplin, of the Western League, but I signed on condition that I would go there only if I decided to play as a professional. I refused to report and stayed around Ada playing for Druggist Green's semi-pro club in 1922. Meantime, Joplin sold me to Muskogee, of the Western Association, for $2,500, but I would not go there, either.

In what manner did San Francisco Seals get your contract?

Well, sir—that's rather interesting, I think. Nick Williams was scouting for the Seals. He had been sent to the Middle West to scout Shortstop Ray Flaskamper, with whom I later played in San Francisco. On the train near home, Nick fell to discussing his business with Conductor Burns. The conductor was a hot baseball fan and he gave Nick a wild tale about my prowess. It was wild enough to make Williams get off the train, but I was on a hunting trip and he did not get to see me play. However, the butcher, the baker and candlestick maker all gave him the same tale as the conductor, and darned if Nick didn't take an option on me without ever having seen or talked with me.

What were your reactions to the strange proceedings?

I was thrilled over the story when I got back, but I did not get to San Francisco until the next spring. The Seals had a first baseman named Bert Ellison who lived near my home. He was delegated to take up the matter with me when he returned in 1922, and, after I had succeeded in the important matter of getting some cash for reporting, I said I would go with him.

Did you report to the Seals as a pitcher?

Yes, but I was not a pitcher very long. I was hardly in camp before a series of crashes broke around me, but I surely was lucky through them all. In the first place I pitched a seven inning game for the Yannigans and hurt my arm. Right here should state that a great fellow named Jack Miller, who loved by Pittsburghers, came my aid. Jack was the manager of the Seals and he was kind to me. My one regret is that he did not live long enough for me to show the proper appreciation. He died during my first year with the Seals.

Did Jack make you into an outfielder?

Yes, but there were three other fellows who brought up the matter to Jack. The three were big leaguers named Jimmy O'Connell, Willie Kamm and Louie Fonseca. They were due to report to big league clubs and they joined us to get some training. While they batted I ran down their drives. Finally one of them called me to the plate and asked me to hit a few. I guess I must have impressed them, for they went to Miller and boosted me as a hitter. That was enough for Jack.

Did you break in as a regular with the Seals?

The Seals had bought me from Muskogee under an option arrangement. If they kept me up to a certain time, they had to pay the cash. Well, we were in Seattle when they decided to drop me and they had given out the news before a doubleheader started. I made eight hits that afternoon and the owners did a turnabout face. Moreover, Miller warned them if they released me he would pay Muskogee out of his own pocket to keep me. So it looks as if Jack kept me in the old game.

When did the owners finally come out of the ether?

In San Francisco, after we returned home. We were losing in the ninth by two runs. We had two on the sacks and I was sitting on the bench. Jack yelled to me, "Go up there, kid, and smack one!" I carried out the order by hitting the first pitch over the right field fence to score three runs and end the game. From that time until I left to join the Pirates I was known as Dick Merriwell.

How long did you play with the Seals, and how did you hit?

I played three seasons. I batted .369 in 1923, .356 in 1924 and .401 in 1925, the year I was bought by the Pirates.

What's your chief hobby, Paul?

Well, I like to hit.

STRIPP SIGNS CONTRACT

MIAMI, Fla., March 23.—(INS.)—The last holdout of the Brooklyn Dodgers was brought into the fold today when Joe Stripp, third baseman, accepted terms and signed a 1933 contract. No terms were announced.

N. L. Briefs

MIAMI, Fla.—(AP.)—Johnny Frederick, who set a major league record last year by collioping six home runs as a pinch hitter, also knows how to make other kinds of blows count. Johnny came to bat in the thirteenth inning against Buffalo yesterday with the score tied at 1-1 and Siebert and Isenfeld on base. He swung on one of Al Caraway's offerings and drove it into left field for a single that brought in the winning run.

FORT MYERS, Fla.—(AP.)—Jimmy Cox's three hits yesterday were largely responsible for the Philadelphia Athletics' 10-to-6 triumph over the Cincinnati Reds. Jack at his first base post after a two days' absence with a bruised shoulder, the big league home run king cracked out a single, a double and a triple. Left Fielder Lou Finney also contributed a three-bagger.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla.—(AP.)—A home run by Joe Medwick, Texas League recruit, plus mid-season pitching by Dizzy Dean and Tex Carleton, gave the St. Louis Cardinals a 3-to-2 victory over the New York Yankees in the final game of their three-and-home spring exhibition series yesterday. Medwick cracked out his circuit drive off Lefty Gomez in the fourth to put the Cards out in front.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla.—(AP.)—The Boston Braves went through a two-hour batting and fielding practice yesterday morning and spent the afternoon watching the St. Louis Cardinals upset the New York Yankees at Waterfront Park, the Tribal training site. The Braves, who have dropped four games in a row to the Yanks, will resume the exhibition warfare with the world champions today.

NEW YORK.—Frankie Frisch, balking St. Louis Cardinals' second baseman, left last night for the spring training camp at Bradenton, Fla. It was understood that Frankie had reached an agreement with the Cardinal owners.

Davisson Dropped From Tourney Lead

William Kish, in undisputed possession of the lead in the annual city three-cushion billiard championship tournament, takes on Watson in tonight's match in Tobin's parlors, Smithfield street. Kish has won two matches and lost none. Watson has one victory.

Last night, Marty Welk dropped R. C. Davisson from a tie for the lead with Kish to fourth place, defeating him, 50 to 47.

St. Vincent's to Meet D. & E. on Grid

ELKINS, W. Va., March 23.—(AP.)—St. Vincent College today was added to Davis and Elkins' 1933 football schedule.

The game, the tenth on the Senators' slate, will be played at Latrobe, Pa., November 25.

D. & E. will play 12 games between September 16 and November 30. Two dates are open tentatively.

Sport Shorts

CHICAGO.—Willie Hoppe yesterday defeated Welker Cochran, 50 to 28, and then lost, 50 to 36, to retain a lead of 21 points, 300 to 279, in their 600-point three cushion billiard match here.

HAMILTON, Ont.—Ralph Metcalfe, Marquette University Negro star, equaled his own world record of 6 1-10 seconds to defeat Emmet Toppino, of New Orleans, in a 60-yard indoor dash here last night. Bert Pearson, of Canada, was third. Glenn Cunningham, of Kansas, won the invitation half-mile run.

STOCKTON, Cal.—Amos Alonzo Stagg, 71-year-old former University of Chicago football coach, sent his new charges at the College of the Pacific through their first spring workout here yesterday. A squad of 46 reported.

NEW YORK.—New York amateurs, victorious in 11 of 15 bouts, won the inter-state boxing tournament against picked fighters from Massachusetts, Virginia, Pennsylvania and Rhode Island in Madison Square Garden last night. Massachusetts and Pennsylvania each won two bouts.

CHILE'S TEAM DEPARTS

SANTIAGO, Chile, March 23.—(AP.)—Salvador and Elias Diek, Pablo Ossandon and Egon Schonherr, Chile's Davis Cup tennis team, left today for Buenos Aires to meet Uruguay April 3, 4 and 5 in a second round match of the South American zone. Chile advanced through the first round when Brazil defaulted.

LAYDEN TO GO WEST

Elmer Layden, director of athletics at Duquesne University, will leave tonight for Lafayette, Ind., to attend the annual Purdue University football clinic.

DISTRICT FLOOR MENTORS FORM ASSOCIATION

By JESS CARVER

To any queries as to what is going on among the colleges, the following info is tendered:

1—The district coaches have formed a group, to be known as the Tri-State Basketball Coaches' Association.

2—Carnegie Tech has elected Lou Jagnow captain of its 1933-34 court varsity and an all-opponent team.

3—The Dukes have been instructed to start saving up for a testimonial dinner to be given by the university alumni association in Webster Hall Tuesday, April 4.

Now to enlarge a bit.

COACHES ORGANIZE

The district college coaches for some time have felt the need of a compact group. They have wanted to be as well organized, if possible as the officials. So now they've formed themselves an association, with Frank Wolf, of Waynesburg, as chairman, and Maxie Hannum, of Carnegie, as secretary. The group consists of Dr. Cliff Carlson, of Pitt; Chick Davies, of Duquesne; Ken Loeffler, of Geneva; Glenn Wilde, of Wash-Jeff, and John Lawther, of Westminster, and all other coaches have been invited to join.

Lou Jagnow should make the Tartans a good leader. His path at Carnegie has been both brilliant and rocky. He was ineligible for the second semester of play his freshman year, but made up his work and cinched a varsity forward job as a sophomore. Lou came to Tech with a whale of a reputation, and so far has made good.

Last year he injured a leg and was on the bench plenty, and then last summer he put a knee on the bum in a baseball game, probably trying to swipe second with the bases full (so claims George Silverman) and had to undergo an operation on the injured member last November.

TWO REGULARS BACK

Jagnow and Lou Silverman will be the only regulars and lettermen Coach Hannum will have back next season. Those voting as lettermen this year included Co-captains Red Fergus and Bob Smith, Ed Stentz, Jagnow, Silverman, Ewalt, Rigg, Carlson and Edelblut.

Cliff Aultman, of Geneva, Don Smith, of Pitt, Moose Krause, of Notre Dame, Marty Reiter, of the Dukes and Hatgaden, of Georgetown, were placed on the Tech all-opponent first team, with Rosan and Brown, of Temple; Birch and Brenner, of Duquesne; Finnegan, of Western Reserve on the second.

Letters will be awarded and Coach Davies lionized at the Duquesne fete April 4. John Curran, general chairman, is handling arrangements for the dinner.

Wilmerding Five Wins Loop Title

The Wilmerding Y. M. C. A. basketball team today holds the West Penn League championship for the 1933 campaign.

The Y passers last night took the title by defeating the North Siders in the third and deciding game of the playoff series, 41 to 35. The contest was played on the McKeesport Y. M. C. A. floor.

Eddie Leach led the Wilmerding attack last night, scoring eight field goals and one foul for 17 points. The lineup:

Ouimet's GOLF

—By FRANCIS OUIMET—

Former National Amateur and Open Golf Champion

Francis Ouimet

In recent years it has so happened that the winners in major golf championships and those who have finished well up in important events have been for the most part golfers who have been able to get tremendous distances with their tee shots. Armour, Sarazen, Dutra, Somerville, Jones, Hagen and others all have been very long hitters of the ball.

As a matter of fact, one has to go back many years before he can find a so-called short hitter winning a championship, and it makes me wonder just how valuable long hitting really is. I suppose if you could combine great length with super-accuracy, this combination would prevail in most any event, but fortunately for the average hitter, there still seems to be a substantial premium for accuracy. It is true that the long hitter naturally must take the greater risk, if for no other reason than it is far easier to keep the ball on the fairway at 200 yards than it is at 250 yards, and, therefore, the long hitter who can keep the ball on the course should be entitled to some reward.

RUNYAN SHORT DRIVER

However, in recent Florida golfing events, Paul Runyan, a small chap of none too rugged makeup, has been one of the outstanding performers. Runyan, it will be remembered, was the winner of the six-inch cup tournament at Miami-Biltmore, and, together with Horton Smith, also was winner of the international four-ball match. Beyond this, he has been a headliner in many other outstanding competitions and therefore he must be considered at this particular time as one of the great American professionals.

To see Runyan hit a tee shot and compare the length of this with that of some of the long hitters would lead the spectator to the belief that he could not possibly get anywhere because of his deficiency in length. Runyan, for a guess, might be 30 yards or more short of Sarazen, and it would seem that such a handicap would be too great to overcome. However, two things must be taken into consideration and the average player who always is striving for length might bear these things in mind.

MAKE UP DISTANCE

In the first place, Sarazen is one of the longest hitters the game has known, and it is unfair to compare Runyan or anyone else with Sarazen. Secondly, while he may suffer in comparison to Sarazen in the matter of driving length, it is apparent to me at least that Runyan, while not an abnormally long hitter, always can hit a golf ball far enough so that he suffers no great handicap in open tournaments. To bear me out in this contention, I only ask you to review his scoring.

Runyan hits well beyond the 200-yard limit, and for a guess I would say his average would be something like 230 to 235 yards. He is a straight down the middle every time, and, whenever the green is in range, you can depend upon him to place his ball there.

PAY OFF ON SCORE

Furthermore, he has mastered the art of approaching, chipping and putting, and, therefore, he, for one, does not suffer in score play because of his apparent short driving. His play at least has convinced me that a man does not have to be a terrific hitter to stay up with the leaders, and, for that reason, I think many of the average players who find 200 yards to be their limit of driving power, should take heart and realize that premiums still are to be had for accurate hitting, and, after all, prizes are not given out on tee shots.

At Oakland, Cal.—Jo Tieken defeated Baby Palmore, 10 rounds; Fred Feary knocked out Dennis Brown, 1 round.

YAROSZ-WOLFE A 'NATURAL' 15-ROUNDER

TONIGHT'S FIGHTS

Buddy McArthur vs. Frankie Ryan, 10 rounds, and Jimmy Reilly vs. Jackie Fuller, 6 rounds, Fairmont, W. Va.

Babe Hunt vs. Jose Santa, 10 rounds, Boston.

Miles Murphy vs. Lee Paige and Leo Lomski vs. Frank Van Hee, 8 rounds each, Tacoma, Wash.

By HARRY KECK

Sports Editor.

Here's the first fight for Pittsburgh if the 15-round boxing bill for important bouts becomes a law:

Ted Yarosz vs. Eddie (Kid) Wolfe.

Four times they've met and each has been named the winner once and the two other 10-round bouts have been called draws.

Yarosz won the first bout, in Detroit; the second, in New York, was called a draw; Yarosz really was entitled to the third one, herbut it was voted in Wolfe's favor and then came the second draw also here.

EXTRA ROUNDS NEEDED

There's a case where a 15-round bout is the only way to settle a question of superiority. Any 10-round bout between Wolfe and Yarosz will be close. Tack on the extra five rounds, and the elements of condition, ability to stand the gaff and staying powers will be certain to provide a winner one way or the other.

For championship matches or such close rivalries as the Yarosz-Wolfe feud the 15-round route is ideal. However, it would be a mistake to toss around 15-round privileges indiscriminately for matches that do not merit such recognition.

Between Rounds

Lew Raymond, the Arena matchmaker who saw Paulie Walker beat Young Ketchel in Philadelphia, Tuesday night, reports that the Trenton (N. J.) welterweight came out of that battle in good shape and will be ready for a tough evening with Ted Yarosz at the Arena tomorrow night. He'll have to be good and set for a grueling grind, for our Ted is the toughest hombre we have around here for anyone to lick, as witness his record of only one defeat, and that one questionable, in his more than 30 professional fights.

A full team of boxers has been entered in the Allegheny Mountain Association, A. A. U., senior tournament by the Center A. C., of Weirton, W. Va.

Few fighters who have shown here in recent years have left the good impression with the fans that Tommy Paul, of Buffalo, did in beating Jimmy Thomas in a fine fight at Motor Square Garden Monday of last week, and he ought to prove a big attraction when he returns next Monday night to box Mose Butch, local star. Paul is a two-fisted fighter of the Jimmy Slattery hands-down school.

Eddie McEntee wants to match his Curly Klaas with Tony DiPiero at one of the local clubs.

Jimmy Thomas completed the fracture of a knuckle on his right hand in his bout with Pete De Grasse in Montreal Monday night, and will be on the sidelines for a month. He has had to call off a match with Jimmy Mack at the Arena in Philadelphia next Monday night. Montreal newspaper accounts of the De Grasse battle are that it was very close for eight rounds with De Grasse pulling away the finish, when Thomas was handicapped by the crippled hand.

Red Bruce will box Jimmie Regan, Erie fighter, Thursday night, and Dauphin Black, in six-round preliminary at the Garden Monday night.

Clarksburg Quits Middle Atlantic

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., March 23. — (AP.) — Clarksburg today gave formal notice that it could not retain its franchise in the Middle Atlantic Baseball League.

Definite decision was made last night at a meeting in the Harrison County court house to win Elmer M. Daily, of Ebensburg, Pa., president of the league, today an inform him that this city would be obliged to surrender its franchise.

WINDBER, Pa., March 23.—(AP.)—Elmer M. Daily, president of the Middle Atlantic Baseball League, expressed keen disappointment today on learning that Clarksburg has decided not to retain its franchise. He said:

"The league will organize and operate, however, on a six club basis. We had hoped to make it an eight-point circuit with Clarksburg and Beckley.

STOCKS HOLD BEST PART OF GAINS

NEW YORK, March 23.—(AP.) — The stock market threw off its reactionary mood of the past five sessions and recovered vigorously for a time today.

An upsweep of prices in the first hour carried a number of issues up 2 to 4 points, as shorts sought to cover in a market from which selling pressure had been lifted. Trading slackened later, but more than half of the early advance was still retained by early afternoon. Early strength also appeared in cotton and wheat.

The brisk advance in the early trading was attributed in brokerage circles largely to improvement in the market's technical position, as result of its recent shakeout, and the increase in the short position. However, the Dun & Bradstreet report showing that bank clearings in leading centers were about back to normal, and the preparations for brewing business in many centers as result of yesterday's signing of the beer bill, gave the business outlook a somewhat more hopeful aspect.

Rails were influenced by expectations of an early announcement of the administration's program of dealing with their situation. Railroad quarters here anticipate drastic steps to co-ordinate railroad operations and eliminate wasteful duplication. The farm implements and the mail order issues appeared to respond bullishly to the House's approval of the farm relief measure, although it has been strongly opposed in some quarters in Wall street.

The low volume of steel business prompted the United States Steel Corporation further to reduce the income of salaried employes to the extent of about 10 per cent, by starting a new system of time off without pay. Professional traders in Wall street who were inclined to remain bearish on the market outlook stressed the low volume of industrial activity, and the prospect of extremely low corporate earnings for the first half of this year, although some acknowledged that the starting up of the brewing business, together with efforts to lift commodity prices, might speed business recovery.

SHARP UPTURN IN GRAINS

CHICAGO, March 23.—Sharp upturns in grain prices early today followed Washington reports that were construed by traders as bullish regarding agricultural legislation. Dispatches from Washington said it was understood President Roosevelt was not opposed to revisions of the farm bill if the Senate deemed them needful. Opening 1½ to 2⅛ higher, wheat afterward held near the initial range. Corn started ⅝-1 up, and subsequently rose further.

Giving impetus to the wheat market advance was strength shown by securities. It was also urged that after five successive days' setback of wheat prices, a rally was to be expected.

Absence of wheat offerings at the opening coincided with a rush to purchase, and there was evidence of an oversold market. Profit taking on advances, however, led afterward to material reactions in wheat as compared with early top values. Corn and oats largely paralleled the course of wheat. May delivery of corn rose to the best figure since December 1.

Provisions were responsive to strength of hog values and of grain.

DECLINES SHOW BULL MARKET ISN'T HERE

By LEWIS HANEY
Professor of Economics, New York University.

NEW YORK, March 23.—The markups in prices of stocks and most commodities which came with the reopening of the exchanges were almost eliminated yesterday.

Incidentally, the declines nearly closed the big "gap" left when the market jumped at the opening a week ago. I do not regard this as of any great significance, however, and it merely indicates that "the next bull market" did not start on March 15.

An obvious effort has been made to sustain the market by talking up the rails. Rumors have been spread, and buying orders thrown in. This is old stuff. (If the oil industry were not so sick, the oils would have been taken up by this time.)

But yesterday, after another try at the rails, support weakened, and a considerable break occurred toward the end in Union Pacific. This road reported poor earnings for February, and has recently been ruled against as to a "regrouping" plan it had proposed. In common with several other rails it is high in price on an earnings basis.

The disappointing car loadings of last week, and the indicated showing to be made in Saturday's figures, seemed to add the finishing touch.

MERGERS FACE FIGHT

We should bear in mind that the proposed railway consolidation schemes will meet determined opposition, that the bankruptcy bill has been a flop, that inflation would not help railways any more than other utilities, and that rail earnings from now on will compare less favorably with a year ago (wage and rate conditions now being similar).

What the railways need is traffic, and any considerable curtailment of farm operations would not help that.

Business returns have been disappointing, including steel production, electric power, car loadings, department store sales in the New York area, and commodity prices.

Important dividend cuts are occurring.

Wall Street regards the farm bill as a bearish factor.

The utility group is much depressed by developments looking toward regulation and rate reductions.

February automobile registrations appear to have been down. Drastic cuts in tire prices have been announced. The oil industry is disorganized, and gasoline prices are weak.

POSITION NOT STRONG

Then there is the "technical position." This, in my opinion, is not strong. First, the sponsors have tried to support prices in order to work off stock. Second, the "buy-on-reaction" idea has led little traders to come in, and they are being disappointed. Third, the smart traders are mostly in the attitude of waiting to sell on bulges. Fourth, there is much liquidation going on.

We may also note that shorts who held through the big bulge, and doubled up near the top, are now sitting pretty.

First the longs lowered their asking prices. Then prices got down to the bids. Yesterday these were filled, and thin spots developed underneath.

As I see it, the market needs a little cleaning out, and is not likely to rally much until volume has picked up somewhat on a decline.

And remember, the present Washington administration is not interested in the white rabbit business.

RENNER PLANS FINANCING

Pittsburgh and Youngstown bankers are planning to announce new financing for the Renner Company, formerly the Renner Brewing Company, of Youngstown. There will be one class of stock.

The Renner Company owns the only brewing plant in Youngstown, another brewery in the city now being dismantled. The capacity is 125,000 barrels a year, while consumption in Youngstown before prohibition was 250,000 barrels a year.

A federal permit has been granted and the company is preparing to operate.

George J. Renner, chairman of the board, founded the business in 1885. It was a profitable enterprise up to the advent of prohibition. His son, Emil A. Renner, is president. The Renner family has been engaged in the brewing business since the Civil War.

Thompson Victor In Proxy Battle

CHICAGO, March 23.—(INS.)—John R. Thompson, Jr., today was the victor in a bitterly-fought contest to regain control of the national chain of restaurants his late father founded.

At the close of a two-day stockholders' meeting Thompson was finally able last night to rally a slim vote margin of 5,630 shares of stock of a total voting of 264,406. At a meeting of the new board Thompson was returned to his position as president, succeeding William M. Collins, who replaced young Thompson as president last December. Sidney S. Gorham was named chairman of the new board.

Bank of England Rate Unchanged

LONDON, March 23.—The Bank of England made no change in its discount rate of 2 per cent.

NEW YORK BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, March 23.—A rebound in rail loans, especially those of the semi-speculative classes, gave the bond market a more cheerful appearance today. United States government securities were steady to firm. Foreign obligations were mixed.

NEW YORK, March 23.—(AP.)—Transactions in the most active bonds on the New York Stock Exchange today were as follows (000 omitted in sales column; United States bonds in dollars and thirty-seconds of dollars):

Silver's Use Expected to Be Widened

By B. C. FORBES

Well-informed people declare:

"Something will be done about silver."

They mean that, by some means or other, the historic white metal will be brought more prominently into the world's currency and that it will become more valuable. As a matter of fact, silver quotations lately have recovered somewhat from their lowest levels.

Mr. Forbes

Almost every student of money and currency agrees that it would be helpful were the status of silver to be raised. But thus far no concrete plan acceptable to the world has been devised. For any one country—America, for example—to attempt alone to fix an artificially high price for the white metal would, it is generally agreed, prove unworkable.

Hopes, however, are entertained that the much-discussed "World Economic Conference" will be able to expand the use of silver as currency.

DID YOU know that at one time silver was as valuable as gold?

In view of the prospective prominence of silver, these facts are interesting and illuminating:

The origin of silver is lost in antiquity.

The Bible records that Joseph was sold "for twenty pieces of silver."

In various countries silver, in ancient times, was considered as valuable as gold—in certain isolated places it sold for twice as much as gold.

In the Persian and Egyptian empires about 1600 B. C., silver was not rated "16 to 1" but 13¼ to 1.

In the heyday of Greece, the ratio ranged from 10 to 1 to 13 to 1. In the Roman Empire, previous to Julius Caesar, the ratio was 13 to 1, but vast golden spoils brought to Rome reduced the ratio to 7½ to 1.

IN ENGLAND, between 1100 and 1200, it was 9 to 1. In Spain, just before the discovery of America by Columbus, the ratio was 10¾ to 1.

Following the conquest of Mexico by Cortes, and Peru and Bolivia by Pizarro and other conquistadores, Spain, having a practical monopoly of the two metals, fixed the relationship at 13 1-3 to 1. In the sixteenth century, South American mines sent so much silver to Europe that, for the first time in history, 16 to 1 ruled—but only for a relatively brief period.

When, however, Portugal rose to pre-eminence, 16 to 1 was restored. Between 1687 and 1873 the variation was only from a little over 14 and 16 to 1.

The year 1894 found 32½ to 1, 1914, 37 1-3 to 1. The World War raised silver by 1919 to 18½ to 1, and in the following year the white metal reached the maximum dollar value of $1.35 an ounce.

Last year it fell to the abnormally low level of 24¼ cents an ounce. Yesterday it was quoted at 27¼ cents.

These facts, furnished this column by Frederick M. Halsey, of the New York Stock Exchange firm of Baker, Weeks & Harden, show what value silver has attained in the past. He predicts that "out of the various projects suggested for its wider use, there will undoubtedly be one or more workable schemes of sufficient value to take concrete form and re-establish silver once again."

Today Mexico is by far the world's largest producer of silver, with the United States second and Canada third. An extensive rise in silver would greatly benefit this country.

THANKS TO General Motors, Detroit promises to get, promptly, a first-class banking institution. This is of tremendous importance.

The Flapper's Daughter

By BEATRICE BURTON

THRILLING NOVEL OF THE CHILDREN OF DANCING MOTHERS

this. "Gertrude's a grown woman, and Jim must be 27 or 28 . . . sitting up for children as old as that is just plain silliness!"

She had given Sharlie a key to the flat a year before so that she could let herself in on those nights when she was supposed to be playing cards or going to the movies with the Barnums.

* * *

Dodie always got home in time to "dish up" the dinner.

She came in, flushed and cheerful, at 6 o'clock on this sweltering July night, her bare arms full of bundles.

"Oh, but I'm dead, Sharlie!" she cried breathlessly, dropping them down on the kitchen table. "This heat is something awful, isn't it? Did you put some of the home-brew on ice? And I've brought some cheese and summer sausage and crackers. The Schultzes are coming over after dinner."

She began to peel off the short white chamois gloves she had on.

"I'm going to take a cold bath," she said, "and get into something fresh. If Maud comes before I'm through tell her to sit down and make herself at home. She went home to change, too."

ADORES FATHER

At 10 minutes after 6, while she was splashing in the tub, Sharlie's father came home.

Elden Dunn was a small, slender, quiet man. He was good looking in a dried-up sort of way. He seldom had very much to say for himself.

"Daughter," was all he said to Sharlie when he came in. Not "hello, daughter" or "good evening, daughter," but just the one word of greeting.

"Dad," answered Sharlie, flashing her dewy young smile at him across the table that she was setting.

She adored him.

She knew that he was a failure. She knew that he was no "money-maker" like Carl Hanaberry. She knew that a beautiful woman like her mother should have a husband who could give her everything that money could buy . . . But she adored her father anyway.

His face fell a little as he looked at the table.

"Who's coming for dinner?" he asked.

"Maud and Carl. And afterwards the Schultzes are coming over, so Dodie said."

Her father shrugged his shoulders.

"I'm sorry," he said mildly. "I'm all in tonight. I'd have been glad to get a chance to go to bed early."

But Sharlie was not sorry that the Hanaberrys and the Schultzes were spending the evening at the flat. Her father and Dodie would be so busy with them that they wouldn't pay much attention to her or to what she was planning to do with her own evening.

LIES TO EDNA

Edna awakened in time for dinner.

She came walking into the living room, where the Hanaberrys were having a glass of home brew as an appetizer, looking pale and lovely in a blue muslin house dress.

"Gosh, but you're a swell sight after a long hot day, Edna," Carl Hanaberry said to her. There was admiration in his eyes as he walked up to her with his untasted glass in his hand.

"Take a sip and sweeten it for me?" he asked her.

She shook her head and turned away from him. She hated Carl Hanaberry, although she never said so. Edna was an expert at minding her own business.

But tonight she made it perfectly clear to Sharlie that she was going to do something about the Eddie Wallis matter.

When dinner was over she came out into the hot, bright little kitchen to help Sharlie with the dishes.

The minute she set foot inside the door she began to talk about Eddie.

"You're not really going to meet that boy tonight, are you, Baby?" she asked. Her tone was light and casual.

Sharlie looked up from the plates she was washing and shook her head.

"No." She lied promptly and smoothly. "I promised Mrs. Barnum I'd go over there and play cards tonight. So Eddie's out of luck."

"I'm glad of that," Edna said quietly. And Sharlie decided that the whole affair was ended.

HURRIES FROM HOUSE

But an hour later, while she was standing before her mirror pulling her hat down over her soft, shining hair, Edna opened the door and came in.

"Sharlie," she said, "if you're going over to the Barnums' you don't need a hat . . . Sharlie, you ARE going out to meet that boy, aren't you?"

"No, I'm not," Sharlie lied again. "But, why shouldn't I, if I want to? All you have against him is the fact that his shirt was dirty today. Well, he hasn't any mother to see that he always has a clean shirt——"

Edna did not wait to hear any more. Sharlie heard her walk into the living room. She heard her clear voice speaking to her mother:

"Dodie, I want to talk to you for a minute."

And then Dodie's voice, sweet and high:

"All right, Edna. But wait a minute—something's wrong with this card table. Carl, see if you can help me set it up."

Holding her breath and moving on the tips of her toes, Sharlie crossed the dark dining room. She hurried across the little kitchen and across the back porch.

Down the back steps she went, and when she reached the front sidewalk she began to run.

Eddie was waiting at the corner in his rattle-trap car.

He opened the door and pulled her down beside him on the seat. Two bottles in his coat pocket clinked together.

"Be careful of the fire-water," he said. And then with the lights of Zowl's Drugstore window shining out upon them, he kissed her hard.

"Little birdie," he murmured, his mouth against her mouth for half a minute.

HOME UNAPPRECIATED

He smelled of alcohol and cigarettes and tweed. To Sharlie that mingled smell was delicious and disturbing.

She snuggled closer to him as the car started away from Zowl's . . . The night sky was black, studded with stars like chip-diamonds on black velvet. The shadows in the street were like black velvet.

As the car sped through them Sharlie began to sing, her cheek close to Eddie's cheek, her arm around his neck:

"Bring your caravan of love—
"To the one you're dreaming of—"

She stopped and laughed. "Oh, Eddie, THIS is the life!"

This was the life!—This one-half of the double life that she led. This was the part that counted and was glorious and thrilling.

The other half—the world of the flat, the radio, the card games, the careless meals, the pretty dusty furniture—wasn't the half that mattered.

Home had never meant much more to Sharlie than a place to eat and sleep and get dressed and do housework in. She never had had a party there when she was a child. She had hardly ever invited a boy friend there after she grew up . . . The Schultzes and the Doolittles and the Hanaberrys were so likely to drop in and that would have spoiled everything.

"Where are we going, Eddie?" she asked presently.

THE PLANET JUPITER
(Science)

The greatest in our solar system. The changing belts shown in both pictures taken at different times are seemingly clouds swept by violent storms due to internal heat. Jupiter has eight moons.

ENLARGED HYDROGEN ATOM
(Chemistry)

If we could magnify the nucleus (a single proton with positive charge of electricity) to the size of a pea, the satellite electron (negatively charged) describing the outer shell of the atom, would become a ball 30 feet in diameter. The space between the nucleus and the satellite electron would be increased in proportion (300 miles) which corresponds to the distance between New York and Pittsburgh. (Bazzoni: Kernels of the Universe.)

CHRISTIANS IN THE ARENA

Innumerable Christians became martyrs in the Roman arena, torn to pieces by beasts or bound to stakes and burned as "living torches." (World's History.)

FATTENING AND REDUCING DIETS (Science)

An average man needs daily, besides minerals and vitamins, food of 3,000 calories heat value; a woman that of 2,400 calories. Reducing diet: 1,700—2,200 and 1,300 to 1,700 cal., respectively. Fattening diet: 3,600—4,200 and 2,500 to 3,500 cal., respectively. In both diets minerals and vitamins (milk, vegetables, fruits) should be fully included; fats, carbohydrates and proteins should be taken in about equal caloric value. In a fattening diet (left) use whole milk and butter in every way (cream, salad dressings); in a reducing diet drink skim milk and buttermilk instead. Meats should be fat in the former and lean in the latter case. Diseases of organs of metabolism, digestion and circulation (diabetes, Bright's disease, defective glands, gallstones, stomach and intestinal troubles, etc.) to which over and underweight are often due, need special diets. Hence preliminary medical examination is essential before dieting.

PATH OF ELECTRONS IN ATOMS

(A) Hydrogen; (B) Helium; (C) Lithium; (D) orbit path including the precession of the orbit; (E) satellite electron; (N) nucleus. Each atom consists of equal number of positive (protons) and negative (electrons) electrical units. Thus electricity and matter are varying forms of the same thing. The nucleus contains all the protons and about half of the electrons, so it is always positive. The remaining electrons are satellites which neutralize the atom. (Bazzoni: Kernels of the Universe.)

SUN-TELEGRAPH-WARNER JUNIOR KOMIC CLUB

Ann Helfgott, "official reporter" of the Enright Chapter of the Sun-Telegraph-Warner Theaters Junior Komic Club, continues her "did you know's?"

That the reason William Black did not sing at the regular meeting last week was because his school basketball team played in the championship matches Wednesday and Bill did his part to help his team win by leading the cheering. Consequently Bill will not sing for a couple of weeks, however, his voice is rapidly returning to normal.

That Allan Bennett's idea of the ideal place to live would be a house built entirely of pretzels—great big salty pretzels—Allan has many members agreeing with him and one of these days Manager Roberts is going to surprise, not only Allan, but all the members and have a pretzel party.

And speaking of Mr. Roberts, the members all crowd around the console when he starts to play. His greatest enjoyment is playing the organ for the "kiddies."

That the Pagano twins in their bright green sweaters made great targets for the girls in the "dodge ball" game. The girls were in fine form Saturday and gave the boys a good trimming.

That I hope all the members find "A" on their report cards when they receive them this week. Mine anyway!

Congratulations to all the members of the Sun-Telegraph-Warner Theaters Junior Komic Club who are celebrating birthdays today.

The Law Is Always with Us

Bugs Baer

Let's Close the Books

We care for no more harrowing investigations of brokers and bankers of the vintage of 1929.

Let the dead past bury its ears with its toes. That glorious old year of 1929 is gone. It has collected its eternal bonus where they never split two for one.

Since that shattering debacle we have passed five Shakespearean winters of our discontent. Four more than Bill himself who wrote that gag.

All we have been trying to do is forget for we cannot forgive.

What have they discovered in this last investigation? That the brokers and bankers knew no more than the public. They could get arrested for that one item alone.

The bankers plead ignorance and the brokers plead youth.

And they both plead statistical aphasia. Temporary loss of memorandums.

They recite their belated and postponed tale of brokerage and commission woe in a itinerant voice in a vague sort of harangue.

They nod yes while answering no in an effort to balance the books.

The investigators are gentle and persuasive. But the witnesses are broken in mind and in body. Once they were in the driver's seat. But now they are trotting under the wagon with the spotted Dalmatian.

It does the investigators no good to add up the numerals on the tombstone. The epitaph tells us who is buried there. So why question the corpse?

This all comes under the categorial tabulation of cruel and unusual rehashing of lost millions and fractured power.

The public wants to forget. We admit the brokers and the bankers touched off the bon-bon. But they have suffered. Let them go their way and skin no more.

Now, Decent Regulation!

Every Effort Should Be Made to Overcome the Misgivings Of the Honest Drys.

Passage by Congress of the beer bill redeems a specific pledge contained in the Democratic platform and meets with gratifying promptness the expectations of the people.

Its swift enactment by Congress is an additional tribute to the vigor and alacrity with which the President is addressing himself seriatim to the major problems which are weighing upon the country and have too long waited for the courage and confidence of approach which are now recognized as the Roosevelt spirit.

The Senate wisely receded from its amendments of the bill as it passed the House, which would have prohibited sale to minors under 16 years of age and reduced the alcoholic content from 3.2 to 3.05.

In return, the House accepted the Senate proposal to include wines of the same alcoholic content as the legalized beer.

These were matters of little materiality. The important thing is that the miserable Volstead law, which has afflicted the nation for many years and at so many vital points in its social and political structure, is modified to the full extent of the power of Congress, pending action by the states on the resolution for the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment.

The effect of the enactment of this new law will be seen instantly in a wide extension of employment, not only in the industry of beer manufacture and distribution, but in many related trades and crafts.

It will allay in large measure the widespread irritation caused by unreasonable restraint upon the freedom and harmless indulgences of the people. It is a step, and an important step, toward economic recovery.

From every standpoint it is good.

Now let the states see to it that the laws or the rules which they adopt for regulating the sale of beer within their respective confines are decent and intelligent.

Every effort should be made to meet and overcome the misgivings still felt by an honest minority among our people, who are unreconciled as yet to any departure from the rigid formulas of extreme prohibition.

The Newspapers' Service

They Enabled Trade to Continue, and the Country to Carry On, During the Bank Moratorium.

The banking holiday with its check on business and industry has been unsettling enough.

But how fortunate for everyone that there has been no moratorium on the publication of newspapers!

Their terse, accurate reports of swift-moving developments as the nation's leaders grapple with unprecedented problems—

Their ability to provide facts to combat fears—

Their great service in equalizing advantages of information that otherwise would be available to but a limited few by presenting all the facts—and their significance—to all the people as rapidly as events unfold—

These have served to calm public excitement, to crystalize public opinion and to inspire public confidence.

They contributed to the morale of the American people that earned the well-deserved tribute paid by Secretary of the Treasury Woodin when he said:

"I am stunned with admiration for the American people in this hour of crisis."

Suppose the newspapers, too, had been forced to suspend along with the banks. Just attempt to visualize the situation that would have resulted:

Complete paralysis of virtually all activity through lack of common contact between merchant, manufacturer, producer, trader and the public.

Stark fear, running rampant without contradiction by facts, involving all manner of consequences.

Malicious rumor wreaking havoc without effective opposition. . . . Unwittingly repeated for lack of news-gathering, fact-sifting agencies.

Leaders of the nation struggling in the dark against unknown conditions.

Opportunists preying on the rights of others, unhampered by fear of public exposure.

A pall of ignorance shrouding everything.

How tranquil the present situation by contrast!

A capsule-sized dose of such a situation as would confront the nation were the newspapers forced to suspend is offered in the recent experience of Butte, Mont., where local conditions forced the temporary shutdown of the two daily newspapers in the community.

An account of Butte's experience published in the September 10, last, edition of Editor and Publisher tells of the wild rumors that spread throughout the community with the suspension of the papers:

"One rumor spread through the town that a terrible murder had been committed in the suburbs.

"Another report carried the dismal tidings that the bonus men at Washington had blown up the White House.

"A third terrifying rumor, widely spread throughout the city, was to the effect that President Hoover had been assassinated.

"Crowds milled about the streets in front of the newspaper offices, reading brief news bulletins posted on the windows. Newspaper telephones rang incessantly as subscribers begged for stray bits of news.

"A messenger boy carrying exchanges from the postoffice to one of the Butte newspapers was stopped by people on the street who offered as high as 50 cents a copy for the privilege of reading one of his papers."

America's newspapers have saved the nation from chaos, have thrown light on a baffling predicament, lent their services to victims of the financial tangle and the leaders working out its early solution.

They have enabled trade to continue, despite its unusual handicaps.

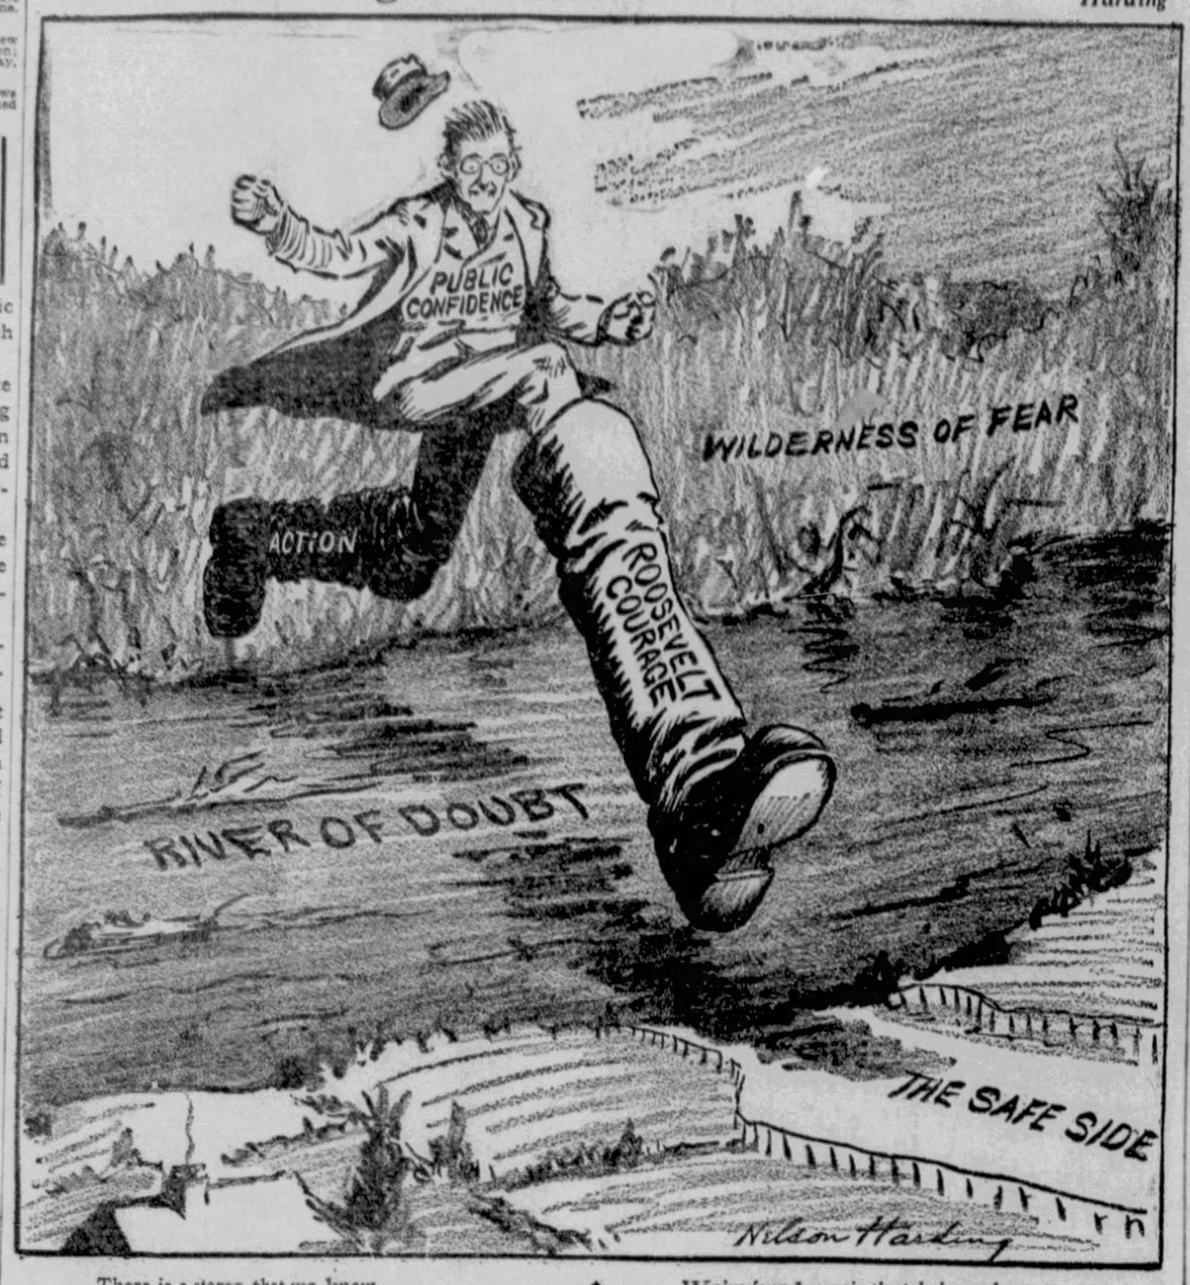
They have proved their inestimable value to merchant and patron alike, emphasizing their role of public servant.

They have spared no effort nor expense in keeping people abreast of the times.

Theirs is the satisfaction of a job well done.

The Seven League Boots

By Nelson Harding



There is a story that we know
Of boots that made the wearer go
Full seven leagues at every bound
When once the magic boots were found.

We've found a pair that help us leap
Across the forest dark and deep
And over rivers swift and wide
To safety on the other side.

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS

A Happy Heart

With a happy heart I would go my way,
A heart without regret,
A heart that can love for a night and a day
And then forget, forget!

For there is no grief like a heart that clings
To the joys that are past and through,
That dwells in the dreams of other springs,
In the dreams that could not come true!

So I ask always for a happy heart,
A heart which with song overflows,
And holds no thought of the thorny smart,
Remembering only the rose.

For a light and happy heart I pray,
Which owes to the past no debt;
A heart that can love for a year and a day
And then forget, forget!

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, March 23.—Ten years ago, New York had a dozen weekly and monthly shakedown journals devoted to chit-chat of The 400. Most conspicuous, until its publisher, Col. Mann, fell afoul legal reprisals, was the now-forgotten Town Topics. It kept philanderers on constant edge.

Even though brightly informative of social goings-on, the majority existed on polite blackmail. As a prelude to the holdup, a proof of a proposed article was submitted to the victim, lifting the curtain on the inevitable family skeleton. A stock subscription or page ad "killed" the piece.

So far as I know, there are none of the highjackers left. Indeed, even the more reputable have dwindled until, before the market smash, only three were printed. The information such feuilletons spread is now done more expertly and accurately by society writers on daily newspapers.

Cholly Knickerbocker is Maury Paul, a Social Registerite, and Billy Benedick is Baron Wrangel. Madame Flutterbye is of the upper social realm, and many other pseudonyms are bona fide members of the Gold Coast's elect. All know whereof they speak and are unbribable.

Frank Tinney idles most of his time, while not rocking at a window, warming a bench in the park near his Philadelphia home. Improved in health, but not entirely recovered, he reads Variety, weekly, for news of those of the theater he knew in other days. Much of the cross-fire comedy of today originated with Tinney. His habit of talking to the orchestra leader developed the stooge.

* * *

I used to like Tinney's story of the colored cook impounded for beating up another woman. When Tinney called at the jail, he asked her what she had done. "I didn't do nuffin,' Mr. Tinney," she explained. "But I jes' natcher'ly can't control myself when a lady comes at me with a brick."

Broadway still is discussing Douglas Fairbanks Jr.'s surprising versatility, as revealed at a benefit while on his recent visit. Those who thought he merely shone in his sire's reflected effulgence found, instead, an actor whose mimicry of his dad, Chevalier, Chaplin and Wallace Beery the high spot of an all-star program.

Several screen celebrities, however, should watch their step in public. I think, "in especial," of a recent tea where a brunet charmer appeared a bit tipsy. She swept into the room with a "look-at-me!" In triumphant promenade, she lurched through another doorway into about the most inoffensive, scholarly and gentlemanly fellow I know. Although knocked to one side, he immediately humbled himself with: "I am tremendously sorry. It was entirely my awkwardness." To which she muttered: "Course it was your fault. Whose else? Anyway, I don't like your face!" He flushed scarlet, bowed and walked away—leaving the group hip-deep in amazement at this flagrant exhibition of uncalled-for insolence.

* * *

Yet, I recall a most gracious consideration for strangers expressed by a movie star at a mixed affair at Tom Mix's hilltop home one night. In the midst of festivities, a bewildered couple appeared confused as to what to do. A gentleman quickly detached himself and approached, with: "I am Charlie Chaplin. Mr. Mix is in another part of the house. Please meet my friends and make yourselves at home."

The most insufferable behavior in public I ever witnessed, was one of those reduced duchesses in a theater one evening. She insisted on airing her Shropshire pedigree during a tense death scene until the audience turned on her with hisses.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

After you're 45 you begin thinking how different life would have been IF—

If you'd married the other man, or the other woman.

Or not married at all.

If you'd stayed in the little town where you were born; gone on living in the dear, familiar streets; bringing up your family with the dear, familiar friends—would that have been better?

Or if you HADN'T stayed in that little town—

If, instead, you'd gone out into the Big World—

Broken all the old ties; adjusted yourself to entirely new places, new faces—what then?

If you'd gone on with the job where you started—turned your back on ambition; controlled your restlessness; been content with slow but safe advancement—

Or, perhaps, done just the other thing—forced yourself out of the rut; shamed your own timidity; disregarded neighborly warnings; taken a chance—

Which would have been wiser?

Or there was that mistake you made—

Those gobs and gobs of mistakes you made—

The times you've lied; gotten yourself talked about; acted smarty—

The walls of resentment you've let rise between yourself and people you once loved—

Would life have been better, happier, if you hadn't done those things?

Or are you stronger and wiser because you did make a fool of yourself, and paid the painful penalty?

After you're 45, you begin to ask questions like that—begin an endless see-sawing of wonder and regret. Thinking it all over—and you do very little else—sometimes you're sad; sometimes you're glad; sometimes you're mad.

But always you're puzzled.

HOW DIFFERENT WOULD LIFE HAVE BEEN, IF—

Probably very little different in the long run, partner. For our fate isn't determined by the places we go, or the people we know, or the things we do. It is determined by our personal reaction to these things—to all things. And your reaction, in all probability, would have been pretty much the same wherever you'd gone, whatever you'd done.

Life might have been much more exciting, or much less exciting, if you'd lived somewhere else. People might have been more friendly, or unfriendly. Your health might have been improved, or handicapped. But, deep inside you, you'd have felt about the same; developed the same amount of courage, or kindness, or honesty, or ingenuity, or pride—or the reverse cussedness. And that's what counts!

WHAT YOU FEEL ABOUT THINGS—HOW YOU, YOURSELF, MEET THINGS—THAT IS WHAT COUNTS. THAT IS ALL THAT REALLY COUNTS.

FOR THOSE INNER FEELINGS AND SECRET REACTIONS MAKE YOUR REAL LIFE, YOUR REAL WORLD.

You don't live in peaceful ole Greenfield, or big, busy, blatant N'yawk. You live in YOU!

And the only things that really happen TO you, happen IN you. Banks may fail; jobs may cease; homes may break up; loved ones may die—and you think it makes a lot of difference. But it doesn't. The only thing that makes any difference is how you, yourself, take these happenings, IN YOURSELF.

LIFE IS AS YOU TAKE IT. LIFE IS WHAT YOU MAKE IT.

And since this is so, you needn't worry about Yesterday — the things you did and the things you didn't do. YOU CAN START RIGHT NOW AND MAKE LIFE WHAT YOU WANT IT—TODAY.

The Promise of An Epochal Year

By Claude G. Bowers

Author of "The Struggle for Democracy in America," "Founders of the Republic," "Jefferson and Democracy," "The Tragic Era" and other important works, now writing for the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

An Italian girl, or rather a good American girl of Italian blood, has written the President a beautiful letter, pulsating with genuine patriotism, in sending him a $5 gold piece and a gold chain. It is her simple contribution against the gold-hoarding semi-treason against the republic. She proves the sincerity of her patriotism by withholding her name. She is to have no credit on this account.

Vast numbers of people with very small amounts of hoarded gold have sent them in, and it is said that a very large part of the hoarded gold recovered has come from these. It is a tribute to their patriotism, and also to their respect for government.

Some hoarders of great amounts are said to have turned in their gold, but among this class there are great numbers who have not. These are among the rich and the powerful, who were in position to get gold in the thousands and hundreds of thousands. They still are hoarders; they still are guilty of a sort of treason in a national crisis.

Some of the worst offenders, we are told, took out their gold under a fictitious name. But to the average man it will seem incredible that the banks that paid out hundreds of thousands in gold to an individual did not know who was getting the money.

The names of the hoarders who have not yet returned their gold are being assembled, it is said. Any man with more than $100,000 in gold hoarded is not entitled to the protection of the government. Since we are at war at this moment against a national collapse these wholesale hoarders ought to be exposed and pilloried.

World Cannot Finance New War

Just now two movements of tremendous meaning are in progress—one here at home, the other in Europe. The failure of either may easily mean a major disaster. The failure of the world-wide movement on arms may mean another European war; and that would mean the final collapse of our existing civilization. Statesmen appear to know it, they say it, and yet they fail to act to prevent it. This is insanity.

It is insanity because the world cannot finance another war.

It is insanity because the masses are in no mood for another war.

The result would be that Russian communism would spread over Europe with lightning rapidity; that there would be a complete end to the processes of civilization; or the man on horseback would impose upon mankind a universal tyranny.

America Must Put House in Order

These conditions, universally, make all the more imperative the putting of our own house in order. Astonishing progress is being made by the aggressive leadership we now have.

The banking system has been caught at the edge of the abyss and dragged back to safety. Banks are more dependable today than they have been for a long while. Those now open are safe. Others will open later and be safe when they open. Vicious practices that so nearly led to ruin are over, and soon we shall have a reorganization of the banking system that will make these practices criminal and impossible.

We have been spending money at a ruinous rate, building up governmental costs that no people possibly can meet, and we have given dictatorial power to a courageous leadership to slash these costs. We are moving rapidly toward that balancing of the budget necessary for the preservation of the credit of the government.

We have modified the Volstead act; and that will mean jobs for vast numbers of jobless men; and revenue, that will help in balancing the budget and in preventing further increases in taxes.

And now a farm aid bill, frankly experimental in nature, but devised after consultations with experts, is pending in Congress.

Aid to Farmers Is Aid to Nation

Of course this measure is experimental. The conditions surrounding the ruin of agriculture cannot be reached by the old methods. New methods must be found. And anything new is an experiment.

When an experiment is proposed with the admission that it is an experiment and may be found futile, an atmosphere favorable to the solution of the problem has been created.

Secretary Wallace in a plain talk to the people in their homes has made the purpose clear:

"The basic purpose, first of all, is to increase the purchasing power of farmers. It is, by that token, farm relief, but it is also, by the same token, national relief, for it is true that millions of urban unemployed will have a better chance of going back to work when farm purchasing power rises enough to buy the products of city factories."

If the 30,000,000 people on the farms, who can buy nothing now, can be put back into the purchasing class, every factory in the country would begin to hum.

This measure pending represents the united wisdom of the most experienced agriculturist experts in the country. Their task was exceedingly difficult. They are satisfied that the plan devised is the best that can be found. The President has accepted it as an experiment, urged its adoption and promised to advise its abandonment if it should prove a failure in operation. It means everything that something is undertaken.

More Relief Plans To Be Considered

With the farm bill finally disposed of a plan for the relief of the unemployed will be offered—the best, we hope, conditions will permit.

And then a railroad bill to bring order out of chaos and end waste. We are all interested in this because of the relation of railroad bonds to insurance companies and savings banks.

Here we have a program ambitious beyond that of any with which a new administration has gone into power, but not only justified, but necessitated by the critical conditions that were found.

At length we are moving, moving rapidly as an army moves in action on a battle field, moving under an intelligent, confident, courageous leadership, and toward a certain goal.

And we are moving rapidly because Congress and the people of all parties are co-operating with the leadership in command.

Without the co-operation of the people all must fail; with their co-operation, success is certain.

Year 1933 May Prove Great In Achievement

If the party truce can be observed until all these emergency measures have been enacted and put in operation, it is possible that Congress may adjourn in early May, not to meet again until in January. That will give an opportunity for the testing of plans devised. During these months the banks will be safe and the farm relief plan will be in operation; the opening of the breweries will decrease the army of the jobless, and public construction, provided in the unemployment relief measure, will restore more to the purchasing class; the reorganization of the railroads under a new measure providing for it will proceed, and the President, with extraordinary authority, can so reorganize the government as to lift impossible burdens from the backs of the taxpayers.

And there will be more for the administration in this interval—the working out of its plans for a saner economic co-operation of the nations in the revival of international trade.

With the continuing co-operation of the people, the present year may prove the most splendid in constructive and permanent achievement we have ever known.
